TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

We return our thanks to those of our subscribers who have been prompt in paying up their subscriptions. There is nothing that cheers Editors on in the hard path of duty and right in this fallen and wicked world, hs prompt pay on | the part of subscribers. They feel that their services are appreciated by their readers. And we will take this occasion to remark to those in arrears, that we are now engaged in reviewing ong subscription list, for the first time in ten years. We will send bills to all those, who are in arrease, in the course of the ensuing two or three wocks-and those who do not respond to our call, and particularly those who are in arrears over two years, either by sending us the money or giving us some good reason why the demand is not honored, they must not complain if we place them on a list, for further use, which we are preparing. These times affect the newspapers, quite as much as other branches of business .---Our Paper bills and labor are all cash-and the amounts due by each being small, and scattered, as our subscribers are, all over the country, it is impossible for us to collect these sums without showin decline of more than one-half. incurring expenses, equal to the value of the bills
