There is a large amount of suspended paper still aloat in the market, which is being slowly absorbed, and until the bulk of this is taken out of the street we cannot look, for any material improvement. The want of employment for the latoring classes has very materially reduced the consumption of all descriptions of misrchandies and produce, and until there is a general resumption in the manufacturing and the coal and iron districts, and there is some demand for labor, no revival can be anticipated.

A Mos in Illinois.—A mob in Peoris, Ill. has made a descent upon the houses of ill-fame in that city, expelled the immates, set the order formatter in the street, burned it to ashes; and sacked the houses. Some ten or eleven houses were visited in turn, and property to the value of $7,000 was destroyed. Most of the expelled parties have fied to Chicago. WORK RESUMESC.—The rolling mills of the Trenton (N.J.) fron Company are again running. About a hundred hands were employed last week. The trustees of the Montour (Pa.) Iron Company started another function and the Montour (Pa.) Iron Company started another function and the Montour (Pa.) CAPTURE OF LUCKNOW.—Our foreign advices have informed us of the rapiure of Lucknow by the British forces in India. The mutineers have been dispersed rather than destroyed, but in such a way as to effectually break up the contederacy, and reduce them to despair. To comprehend the plan of attack it is necessary to understand the position of Lucknow, which lies between two streams—the Goomtee on the north, and a canal on the south, and between these sheets of water, nearly parallel in their course, the principal buildings of the city stand. The line of the canal had been fortified by the rebels, and the largest structures inside definible. Bir James Outram crossed the Goomtee, and by a flank march turned the defences of the cault. The movement was so unden and skillful that the linear geats were panic stricken, rushed in vast numbers past our pointed artillery, and left the capital of Oade in the hands of the victors. The flight of the fugitives, it is said, will not occasion much trouble hereafter, for they will be hammed in between their pursuers on the East, the forces from the Purisuab of the victors. ins force from the Punjaud on the South, and the troops from Rajpootand on the North,—a discouraging prospect for men without a stronghold or saylem to which they can retreat in safety. Nevertheless, so much does war deaden the feelings, so much is the abedding of blood on a large scale the result of it. that some dissatisfaction has been expressed in England because the resistance of the mutineers was not greater,—because, in a word, they did not brave their destruction without flinching, and cover the ground with their bodies as at Delhi. Perhaps, after all, to them may be applied the old couplet, which tells us that those who "fight and run away may live to fight another das."
