CREAT DISCOVERY OF THE AGE OF IMPORTANT TO Tobacco Chewers! DR. GUSTAV LINNARD'S
Taste Restorative Troches,
The Great Substitute For Tabacco

IT is a well known and incontroverti ble fact that the use of Tobacco is the promoting cause of many of the most severe HENTAL AND PHYSICAL DISORDERS
To which the race of man is subject, as careful analysis and long and painful experience have clearly proven that it contains certain narcotic, and poisonous properties most dangerous in their effects, which by entering into the blood derange the functions and operations of the Heart, causing many to suppose that organ to be sectionally diseased.

TOBACCO affects also the entire nervous system, manfeature treatires all who have ever used the socious ifesting itself—as all who have ever used the noninu weed will bear testingly—in Lassitude, Nervous Irrits bility, Water Brash, Dyspepsia, and many other disci Are designed to counteract these cancill influences, and have proved completely successful in a multitude of cases, and wherever used. Being harmless in them elves, they exert a beneficial effect upon the outre system, restoring the Taste which has become vitiated or tem, restoring the Taste which has become vitiated or destroyed by great indulgence, completely removing the irritation and accompanying tickling sensation of the Throat—which are always consequent upon advantaging from the ure of Tobacco, and by giving a healthy tone to the Stomach, Invigorate the whole system.

Persons who are irretrievably undermining their constitutions and shortening their lives, should use these Troches immediately and throw off the injurious and unpleasant habit of Tobacco Chewing.

These Troches or Lozenges are put up in a convenient and portable form at the low price of 50 cents per box.—A liberal discount to the Trade.

Prepared solely by the undersigned, to whom all oveders aloud be addressed. JAS. E. BOWERS, Druggist, Corner 2d and flace streets, Philadelphia, March 20, '58

PEEDING MILK COWS From "Flint's Dairy Farming" we copy he following sound and judicious remarks on the subject of feeding milk cows: "Keep the cows constantly in good condiion." ought, therefore, to be the motto of every dairy farmer, posted up over the barn door, and over the stalls, and over the milk room, and repeated to the boys whenever there is danger of forgetting it. It is the great secret of success; and the difference between mecess and failure turns upon it. Cows in milk require more food in proportion to their size and weight, than either oxen or young In order to keep cows in milk well and economically, regularity is next in importance o a full supply of nutritious food. The healthy animal stomuch is a very nice chronometer, and it is of the utmost importance to bbserve regular hours in feeding, cleaning and milking. This is a point, also, in which many farmers are at fault-feeding whenever it happens to be convenient. The cattle are thus kept in a restless condition, constantly expecting food when the keeper enters the barn, while, if regular hours are adhered to, they know exactly when they are to be fed, and they rest quietly till the time arrives. Go into a well-regulated dairy establishment an hour before the time of feeding, and scarcely an animal will rise to its feet; while, if it happens to be the hour of feeding, the whole herd will be likely to rise and spize their food with an avidity and relish not to be mistaken. With respect to the exact routine to be pursued, no rule could be prescribed which rould apply to all cases; and each individual nust be governed much by circumstances 🖁 both in respect to the particular kinds of fee.

at different seasons of the year, and the system of feeding. I have found in my own practice, and in the practice of the most sucessful dairymen, that, in order to encourage the largest secretion of milk in stalled cows, one of the best courses is to feed in the morning, either at the time of milking-which I prefer or immediately after, with cut feed, consisting of hay, pats, millet or cornstalks, mixed with shorts, and Indian, linseed, or cotton seed meal, thoroughly moistened with water. If in winter, hot or warm water is f better than cold. If given at milking time, the cows will generally give down the milk more readily. The stalls and mangers ough: always to be well cleaned out. Roots and long hay may be given during the day; and at the evening milking, or directly efter, another generous meal of cut feed, well moistened and mixed, as in the morning. No very concentrated food, like grains alone, or oil cakes, should, it seems to me, be fed early in the morning on an empty stomach, though it is sanctioned by the practice in the London milk dairies. The processes of digestion go on best when the stom. ach is suficiently distended: and for this pur pose the bulk of food is almost as important us the nutritive qualities. The flavor of some roots, as cabbages and turnips, is more apt to be imparted to the flesh and milk when fed on an empty stomach than otherwise. After the cows have been milked and finished their cut feed, they are carded and curried down in well managed dairies, and then either watered in the stall, which in very cold or stormy weather is very preferable, or turned out to water in the yard. When they are out, if they are let out at all, the stables are put in order; and after tying them up, they are fed with long hay, and left to themselves till the time of next feeding. This may consist of roots, such as cabbages beëts, carrots, or turnips, aliced, or of pour toes, a peck, or, if the cows are very large, a half-bushel each, and cut feed again at the evening milking, as in the morning, after which water in the stall, if possible.

The less cows are exposed to the cold of winter, the better. They eat less, thrive better, and give more milk, when kept housed all the time, than when exposed to the cold-Caird mentioned a case where a herd of cown is which had been usually supplied from trough and pipes in the stalls, were on account of at obstruction in the pipes, obliged to be turner out twice a day to be watered in the yard The quantity of milk instantly decreased, and in three days the falling off became very considerable. After the pines were mended, at the cows watered as before, in their stalls, the flow of milk returned. This, however, will be governed much by the weather; for in mild, warm days, it may be judicious not only to let them out, but to allow them to remain out for a short time, to exercise.

Anyone can arrange the hour for the several processes named above to suit himself; but when once fixed, let it be rigidly and regularit, followed. If the regular and full feeding be neglected for even a day, the yield of milk w immediately decline, and it will be very dis cult to restore it. It may safely be asserab as the result of many trials and long practices that a larger flow of milk follows a complete system of regularity in this respect than from n higher feeding, where this system is not be adhered to."
