FOR SALE.

THE undersigned offers for sale at a tract of land containing 9 acres, and situ-date on the upper Pt. Carbon road, about a half mile from Pottsville. It is also well adapted to the raising of vegetaries, and has some fine young apple trees and grape vines thereon. For further particulars enquire of GEORGE LAUER, Orchard Brewery.

His reasons for selling the above are, that he has purchased the Tumbling Run Farm from the Schuyikill Navigation Company, and wishes to make it so extensive Farm, which will require his spare time, and also intends making a Summer resert theeon, which will be one of the finest outside of Philadelphis.

SUMMER AND WINTER.

Winter-I will not be dancing, I will not go forth! This warm friendly stove All thy, fresh air is worth! Sammer -0, see now, how everything Joyinly springs!
And hear how divinely
The nightingale sings!

Wister—Thy springing and singing
Are nothing to me:
Covered up in my bed
I much rather would be! Summer—No long, r shut up In the house shalt thou stay; Far out in the world I'll drive thee away! Then far from this place
I an evile-will be;
Away to the high
Alpine mountains I'll fee ! You'll be in the mountains No mater than here:
I'll send my warm sunshine
And chase you from there!

Winter Ob, if you will never
At peace be with use,
You'll find vary soon
I will come out to thee! Well, then I would seek
In the greenwood a home
With the leaves and the lowers,
Where you cannot come!

Binter-I'll be there with my ice,
And my freet, and my snow.
And change all your green into white ere I go! Summer—I'll creep with my flowers
Down under the grass.
And lie deep in the earth
Until you shall page! Winfer—A freezing white cover
I'll over you cast,
Then safe from your faunts
I'll be resting at last!

Summer - I'll call the warm sun,
Who the call will obey,
And, with his bright shining, Will drive you away! Winter—If thus I were driven,

What good would it do!

For out of the world
I am nover to go.

So, Winter and Summer
At strife do appear,
And so they il be quarrelling
Still every year.
For, as Winter and Summer
Will never be o'er,
They must keep up this wrangling
And strife evermore!

[March 12, 50 11-2m than by buying more acres. My deed runs down to the center of the earth, and I mean to make the most of it, and I have found that this also gives me another advantage, for the deeper I get my farm, the higher my grain grows, so I gain in both directions, and by this means I reckon I'vetgot at least thirty per cent. more available space than formerly; at any rate my seventy dollars per scre land would now bring me ninety dollars-but I haven't got to the bottom nor top of it yet, and I mean to stick to it. . I have found by experiment that it is bes to run the plow deeper when raising onts and Winter grain, rather than when breaking up for corn.

Corn is an aristocratic plant, as you might know by its tasseled head, silk gloves, and long ears, and like such gentry it must have good nursing in the beginning, and the best living the land will afford. It sends its roots about, near the surface where it can find plenty of food, and where they can grow comfortably near the warm surface. If you plow deep enough so turn up the cold and hard subsoil, the seed planted at the usual depth will germinate where they meet with a cold reception, especially if the scuson be wet .-Scarce any Gop seems to be more benefitted by an early hart, or to be more injured by a slow painful sowth in the commencement.-The young plants seem to be discouraged. and not having force enough to dig down to find a good fiving they are apt to grow up sickly.

In cultivating this crop I have therefore practiced turning up all the soil, gaging my plow to run just on the aubsoil, and let the corn have the full benefit of the manure and clover which were plowed under. The corn crop is followed with onts, which can stand a wet and cold soil better. Then I drive the plow deeper, about an inch, as you recommended in your last number. The soil, mellowed by the previous hoed crops gives the oats a good chance, and they bear the subsoil mixture on the top quite well. The following crop with me is rye and seeded down with clover and timothy, especially the former .--Now I give the gage another turn, and bring up say another inch of subsoil, and the rye and clover dig for their living-and minemost admirably .- Correspondent of American Agriculturist.

How Does Your FARM PAY ?- A very im portant question this, which every farmer should be able to answer with a good degree of definiteness. It is not enough to know that one is getting along in a general way, without knowing what part of the farm is profitable and what not. It is possible to know how much profit there is in raising and fattening a steer, how much in a field of corn or wheat, how much in the annual produce of the whole

A good way to do this, is to keep an account with the farm from the beginning to the end of the year. Under the head of debtor, put down the interest on the cost of the farm, the money paid out for new buildings, fences, drains, for manures bought, for implements, seeds, live stick, hired labor, taxes, etc., in short, all the necessary expenses of carrying on the farm for one year. Then, on the credit side, put down all that the farm produces for home consumption and for market, and all that is added to its real value in the way of improvements. If it supports a family comfortably, besides furnishing something to be expended in improvements, it is undoubtedly paying well. And if, besides this general profit, each crop and each antmal raised, affords a clear and known profit, the farmer is doing well, and he knows how it comes to pass.
