A DISCORSOLATE WIDOW. -- After titte mile A Disconsolars Widow.—After mine mines of the most lonesome, dranty and hilly road that ever mortal man traveled, I came in dight of what I supposed to be the widow's house. It was a low cabin, at the foot of a hill with a remendous oak in front of it. I saw some one sitting under the tree, and, as I conversely a pearer. I discovered, it was a and some one signing under the free, and, as a properties of the free buried in her hands and weeping violently. As soon as I reached the spot, I addressed her somewhat in the following words:

"I do not wish to be impertinent, madam, but I feel some concern to know what is the matter with you?" "Ol boo-loo-est ouh! oh, me! Hoo oo-

"My dear madam, what is the matter?" I demanded, becoming really concerned at the manner in which she was neting. She kept up her agony of distress, while a group of six or seven children began to come from the neighboring bushes and gather close about neighboring bushes and gather close about Madam!" cried I, "in the name of all that's good, tell me what ails you !"

O, stranger!" she exclaimed, raising her eyes, blondshot with weeping, "my—boo-hool—has—boo band is—boo hoo-dead!" and again she relapsed into her fit of weeping. I was truly affected by the poor woman's distress, and though a poor sinner myself, I could not refrain from offering her some consola-

TRACING A PEDIGREE. Some men are boastful of their ancestry, while others are entirely devoid of all pride of birth, and have no more respect for the genealogical table of their forefathers than they have for Poor Richard's Almanac. The late John Randolph of Roanoke used to assert his belief that he was descended from the celebrated Indian Princess, Pocah mas, but it is not, known that he ever established his claim to that distinction.

Many years ago there lived in a near State a young gentleman who took it into his head that, like John Randolph, he was of Indian descent, though, unlike John, he did not know exactly the tribe to which his torefathers belonged. The idea was a perfect monomania with him, notwithstanding the efforts of his Some men are bonstful of their ancestry.

exactly the tribe to which his forelathers belonged. The idea was a perfect monomania with him, notwithstanding the efforts of his friends to convince him of the tolly of his pretensions, to say nothing of the absurdit of them, even if they could be established. The favorite notion, however, could not be eradicated from his mind, and he promised his friends that he would one day convince them that he was right in his claims.

Having heard that a deputation of Indians were at Washington, on a visit to their great father, the President, he promptly repaired to the city, and arranging with the gentleman who had them in charge, his friends in the city were surprised to receive an invitation to accompany him on a visit to the Red Men, accompany him on a visit to the Red Men, before whom he proposed to verify his favorite pretensions. The party met, as requested, and found the Indians sitting on the floor smoking their pipes, and manifesting but lit-tle appreciation of the honor of the visit. Having arranged his friends at a respectful listance from thenged chief, who still regarded the visitors with stolid indifference, the young the visitors with stolid indifference, the young man stepped boldly from the centre, and presuming that it would require some show of energy to arouse the chiefs from their apparent spathy, he placed his hand on his breast, and said with great fearlessness:

"Me Indian—long time ago."

The chief, who was not skilled in talking English, took his pipe from his mouth, but evinced no emotion whatever. Thu speaker then thinking that a more violent gesture and then thinking that a more violent gesture and a londer tone would be necessary, struck his hand upon his breast with much force, and said in a louder tone:

"Yes—me—Indian—long time ago."
Without moving a muscle of his face, the old chief slowly arose from his sitting posture, and turned his eagle eye upon the speaker.— His friends say that the chief evidently understood or at least appeared to understand the meaning of the speech addressed to him; and they gazed intently on the solemn proceeding. The young man bore the searching glance of the Indian without emotion. All felt "that Moving sufficiently close to the speaker, the chief raised his hand, and carefully taking a cher raised his mand, and carefully taking a lock of the young man's hair between his fuger and thumb, gently rubbed it between them for a moment. All stood breathless.—

Quetly withdrawing his hand, the chief uttered the slight peculiar Indian grunt, and said "Nig." This altogether unexpected denouncement anded the interview, and the discomfited descendant of Tommy-hawks retired with his friends, the latter roaring with laughter, and the former filled with a most sovereign contempt-for his degenerate Indian relations.

For Inflammatory Diseases Only.

New Medical Salt! New Medical Salt! IT IS NOT A CURE-ALL!

For Inflammatory Diseases Only. DR. COGGSWELLI'S NEW MED-lical Salt, instead of being a remedy for all illa, has control over but one ill, has battone aim, and ac-complishes but one thing, to wit: subbuts instrammano-ti indexes, whatever be its form or locality, whether in the head, throat, abdomen. extremities or skip. NIEW MEDICAL SALT .- lis peculiar excellence is, that without the uncless loss oblood and strength, it effectually cures inflammator Discases, (no others,) by producing an equilibrium of a the fluids in the body, the want of which is the sol CAUSE of inflammation. NOTICE TO INVALIDS!!-The following forms which the unbalanced fluids assume, and many not here mentioned, that have more or less fever, or pain, are as easily subdued by the NEW MEDICAL SALT, as fire is extinguished by water, to wit: Brain Fever, Headache, Rush of Blood to the lisad and Heart, Pits, Infanned eyes, ears, nose, lungs and liver, Neuralgia, Spinal affections, Erysipelas, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Asthma. Crughs, Dyspepsia, Venereal Diecesses, Rheumatism, tout, Scrofula, and all itching and other cutaneous eruptions. DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MED-ical salt exerts, like the vaccine matter, an ex-traordinary influence over the velus and arteries, result-ing in a gradual decline of inflammation as indicated by the pulse, which soon gressmes its natural state, as the heat pain and fever disappear.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MED-ICAL SALT does just what it claims to do—no more, no less—equalizes the fluids by removing from the system all arterial and venous obstructions. samed upon scientific principles, compounded of simples acting in harmony, set each failfiling its own remedial office.

To the Physician is here offered in a convenient form, yet perfectly safe, an Incitant, which, acting upon the circulation, raises the action of the system to the stand and of health, especially after any debilitating attack of disease, after depression from heat, or any local or actidental cause; an Anti-Sparmodic, which, with a general attinguant nower, acts with a peculiar influence upon the nervious system, calming nervous irritation, when taken properly, without the least tendency to the brain, and without that distressing reaction which is the bane of most tonics—often causing more injury than theoriginal disease.

As a Toxic, moderately and permanently exalting the energies of all parts of the frame, producing necessarily a healthy increase of the action of the virious organs, chemically changing the acidity of the stomach, and acting nermally upon the liver in regulating permanently the billiary secretions.

NOTICE.—Whoever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak and low-spirited. It will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

THE Proprietors and Manufacturers of HOSTETTER'S CELEBIRATED STOMACH BIT-TERS can appeal with perfect confidence to physiciaus and citizens generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore unknown. A few facts upon this point will speak more powerfully than volumes of bare assertion or biasoning puniery— The consumption of liestetter's Stomach Bitters for the last year amounted to over half a million bottle, and last year amounted to over half a million buttles, and from its manifest steady increase in times past, it is evident that during the coming year the consumption will reach near one million battles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the fare medicinal properties contained in the proparation, and the sanction of the country where the article is best known, who not only recommend the litters to their patients, but are ready at all times to give testimopals to its efficies in all cases of stomachic derangements and the diseases resulting therefrom.

This is not a temporary popularity obtained by extraordinary efforts in the way of trumpeting the qualities of the Bitters, but a solid estimation of an invaluable medicine, which is destined to be as enduring as time itself. time itself.

Hostetter's Stomsch Bitters have proved a God-send to regions where fever and ague and various other bill one complaints have counted their yietims by hundreds. To be able to state confidently that the "Bitters" large

LABOR.

BY PRANCES SARGENT OSGODD. Pause not to dream of the future before us, Pause not to weep the wild care that ome o'er us, liark, hos Creation's deep musical che cus, Unintermitting, goes up into lie veo! Never the ocean-wave faiters in flowing; Nover the little seed steps to its growing; More and more richly the Boseh-art keeps glowing, "Till from its nourishing stem it is riven. "Labor is worship!"—the robin is singing:
"Labor is worship!"—the wild bee is ringing:
Listen! that enquent whisper up-pringing.
Speaks to thy soul from our nature's greathest.
From the dark cloud flows the lite-giving above;
from the small insect, the rich coral bower;
Only man, in the plan, shrinks from his part. Labor is life !- Tis the still water falleth; Labor is life i—Tis, the still water faileth; lakenes ever desprieth, hewaiteth; Keep the watch wound, tor the dark rust assaileth; Flowers droop and life in the still dress of nown, Labor is glory!—the thing cloud lightens; Only the waving wing changes and brightens; Idle hearts only the dark tuture (rightens;

Play the sweet keys, wouldn't thou keep them in Labor is rest-from the serrows that great us; Rest from all pelty wexations that need us.
Rest from all pelty wexations that need us.
Rest from all promptings that ever entreat us.
Rest from the world syrent that luve as to ill.
Work—the pure slumbers shall wait on thy pillow;
Wask—thou shall risks over these coming bulow;
Lie not down wearied heath Wos weepla; willow)
Work with a stout heart and resolute will! Labor is health—Lo? the husbandman resping, flow through his veine goes the like-current trading? If whis strong arm in its statwart pride sampling. True as a sumbeam, the swift sickie guides, Labor is wealth—in the sen the pear growth; Rich the question of the sen the pear growth; Rich the question of the strong forest bis wealth—from the human forest bis welf; Temple and statue the marble block hides.

Droop not, though shame, sin, and angulah are musi thee!

Bravely fing off the cold chain that hath bound the!
Look to you'pure lieaven smiling beyond thee:
Rest not content in thy darkness—a clod!
Work—for some groot, be it ever so slowly;
Cherish some flower, be it ever so lowly;
Labor:—all labor is notice and holy:
Let thy great deeds be thy prayer to thy God.

· IN-DOOR GARDENING. At this bleak season, out door gardening is of course out of the question. Where but recently a bloom of beauty greeted the eye, we now look only upon trozen ground, covered perhaps with a sleet of snow, and there are only dried broken stems, with here and there a few evergreen shrubs. But the "gude housewife"-to whose care the flower garden and borders generally owe their, chief attractions in Summer-has, we trust, lorescen the present season, and provided for it. Her floral pets have not all been left to die at the first approach of the frosts of Autumn. We STANNELS—Ballard Valo Unshrinkario simmus; other makes of all colors and qualities.

and flower buds, eyen, may be seen upon some tle extra attention should be given to ventile when surrounded with heat, is alike injurious to both. The ordinary temperature of the room will suit the growing plants, providing only that this warmth is kept up during cold nights. The windows will afford sufficient light, although the tendency of growing plants to incline towards the strongest light is such that the pots may need an occasional turning. to keep the shoots in an upright position.—
Almost every one has observed this inclination in plants to lean towards a window, and temperature of the room—may be poured into the saucers, and will be "sponged" up through the hole in the bottom of the pot—Beginners in this kind of gardening are apt to use too much water. Bear in mind that the earth is not kept soaked with rain, the flower borders of the garden often appearing quite dry, although the plants thrive well.—

To imitate the outdoor dews, sprinkle upon the foliage occasionally through a fine rise (water pot sprinkler), or syringe. The common practice of throwing upon plants a little water, every now and then, as may happen, packs the surface earth, keeps out the air, and is every way injurious.

Every thing should be kept neat and clean, dusting the foliage, removing decayed leaves, moss and weeds, and pinching the leading shoots so as to form a compact, bushy head. The surface of the soil should not be allowed to bake or crust. Pick, it over with a shap stick or a knife. If any plant lags, give an occasional watering with one round of guano occasional watering with one pound of guano to five or eight gailons of water. If guano is not at hand, some of the liquid running from the manure heap, may be used. If it is not quite weak, add water enough to render the property of the der it so; it should be only of a brownish tinge—not very dark colored. If this does not have the desired effect, cut back to a mere
