Wit and Humor.

RIDING A TROJAN HORSE.

Doctor Josiah Campbell, who lived for many years on the Western Reserve, in Ohio, was a most skillful physician, but withal one of the most eccentric and absent-minded persons in the world, except Margaret, his wife, and she was fully his equal. One summer morning, the doctor was caught out in a tremendous shower, which drenched him to the skin. It soon cleared off, however, and Dr. Josh rode into his own yard, where he took the dripping saddle from his horse, and let him go adrift into the pasture. The saddle he placed on a stout log of wood which was elevated some four feet from the ground on two posts, where the Doctor had begun to build a platform to dry peaches on.

After having got his saddle fixed so it would dry, he took the briddle, and, putting the bit over the end of the log, he stretched out the reins, and hitching them to the horn of the saddle, went in to change his wet clothes and get breakfast. Josiah Jun., and Margaret Jun., were away from home on a visit, and so the two seniors sat down together to the morning meal. When they were about half through, Jim Atwood, a farmer, who lived about eight miles distant, came in, telling the Doctor that he wished he would go over to his house, as he reckoned he might be wanted over there, and then went off to the village in a hurry, after some necessary "fixins."

When the Doctor finished his breakfast, he took his saddle-bags, and out he went into the yard, where he deliberately mounted his saddle and set out, in imagination, for Jim Atwood's.

For a long time he rode on in silence, with his eyes intently fixed on Buchan's Practice, which lay open on the saddle before him.—At length he began to feel the effects of the fierce rays of a mid-day sun, and looking up from his book, he discovered a comfortable-looking house close by him, upon which he sang out lustily for a drink of water.

Aunt Margaret, who had been for the last two hours very busy in the garden, soon made her appearance with a pitcher of milk, and after the thirsty stranger had taken a long draught, they entered into animated conversation, the Doctor launching out into rapturous praises of the scenery about the place, the neatness of the building, the fine orchard of peach and apple trees; and the lady, who had caught a glimpse of the saddle-bags, made a great many inquiries about the health of the neighborhood, etc.

The Doctor finally took his leave of the lady, assuring her that he would call on his return and have some further conversation with her, as she reminded him so much of his wife, who, he was sure, would be very happy to make her acquaintance.

The lady turned to enter the house, and the Doctor had just gathered up the reins, when Jim Atwood dashed up to the gate with his horse in a lather of foam.

"What on airth are you doing, Doctor?" yelled Jim; "get off that log and come along."

The Doctor was greatly astonished at first, but after a few minutes it got through his hair that he had been all the morning riding a beech log in his own door-yard!

WOULDN'T OWN UP.

Joe Stetson was a wild, rollicking fellow, who spent most of his time in drinking and spreeing, while his wife, Polly, was left at home to do the chores. Upon a certain occasion Joe left home, to be back, as he said, that night. Night came, but Joe did not.—The next day passed, but, about sunset, Joe came up in the worst condition immaginable—his clothes dirty and torn, one eye in deep mourning, and his face presenting more the appearance of a piece of raw beef then anything else. Polly met him at the door, and noticing his appearance, exclaimed:

"Why, Joe, what in the world is the matter?"

"Polly," said Joe, "do you know long Jim Andrews? Well, him and me had a fight."

"Who whipped, Joe?" asked Polly.

"Polly, we had the hardest fight you ever did see. I hit him and he bit me, and then we clinched. Polly, ain't supper ready? I ain't had nothing to eat since yesterday morning."

"But tell me who whipped, Joe?" continued Polly.

"Polly," replied Joe, "I tell you you never did see sich a fight as me and him had.—When he clinched me I jerked loose from him, and then gin him three or four of the most sufficientist licks you ever hearn of.—Polly, ain't supper ready?—I'm nearly starving."

"Do tell me who whipped, will you?" continued Polly.

"Polly," said Joe, "you don't know nothing 'bout fightin'. I tell you we fought like tigers; we rolled, and we rolled, and we tumbled—first him on top—and then she boys would pat me on the shoulder, and hollow, Oh, my! Stetson!' We gouged, and bit, and tore up the dirt in Seth Runnell's grocery yard worse nor two wild bulls. Polly, ain't supper ready? I'm monstrous hungry."

"Joe Stetson!" said Polly, in a tone bristling with anger, "will you tell me who whipped?"

"Polly," said Joe, drawing a long sigh, "I hollered!"

The girls at Colusset make nothing of going into the water and bringing out a shark or a mackerel by the nose. They dig clams with their toes, and open quahogs with a pinch of the fingers. They live chiefly on sea fare; so that when kissed, they taste salt, and when they die, are preserved half a century. Their hair, in their old age, turns into dry sea-weed; and, if they have worn caps in their old age, the cap is stiff, and glittering with crystalizations of salt, and, if you fall in love with them in their youth, you find yourself in a pickle.

An eminent lawyer, in Glasgow, once had a client whose name was Widow Tickle.—He rose, and commenced to address the Honorable Court in this manner: "Tickle, my client, my lord," and paused for a moment. The Judge, who was considered a wag, broke in, after this most ludicrous style: "Ye maun tickle her yerself, Mr. McLaughlin; it's no the business of this Court to tickle yer client, my bra' mon."

"What a lovely woman!" was the exclamation of Lord Chancellor Eldon, upon passing a first class beauty, when passing up and down Westminster Hall, with his friend, the Master of the Rolls, previous to the opening of their respective courts. "What an excellent judge!" said the lady, when her sensitive ear caught the flattering decree of the Lord High Chancellor of England.

"ENE in the Lobby of the Opera House: Wichard, ole fellah, did you observe how that gurl gazed at my krevat? No Bwyon, I did not, for there was a sweet cweature in the boxes, whose eyes were positively inverted on my boots all the evening.

If you have a friend whom you desire to retain a friend, get in debt to him. He'll never leave you—he'll haunt you; and "in fond remembrance," ever cherish your virtues and the amount of your indebtedness.

CUFFY says he'd rather die in a railroad smash than in a steamboat burst-up for this reason: "When you gits run off and smashed up de boat, what is you?"

A debating club in Worcester, lately discussed the important question, "whether a rooster's knowledge of daybreak is the result of observation or instinct."

A paragraph [illegible] thus: "Women in arms!" Well, where should they be?

FOR SALE.
THE undersigned offers for sale a tract of land containing 9 acres, and situated on the upper Pt. Carbon road, about half mile from Pottsville. The property has a two frame dwelling houses, a small stable, and also a spring of never failing water. I will sell in one piece or in lots to suit purchasers. It is also well adapted to the raising of vegetables, and has some fine young apple trees and grape vines thereon. For further particulars enquire of GEORGE LAUER, Centre St. Brewery.
His reasons for selling the above are, that he has purchased the Tumbling Run Farm from the Schuylkill Navigation Company, and wishes to make it an extensive Farm, which will require his whole time, and also intends making a Summer resort thereon, which will be one of the finest outside of Philadelphia.

A RARE CHANCE
For Profitable Investment of the most Valuable Property in the Borough of Pottsville.
THE subscribers offer the following valuable property at Private sale:
No. 1—That well known tavern stand situated on Centre street, known as the NORTHWESTERN HOTEL, and kept for many years by DANIEL HUBLY.
This valuable property will be sold with the adjoining property—the two containing in front on Centre street 64 feet 6 inches, and extending westwardly along a 20 feet wide alley 230 feet to Second street, and northwardly along Second street 91 feet 9 inches, with the improvements consisting of a two-story frame tavern house with a large and commodious three-story brick building thereto attached. This building has been erected within a few years, and the whole arrangement is complete. The chambers, dining room and cooking department, it is believed, will compare with any Hotel in the County.
Also, A large and commodious two-story brick stable, with extensive yard room.
Also, A large three-story stone and brick building fronting on the Centre turnpike with a store-room on first floor and dwelling on the second and third stories.
This property, as a business stand, cannot be surpassed.
No. 3. That old and well known business stand situated on Centre street and for many years occupied by N. L. Loose and others, as a flour and feed store.
This valuable property adjoins Enright & Lerch's iron store on the north and James Silyman on the south, and extends westwardly at the same width 85 feet with right of alley way from Centre street through the arched alley now used for the hotel and adjoining property.
The buildings on the property consist of a good and substantial two-story stone building forty feet deep, the first story occupied as a store, and the second story as a dwelling, all completely arranged for two families.
To this is attached a large two-story framestore house with extensive granaries for storing grain.
This property from its location for business, as well worth the attention of persons desirous of going into the flour and feed business.
If this property is not sold before the 15th day of March it will be for rent. Possession will be given on the first of April next.
No. 4. Five lots of ground on Mahantango street, extending from the Centre turnpike road to Second street, along said street, to the three story brick building on the southeast corner of Mahantango and Second streets.
This property is too well known to require any remarks.
Nos. 1 and 2, adjoining three story brick building, containing in front on Mahantango street, 42 feet, and in depth 60 feet, with frame market house, occupied by HENRY ROSENGARDEN.
No. 3, containing in front on Mahantango street, 21 feet, and in depth 40 feet, with frame office, occupied by KIRK & BAUM.
Nos. 4 and 5, containing in front on Mahantango St., 43 feet, 11 inches, and in depth 40 feet, with three brick offices occupied by JACOB REED, Esq., F. J. FARVIN and SAMUEL SHILTNER.
This property for the erection of offices or public buildings, cannot be excelled by any other property in this borough. These lots will be sold along or all together to suit purchasers.
No. 5. This desirable dwelling is situated on the south east corner of Mahantango and Second streets; for comfort and convenience as a commodious dwelling, it has few superiors in the borough.
This property contains 24 feet, 6 inches front on Mahantango street, by 120 feet of Second, thence along Second street, 94 feet, 4 inches to Hotel stable, thence eastwardly along said stable, 48 feet, 6 inches, thence northwardly 94 feet along Hotel yard, 47 feet, 6 inches to the line of the 40 feet lots. This leaves a large yard to the dwelling on which yard is erected a convenient brick stable, with entrance from Second street.
