THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of their newspapers, the publisher may continue to send them, until all arrearages are paid.

If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their newspapers from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled the bills and ordered them discontinued.

If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the newspapers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers from the office, or removing, and leaving them unclaimed for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters!

THE Proprietors and Manufacturers of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS can appeal with perfect confidence to physicians and Druggists generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore unknown—few facts upon this point will speak more powerfully than a volume of bare assertion or blazoning puffery—a consumption of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for the year amounted to over half a million bottles, and still manifest steady increase in times past, it is evident during the coming year the consumption will reach one million bottles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the rare medicinal properties contained in the preparation, and the sanction of the most prominent physicians in those sections of the country where the articles is best known, who not only recommend the Bitters to their patients, but are daily at all times to give testimonials to its efficacy in cases of stomachic derangements and the diseases arising therefrom.

This is not a temporary popularity, obtained by extraordinary efforts in the way of trumpeting the qualities of the Bitters, but a solid estimation of an invaluable medicine, which is destined to be as enduring as itself.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have proved a God-send to persons where fever and ague and various other bilious complaints have counted their victims by hundreds. The ability to state confidently that the Bitters are a certain cure for the Dyspepsia and like diseases, is to the proprietors a source of unalloyed pleasure. It removes morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, invigorating it that tone and energy indispensable for the preservation of health. It operates upon the stomach, liver, and other digestive organs, mildly but powerfully, and soon restores them to a condition essential to the healthy discharge of the functions of nature.

Elderly persons may use the Bitters daily as per directions on the bottle, and they will find in it a stimulant peculiarly adapted to comfort declining years, as it is pleasant to the palate, invigorating to the bowels, excellent as a tonic, and healthy generally. We have evidence of thousands of aged men and women who have experienced the benefit of using this preparation in the infirmities of declining years, and general debility, acting under the advice of physicians, they have abandoned all deleterious drugs and fairly feasted on draughts of this article.

A few words to the gentler sex. There are certain periods when their cares are so harassing that many of them sink under the trial. The relation of mother and child is so absorbingly tender, that the mother, especially if she be young, is apt to forget her own health in her extreme anxiety for her infant. Should the period of maternity arrive during the summer season, the year round and is generally aggravated. Here, then, is a necessity for a stimulant to recuperate the energies of the system, and enable the mother to bear up under the exhausting trials and responsibilities. Nursing mothers generally prefer the Bitters to all other invigorants, and receive the endorsement of physicians, because it is agreeable to the taste as well as certain to effect a permanent increase of bodily strength.

To those persons to whom we have particularly referred, to wit, sufferers from fever and ague, caused by miasmata, diarrhœa, dysentery, indigestion, loss of appetite, and all diseases or derangements of the Stomach, enervated invalids, persons of sedentary occupations, and nursing mothers, will consult their own physical welfare by giving to Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters a trial.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, and see that the bottle has the words "H. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the cork or cap over the cork, and observe that our private signature is on the label.

Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and country dealers generally, throughout the United States, British America, and Germany.

Sales for sale by John G. Brown & Son, Pottsville; Peter Barre and G. J. & J. C. Lawrence, Minersville; Abel Tremont; Kitzmiller, Siese & Co., Pinegrove, Knoebler, Donaldson. [Dec. 3, '58 48-1y

TAMAQUA IRON WORKS.
Carter & Lee,
Iron Founders, Machinists, Boiler and Machinists' Tool Makers and Car Builders.

The undersigned are now prepared to receive orders for all kinds of Stationary Engines and machinery for collieries, blast furnaces, mills, &c. Extensive facilities in the business warrant them in taking the largest contracts at the lowest prices.

Particular attention is called to Ivens & Allen's New Style Patent Winding Machinery, by which the Slope or Shaft rope or chains run on the top of both drums in double ways.

This arrangement, it is confidently believed, will save in the wear and tear of ropes or chains, the price of the machinery in five years; and for fast winding, simplicity of construction and durability, it cannot be surpassed. We also have the right to use the Wheel invented by Mr. Lucien H. Allen. This wheel can only be had at our works, and has stood the test of the several severe winters past, triumphantly; not a single wheel having been broken under the severest strain. We are now placing it under the cars of some of the principal Railroad Companies in the country.

We would direct all the attention of the public to the Tamaqua Car Shop, connected with the above works, and recently erected for the manufacture of Railroad, Drift, Freight Cars and Trucks, and furnished with all the latest improvements, so that we are thus enabled to execute work much cheaper and with more despatch than heretofore.

All work guaranteed. Persons wanting anything in our line would do well to give us a call.

ENGINEERS,
Broad and Hamilton streets, Philadelphia, Penna.,

Would call the attention of Railroad Managers, and those interested in Railroad Property, to their System of Locomotive Engines, in which they are adapted to the various inclines and curves of Railroads, strength of superstructure, and rail and work to be done. By these means the maximum useful effect of the power is secured with the least expense for attendance, cost of fuel, and repairs to the Machine and Engine. With these objects in view, and as the result of twenty-three years practical experience in the business by our senior partner, we manufacture five different kinds of Engines, and several classes of sizes of each kind. Particular attention paid to the strength of the machinery in the plan and workmanship of all the details. Our long experience and opportunities of obtaining information, enables us to offer these engines with the assurance that in efficiency, economy and durability, they will compare favorably with those of any other kind in use. We also furnish to order, wheels, axles, bowling or low more tire (to fit centres without boring,) composition castings for bearings, every description of Copper, Sheet Iron and Boiler Work; and every article appertaining to the repair or renewal of Locomotive Engines. From the Atlantic Monthly.

THE PLAYMATE.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

The pines are dark on Ramoth hill,
Their song was soft and low;
The blossoms in the sweet May wind
Were falling like the snow.

The blossoms drifted at our feet,
The orchard birds sang clear:
The sweetest and the saddest day
It seem'd of all the year.

For more to me than birds or flowers,
My playmate left her home,
And took with her the laughing Spring,
The music and the bloom.

She kissed the lips of kith and kin,
She laid her hand in mine;
What more could ask the bashful boy
Who felt her father's kine?

She left us in the bloom of May:
The spiritual years told o'er
Their seasons with as sweet May morns,
But she came back no more.

I walk with lonesome feet, the round
Of uneventful years:
Still o'er and o'er I sow the Spring
And reap the Autumn ears.

She lives where all the golden year
Her Summer roses blow;
The dusky children of the sun
Before her come and go.

There haply with her jewelled hands
She smoothes her silken gown,—
No more the homespun lap wherein
I shook the walnuts down.

The wild grape waits us by the brook,
The brown nuts on the hill,
And still the May-time flowers make sweet
The woods of Kellymill.

The lilies blossom in the pond,
The bird builds in the tree,
The dark pines sing on Ramoth hill
The slow song of the sea.

I wonder if she thinks of them,
And how the old time seems,—
If ever the pines of Ramoth wood
Are sounding in her dreams.

I see her face, I hear her voice;
Does she remember mine?
And what, of all the words we spoke,
Who fed her father's kine?

What cares she that the orioles build
For other eyes than ours,
That other hands with nuts are filled
And other laps with flowers?

O playmate, in the golden time!
Our mossy nest is green,
Its fringing violets blossom yet,
The old trees o'er it lean.

The winds so sweet with birch and fern
A sweeter memory blow;
And there the same song sparrow sings
The songs of long ago.

And still the pines of Ramoth wood
Are moaning like the sea—
The moaning of the sea of change
Between thyself and thee!

I found written copies of the above highly intelligible and vindictive proclamation stuck up on every blacksmith shop, doggery and store door in the Frog Mountain range. Its bloodthirsty, vindictive spirit, its style, and, above all, its chirography, interested me to the extent of stealing one from a tree for preservation.

In a few days I found Sut in a good crowd in front of Carpenter's mack doggery, and as he proved to be about "in tune," I read it to him.—"Yes, George, that ar document am in yearnest, sartin. They dus want me powerful bad, but I spect eit dollars won't fetch me. I'll go myself, fur fifty planked down, ef yu'll go long and see me bev justice. Lite, lite, old feller, and let that room ove yourn blow a little, and I'll splain this matter to you. Ye see, I'm a leetle in favor as a pius passon in the seisty about here. Ye see, I went to last year's big meetin at Ratil Snaix Springs, and wet sittin in a nice shady place conversin with a frien in the huckil berry thicket, when the fust thing I know'd I woke from a trance, what I'd been knocked into by a four year old hickory stick in the hand of old Passon Bullin, corn his alligator bobbin hide! an he wur standin a straddle ove me, a foamin at the mouth an a preachin to me about sartin sins an my wickedness ginerally. My pur frien wur gone, and I was glad ove it, for I thot he meant to kill me with his club ef he failed to preach me to death, an I didn't see her since, skared like the devil. Then he gin a sorter shake an a twist, and he cum outen his britches, and he tuk em by the bottom of the legs an swung em round an hit a few times and then fotch em down cherallup over the front of the pulpit. You cud've hearn the smash a quarter ove a mile. Nigh outs about fifteen shortened biskit, a briled chicken with his legs crossed, a big dubil bladed nife, a slab ove terbacker, a pipe, some copper ore speciments, a heep of brakin' glass, a cork, a sprinkil ove whisky, a spat an three ove my lizzards flew permiskuely all over that ar meetin ground; an the upper and lore ove them big flax britches! One ove the smartest ove my blue lizzards lit bed fust inter the bussum ove a fat oman, as big as a akkin'd hoss, an nigh onter as agily, who sot thirty yards off a fannin herself with a tucky tail, an smart in the last, hit commenced runnin down.

"So she wur bound to falst, an did it fast rate; jist flung her tucky tail up in the air, rolled down the hill, tangled her legs an garterd in the top ove a huckilberry bush, and war thar all safe, an fair an quiet when I left.

"Now old Bullin had nuthin left on him but a par of heavy low-quartered shoes, short woolin socks, an sel shis garters to keep off the cramp, and his skaws wur a growin on him fast. He wur plump every, for he jist spit in his hands an leaped over the front ov the pulpit rite inter the middle ov the piss pant ove the congregation, hard-ly, as sot in to gittin away. He run, or rather went in a lamberin gallop, bevy, like an old wagon boss skared at a locomotive. When he jumped a bench he shook the yearth an his self on. Bonnets an fans cleared the way, as he hed a perfectly far track to the woods. His weighed nigh unto three hundred, but a black stripe down his back like unto an old bridle rein, an his belly looked about the size an antler ov a beef pasnch, and his a shakes from side to side. He leaned last from it like a little feller tetin ov a big drum at muster, an I hern it slosh plum to whar I wur. Thar was cramp knots on his legs as big as warnuts, an all over he wiggled me ov a crazy ole elephant what war possessed by the devil, with bits years, sweat, an tushes sawed off, and rared up as a gwine on bits blind legs; away from emediate trubble an tribulasion. He did the loudest and skarisest and fassest runnin I ever seed since dad raced with the horsets, to be no faster than it wur.

"Well, he disappeared in the thicket, an ove all the nises ye ever hearn it wur ther in a skritch ov two hundred feet or ther abouts: sum wimen screamin—they wus the skary wuns; sum larfin—they wus the wicked ones; sum cryin—they wus the fool ones, (sorter ove the Lovengood stripe;) sum tryin to git away ur hide ther faces—they wus the modest ones; some lookin arter ole Bullin—they wus the curious wuns; some hangin to ther bows—they wus the sweet wuns; some on ther knees with their eyes shut, but ther faces turned the way the old snadarkil was a runnin—they wus the cowerdid wuns; sum didn't nuthin, they wus the waitin wuns; and the most dangerous ove all ove em by a darned long sites. I tuck a big skear myself, arter a bibil about as big as a brick, a discipline, an a book called a katapiasm, a few rocks, an skit like fruit spattered on to the pulpit ni onto my hed, an as the Lovengoods, durn em I knows nothin but to run when they git skared I jist put towards the congregation ov the Lord, I started a black bottle of baldface, smashed agin a tree fore inst me. Sum dared fool professor dun this, wrecked more soul than sence; for I say ther any man who'd want a guard ove good whisky for the chance of knockin a poor devil like me down with it, if the bottil wuz wuth nothin, isn't as smart as old squire Mackmullin, an he shot hisself with a fine bankil, and he wasn't tested at that. Well, you know, George, I orter run fast—jist look at these legs—I used em sum atween that meetin grown an the swamp, and they haint hotch me yet.

"Ole Barbelly Bullin, (as they call him,) since his tribulation with the hell sarpints, haint preached but wunst; and then he hedn't an oman to hear im. His text wus, "Nakid I cum into the world an I'm agwine outen it the same way ov I'm spared till then." I'm told 'twar a powerful sarmint—it was hearn three miles. He proved that nakidness wasnt much arter all, ef you take the rite view ove the thing—that hell sarpints ove all sizes was skery, cold, and trubilsum—that it wasnt to be expected ove him, a poor, weak, frail worm of the dust, to be sarpint or lizzard proof either—that wus small sarpint of the tribe ove milesiidick ruinated the world through an oman—while he wur beset with a barril full ove em.—An sixteenthly an finally that Sutty Lovengood is the biggest raskil, fool, and scarecrow ever hatched in the mountain range.

"Now, George, that's the way he sez; but I want you to tell old Greenhog this for me—if he'll let me alone I'll let him alone; and if he don't or I don't lizzard him agin I wish I may be dorned inter a poultice. Lets go to the spring and mix a little ove it with this yere whisky (shaking his flask) afore you start. Mind, tell ole Barbelly what I sed about another big skeer, with—say a pack, or a pack and a half ove lizzards—try and skeer him of you kin. Good bye."

SINGULAR DEVELOPMENTS.—Within a few days some interesting developments in regard to the movements of the famous yacht Wanderer, in her piratical enterprises, have been made. According to a Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, there is in the Land-office at Washington, a policy which converts, upon an occasion, certain clerks into secret agents of the Government, who are employed in a system of espionage upon individuals, or as detectives, as the case may demand. Last Summer or Fall, when the yacht Wanderer's affairs were attracting considerable attention, an employe in the Land-Office, named Marshall J. Bacon, intimated a desire to be engaged upon secret service in that matter, and declared to Attorney-General Black and the President that he possessed information which would not only convict the owners and officers of the Wanderer, but also implicate certain prominent citizens in the South as to complicity with her movements, before and after her desparate venture to the coast of Africa.

Bacon's story was not at that time credited by the parties to whom he gave the information, or the Government was not anxious to prosecute the investigation. At any rate, no steps were then taken to throw light upon the subject. Recently, Bacon was discharged from the Interior Department, and, almost simultaneously with his dismissal, the Executive has discovered that not only were the original statements in relation to the Wanderer correct in every particular, but that the relator's int
