ANECDOTE OF THE PRINCE IMPERIAL.

Notwithstandin I hain't writ much for the papers of late, nobody needn't flatter themselves that the undersined is ded. On the contry, "I still live," which words was spoken by DANIEL WEBSTER, who was a able man. Even the old line whigs of Boston will admit that. Webster is ded now, however, and his mantle has probly fallen into the hands of sum feller in 2nd hand close, who can't sell it. Leastways nobody pears to be goin round wearin it to any particler extent, now days.

The ferment of which I was kurrat finely concluded, they was better adapted as Home Cards, which accounts for your not bearin of me, ear this, when the bauls is the thickest.

And there she cannon doth rear. But as a American citizen I shall never cease to admire the masterly attainments our troops made on Washington from Bull Run, a short time ago. It was well dun.

I spoke to my wife about it at the time. My wife sed it was well dun.

It haveh there4 bin determined to pertest Baldinsville at all hazzuds, and as there was no apprehension of any immejit danger, I thought I would go orf into a pleasure tower. Accordingly I put on a clean Biled Shirt, and started for Washington. I went there to see the Prince Napoleon, and not to see the place, which I will here take occasion to observe is about as uninteresttin a locality as there is this of J. Davis's fuler home, if he ever does die, and where I reckon they'll make it so for him that he will si for his summer cuzzins for ever after. I seed enuff to see why a man goes to the poor house or the penitentiary. It's because he can't help it. But why he should voluntarily go and live in Washinton is infinitely beyond my comprehension, and I can't say no fairer nor that.

I put up to a leadin hotel. I saw the landlord and sed, "How d'ye do Square?"

"Fifty cents, sir," was his reply.

"Sir?"

"Half a dollar. We charge twenty-five cents for lookin at the landlord and fifty cents for speakin to him. If you want supper, a boy will show you to the dinin room for twenty-five cents. Your room bein in the tenth story, it will cost you a dollar to be shone up there."

"How much do ax a man for breathin in this equinomikal tarvun?" sed I.

"Ten cents a Breth," was the reply.

Washinton hotels is very reasonable in their charges. [N. B.—This is Sarkassum.]

I sent up my keard to the Prints, and was immejitly ushered before him. He received me kindly and axed me to sit down.

"I hav cum to pay my respecks to you, Mister NAPOLEON, hopin I see you hale and harty."

"I am quite well," he sed. "Air you well, sir?"

"Sound as a cuss!" I answered.

He seemed to be pleased with my ways, and we entered into conversation to onct.

"How's LEWIS?" I axed, and he sed the Emperor was well. EUGENY was likewise well, he sed. Then I axed him was LEWIS a good provider? did he cum home airly nites? did he perfoom her bed room at a oneseasonable hour with gin and tanzy? Did he go to the Lodge" on nites when there wasn't any Lodge? Did he often hav to go down town to meet a friend? did he hav a extensiv acquaintance among poor young widers, whose husbans was in California?—to all of which questions the Prints pretirely replied, givin me to understan that the Emperor was behavin well.

"I ax these questions, my royal duke and most noble highness and imperials, because I'm anxious to know how he stands as a man. I know he's smart. He is cunnin, he is longheded, he is deep—he is grate. But onless he is good he'll come down with a crash one of these days and the BONYPARTS will be Busted up again. Bet yer life!"

"Air you a preacher, sir?" he inquired, slitely sarkastical.

"No, sir. But I beeve in morality. I like a wise beeve in Meetin Houses. Show me a place where there isn't any Meetin Houses and where preachers is never seen, and I'll show you a place where old hats air stuffed into broken winders, where the children air dirty and ragged, where gates hav no hinges, where the winin air slipshod, and where maps of the devil's "wild land" air painted upon men's shirt-bosums with tobacco juice! That's what I'll show you. Let us consider what the preachers do for us before we abouse 'em."

He sed he didn't mean to abouse the clergy. Not at all, and he was happy to see that I was interested in the BONYPART family.

"It's a grate family," sed I. "But they scooped the old man in."

"How, sir?"

"NAPOLEON the Grand. The Britishers scooped him at Waterloo. He wanted to do too much, and he did it! They scooped him in at Waterloo, and he subsekently died at St. Helenv!" There's where the gratest military man this world ever projuced pegged out. It was rather hard to consine such a man as him to St. Heleny, to spend his larst days in catchin muckerel, and walkin up and down the dreary beach in a military cloak drawn titely round him, (see picter-books,) but so it was. 'Hed of the Army!' Them was his larst words. So he had bin. He was grate! Don't I wish we had a pair of his old boots to command sum of our Brigades!"

This pleased JEROME and he took me warmly by the hand.

"ALEXANDER the Grate was punkins," I continnered but NAPOLEON was punkinser! ALIC wept because there was no more worlds to scoop, and then took to drinkin. He drownded his sorrers in the flowin bole, and the flowin bole was too much for him. It finnally is. He undertook to giv a snake exhibition in his boots, but it killed him. That was a bad joke for ALIC.

"Since you air so solicitous about France, and the Emperor, may I ask you how your own country is getting along?" sed JEROME, in a pleasant voice.

"It's mixed," I sed. "But I think we shall cum out all right."

"COLUMBUS, when he diskivered this magnificent continent, could hav had no idee of the grandeur it would one day assoom," sed the Prints.

"It cost COLUMBUS twenty-thousand dollars to fit out his explorin expedition," sed I. "If he had bin a sensible man he'd hav put the money in a hoss railroad or a gas company, and left this magnificent continent to the intelligent savages, who when they got hold of a good thing knew enuff to keep it, and who wouldn't hav seceded, nor resisted, nor knocked Liberty in the hed with a stingshon. COLUMBUS wasn't much of a feller, after all. It would hav bin money in my pocket if he'd staid to home. CHRIS. went well, but he put his foot in it when he sailed for America.

We talked sum more about matters and things, and at last I riz to go. "I will now say, good bye to you, noble sir, and good luck to you. Likewise the same to CLOTILDE!—Also to the gorgeous persons which composes your sute. If this Emperor's boy don't like livin at the Tooleries, when he gits older, and would like to imbark in the show bizniss, let him come with me and I'll make a man of him. You find us sumwhat mixed, as I before observed, but come again next year and you'll find us clearer nor ever. The American Eagle has lived too sumptuously of late—his gizzumin's becum foul, and he's now takin a slite emetic. That's all. We're gettin ready to strike a big blow and a sure one. When we do strike the fur will fly and secession will be in the hands of the undertaker, elected for so deep a grave that nothin short of GABRIEL'S trombone will ever awaken it. Mind what I say. You've heard the showmin!"

Then advisin him to keep away from the PETER FUNK auctions of the East, and the proprietors of dime lots in the West, I bid him farewell, and went away.

There was a levee at Senator WADE'S this NAMES, and I thought I'd jine in the festivities for a spell. Who should I see but she that was SARAH WATKINS, now the wife of our Congressman trippin in the dance dressed up to kill in her store close. SARAH is ther used to keep a little grocery in our town, and she used to clerk it for him in busy times. I was rushin up to shake hands with her when she turned on her heel and tossin her head in a contemptuous manner, walked away from me very rapid. "Hallo, SAL," I hollerd, "can't you measure me a quart of them best molasses? I may want a codfish, also!" I guess this reminded her of the little red store, and the days of her happy childhood."

But I fell in with a nice little gal after that, who was much sweeter than SALLY'S father's molasses, and I axed her if we shouldn't glide in the messy dance. She sed we should, and we Glide.

I intended to make this letter very sorts, but a few words may hav accidently crept in. Never mind. Besides, I think it improves a komick paper to publish a yoak once in a while.

Yours Machly,

WARD, (ARTEMUS.)

A six year old Boston boy, who had become deeply imbued with the martial spirit, undertook to set up a commander of a militia company, in a New Hampshire town, where he was spending his vacation. He somewhat "astonished the natives" by the following order, given in a very excited tone:

"Company! Enemy's coming! Forward, march! Amen!"

OFFICIAL.
