THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of their newspapers, the publisher may continue to send them until arrearages are paid.

If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their newspapers from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled the bills and ordered them discontinued.

If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the newspapers are sent to the former place, they are held responsible.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers from the office, or removing, and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facia evidence of intentional fraud.

Office of the Celebrated
BROAD TOP
White Ash Semi-Bituminous
AND
East Lehigh Coals,
No. 104 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

The undersigned would respectfully call your attention to the Celebrated Broad Top Coal, mined out of its own property, prepared directly under his own supervision, and confining his operations exclusively to this region, having no other coal for sale, (in the purchase of which he is not subsidizing a pure article of Broad Top Coal without the risk of having a mixture of Coals from various veins or from other regions substituted, which in appearance is very similar, but in quality vastly inferior. From the advantageous arrangements which have been effected with the principal Railroad and Canal Companies, purchasers can be supplied at the lowest prices, upon the most reasonable terms, and at the shortest notice.

For Steam Generating, Marine and Locomotive Engines, Rolling Mills and Puddling Furnaces, Glass Manufacturing, Blacksmithing, Coking, Brick and Lime Burning, this Coal cannot be excelled.

Its exemptions from Sulphur and Impurities highly important in the manufacturing of Iron, and directly so to Machinery, Rollers and Grate Bars, gives it preeminence. Its easy combustion, combined with its beautiful white flame, renders it a desirable fuel for Parlor Grates.

East Lehigh Coal.

NOTICE.—The subscriber having also been appointed Sole Agent for the sale of the Celebrated East Lehigh Coal, mined from the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company's land, by Messrs. Kemmerly, Dilworth & Co., is now prepared to furnish this desirable coal, shipped at Mauch Chunk, flatters himself that he can supply the trade with an article, in quality and preparation unsurpassed by any in the market.

SLAVERY IN THE UNITED STATES.

An Address Delivered by Geo. M. Weston, by request, Sept. 14, 1861.

MR. WESTON said:—No suggestion is more commonly made, and certainly none is more effective, to dissuade us from any effort whatever looking to the immediate or even remote extinction of negro Slavery in this country, than the representation that the evil is already so vast, and still so inevitably augmenting by the natural increase of the colored race, as to be beyond the reach of human help. The case is said to be hopeless, so far as visible means of relief are concerned, and we are piously told to wait until the mischief is terminated in some of the mysterious ways of Divine Providence. We are assured that as nothing of practical advantage can be pointed out, there is no duty resting upon us in the premises. Our ancestors, it is said, when our present frame of government was constituted, and when the mischief was of comparatively small dimensions, might have found some medicament for it; while for us, nothing remains but a reverent submission to it, as to a decree of fate. Suggestions like these we hear constantly, and we know that they have so suffused as an opiate to the conscience of the nation that so far from its having been regarded as a duty to attempt anything toward the extinction of Slavery, it has been, in fact, rather the fashion of the present generation to stigmatize those who have made such attempts, not merely as pestilent disturbers of the public peace but as impious recusants against an order of things established by God.

Negro Slavery, as it exists in this country, is undoubtedly an evil of vast magnitude, but I do not admit either that it has been or is an increasing one, relatively to the means of relief from it, or that we can be fairly exonerated from the duty of using such means of relief, by any real impossibility of curing, or at any rate, diminishing, restricting, and palliating the mischief.

It is not the absolute number of the slaves, or of the colored race, free and slave, which determines the practicability of freeing the slaves, or of deporting the colored race, but the proportion which such number bears to the total population and the total wealth of the country. If there is danger, or national loss, (which I do not admit) in freeing the enslaved, it is in proportion to their number as compared with the free; and so far as it may be supposed to be advisable to accompany measures of enfranchisement with a removal, more or less extensive, of the colored race to the colonies abroad, our power to do that depends upon the ratio of our wealth to the removals proposed to be made.

The increase of the white population in this country has been larger during every decade since 1790, than that of either the slave, or of the colored race, but the excess has not been so large, as announced in each successive census, as to attract marked attention. But in long periods, by the operation of compounding familiar in computations of the interest upon money, the effect of differences in the rate of increase of population becomes very visible.

Thus taking the whole period between 1790 and 1860, the dates of our first census and our last one, the total per centage of increase in our different classes of population has been as follows:

	Per cent.
White,	751.
Slave,	466‡
Free colored,	709
Total colored,	485‡

In the whole period, the rate of increase of the free colored holds up pretty nearly to that of the whites, but that grows out of the excess of its increase in the early part of the period, when the slaves of the (now) Free States were emancipated, and thus passed from the slave column in the census into
