THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of their newspapers, the publisher may continue to send them until arrearages are paid.

If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their newspapers from the offices to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled the bills and ordered them discontinued.

If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher, and the newspapers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers from the office, or removing, and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

GREAT BOOKS IN PRESS.

THRILLING INCIDENTS OF THE GREAT REBELLION; OR The Heroism of our Soldiers and Sailors ILLUSTRATED.

1 vol., large 12 mo. Price, $1 25.

The critics and the public are right in predicting that this will surpass, in graphic narrative, exciting interest, and extensive popularity, all other histories of the War for the Union. Its theme will be the heroic daring, patient suffering, and hair-breadth escapes of our soldiers and sailors, and its incidents will form the theme of conversation at innumerable firesides for years to come. It will contain, in addition to its stirring details, the philosophical Analysis of the Causes of the War, its Political Issues, Life and Services. Author of "The Rise of the Dutch Republic," etc., the dates of all the important events from the John Brown raid, and an accurate and revised account of the principal battles, with engravings.

One third the proceeds of all subscriptions sent direct to us will be given for the Relief of Disabled Soldiers, and all persons who wish a copy of the work, and also to benefit the soldiers, should send their name and address at once.—Also, any officer or private, or person in any section of the country, having knowledge of a heroic act or stirring incident, will oblige us by sending us an account of it.

BOOKSELLERS, POSTMASTERS, and CANVASSING AGENTS will be furnished with a Subscription Prospectus, on application to the Publishers.

☞ A liberal commission given to soldiers desiring to act as agents in taking subscriptions.

TO COAL OPERATORS.
Great Improvement in Coal Screens.
THE UNDERSIGNED are now prepared to manufacture, at their shop, in Minersville, all kinds of SCREENS for screening Coal, of the improved manufacture patented to Jonas Lonsdale, 4th February, 1862.
Screens manufactured by this process, are more durable, maintain their form better, and are furnished as cheap as any to be had in the County.
They are made of square iron, in such shapes as to prevent the Coal sliding from one side to the other before it is thoroughly smashed, thus preparing it better than can be done by cast iron or wire screens.
The manufacturers expressly request all Operations wanting Screens, to examine these new patent Screens at their shop, or at work at the Mammoth Vein Colliery of George S. Keppler, near St. Clair, where they have been in use for some time.
By purchasing Screens made under this Patent, litigation, or any trouble as to patent rights, will be avoided. All work done with promptness and despatch.

From the Hartford Courant.

Will you kiss me, if I will go?

The bulletin's out with news to-day,
News which stirs up a fellow's grit!
The rebels are running away, they say,
And I think 'tis time for me to quit!
Bounties are small since the draft was told,
And considerations are all of them scarce, you know,
But—I ask not for rank, I ask not for gold,
Will you promise to kiss me, if I will go?

I remember you wore the red, white and blue,
When Fort Sumpter's flag was torn down and defied;
I knew you were loyal, I knew you were true,
For I saw your fire glow with a patriot's pride:
While alone on my watch in the stillness of night,
As thought of that look; what cared I for the foe!
For our flag and our country I am willing to fight;
If you'll promise to kiss me, once more, I will go.

My hand shall be strong, my heart shall be brave,
When I go forth to join in the fight,
And our glorious banner in triumph shall wave,
And all of its stars shall be bright.
There are tears in your eyes, you'll give what I crave!
Stem your kind heart, I knew 'twould be so.
Oh! fear not for me, I am loyal and brave,
You have kissed me, Sue—gladly I go.

Hartford, Sept. 22d, 1862. "C. T."

I've kissed you, and you must go.

You remember you said if I'd kiss you, Joe,
You'd ne'er stop for rank or for gold,
Regardless of bounty you'd rush on the foe
'Neath the banner of Freedom enrolled.
I was glad when you said it—you saw my eyes shine,
For I love my dear country and you;
And I said in my heart if I died at her shrine
I'll never fear but to me he'll be true:
So I kissed you—and told you to go.

But you know how my heart was bleeding, Joe,
In anguish I parting with you—
How I longed to cling closer and closer—but no;
Twas my duty I owed to the true.
Your brothers were calling you, living and dead,
To come to the rescue—should they call in vain?
Would I keep you from them—from you'd we wed,
Though my tears should fall thick as the rain?
No—I kissed you and told you to go.

And, Joe, as I bid you farewell, let me say—
To God I commend you; look for triumph to Him!
May He be your helmet, your shield every day,
Through the toil and shock of the battle grim;
And may the kind angels over you hang
As o'er these they love, the heavenly shield.
As you spring at the sound of the war trumpet's clang,
And bear on in triumph the Flag o'er the field:
I've kissed you—now you must go.

Chicopee, Mass., Sept. 26, 1862. "Sue."

Address of the Union State Committee.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The State Committee appointed by the Union State Convention, which assembled at Harrisburg on the 27th day of July last, deeply impressed with the important consequences which are dependent on the result of the general election to be held on the 14th instant, again address you.—In the midst of mil tary excitement, and the peril of actual invasion by the armed forces of the rebels who have risen against the just authority of the Government—a peril which has been prevented by the gallantry of our troops and the enthusiastic rally of our people at the call of our Governor—the considerations connected with the action of the people at the polls have been largely lost sight of, and failed to impress the public mind with a due conviction of their importance.—While the movements of our armies in the field are full of the deepest interest, and absorb popular attention, no less importance is connected with the decisions of the people at their annual elections. If they shall there to sustain the Government with a sentence of approval, its main support will be withdrawn, and the public credit, which is indispensable to the support of military operations, must suffer and be impaired, if not entirely destroyed. The country has presented during its pending troubles an example unprecedented in the history
