A Word to our Subscribers.

You are all doubtless aware that owing to the scarcity of cotton, manufacturers have within a few weeks commenced working up cotton rag into shoddy for various fabrics in which cotton was heretofore used. This shoddy has doubled the price of rags, and has caused a great scarcity. This, of course, has largely affected the price of all kinds of writing paper.

Writing and letter papers, which cost six weeks ago, wholesale, at about 20 cents per pound, have risen to 40 and 50 cents per pound. Newsprint has also doubled in price, and manufacturers demand double the rate of the paper. This great advance falls heavily on the publishers of newspapers, and many in the cities and elsewhere have advanced their rates of subscription from 25 to 33 per cent, per annum.

We have concluded not to advance the price of subscription to the Journal for the present, but will advance the rates of Advertising.

Advertisers to us, we will be coming generations, if we fail; nor plain and simple duty? The owner of every foot of ground, of every house and workshop, owes a debt of service in the field, or of his means in this noble work? Take note of Taxes! they secure the Loans! Take the Loans! and the Taxes will fall more lightly—and they supply the ready, present and required means to strike the death blow at rebellion and the foul disturbers of a Nation's peace! Talk of God! Boles! They are the ministers of God who rules the world, and the destroyers of this mighty Nation! Our first duty is to God!—our next to our country—fail not of either!

Your nearest patriotic Bank or Bunker will supply the loan, on which so much depends.

Letter to the Advertiser in England.

The Albany Advertiser thinks that the mercantile contributions which our people are making for the benefit of the suffering English people by doing some serious thinking. Blinded as they are by passion and pride, the truth must come to them here.

—Among the people of the Free North—there to be found their best friends and allies; that here alone can they look for sympathy and succor in the hour of trouble. The newspaper will, of course, abuse us more violently than ever, and attribute all manner of unworthy motives to the movement, but it will be operated; but the better portion of the people will, in spite of their hostile predictions, think as in their hearts for the good work we are doing and think better of us than they have ever thought before. And they will live to be ashamed of the part they have taken in our controversy with the rebels.

—The High—The High—The New York Coal Companies, which I always knew were a great business, have been greatly improved by their efforts, and are now in a position to do business in the ordinary mode. This quarrel will live to the unworthy jacobins that made them rejoice in the prospect of our downfall. There are crimes against Civilization which a greater people cannot afford to commit—and which will be sure to bring retribution.

A Richmond Journalist.—In the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas on Wednesday last, Judge Thompson and Allison rendered a decision, upon the application for a permanent injunction against the Democratic majority of the County Council, in the case of Thomas J. Duffield, by granting the mandate, ordering them to restore Duffield to his rights of membership. This is a case where the Democrats endeavored to expand their influence, and the Republicans did not succeed in this.

Proceedings of meetings, got of a general nature, and were of a political character, interesting.

—Early advertisers will continue their advertising to the Journal, as the Journal's advertisements, sales of Real Estate, &c., are not included in regular business advertisements.

THE NEW VOLUME

MINERS' JOURNAL,

VOLUME THIRTY-NINTH.

Commencing January 24, 1863.

The thirty ninth volume of the Miners' Journal, and the thirty ninth volume of its sister publication, the Advertiser, has been published to the public, and its circulation has increased largely with the year, and is now equal to any English paper published in this country.

MINERS' JOURNAL,

VOLUME THIRTY-NINTH.

Commencing January 24, 1863.

The Rubia Mills of Messrs. Taber & Place, manufacturer of "Government," and other favorite brands of Coffee, having been brought in the recent great fire in New York City, corner Greene and Houston streets, have an entire building, 333 and 335 Washington street, where they are putting up, from fresh stock, their popular roasted and ground coffee for the various markets.

GENERAL BAYARD was killed in the battle Saturday, was buried on Sunday.

He was expected to be buried fire of the enemy. The commandant of the 1st Regt. of the 1st N.Y. Inf. was a hero.

—Those single soldiers who do not pay in advance, will be charged accordingly.

—The paper which has printed this notice, has been printed in the Miners' Journal, on account of its circulation, is worth a great deal to the paper.

The present is a hard time for those who are engaged in business, and unless the times are improving, and there is evidence of a long period of prosperity, it will be difficult to get in the market what is wanted.

—A CHANCE FOR CHEAP READING.

The Washington Star of Monday evening, has a chance for cheap reading, as the paper which was imagined at 4 A. M. yesterday, is printed at 10 A. M. today, and is sold at 10 cents.

—At the end of the year, School Teachers and Clergymen, in almost every state, those single soldiers who do not pay in advance, will be charged accordingly.
