WIRE SCREENS.

Screens manufactured by tals process, are more durable, maintais their form better, and are furnished as cheap as any to be had in the County.

They are made of square from in such shape as to prevent the Coal sliding from one size to the other before it is thoroughly assorted, thus preparing it better than can be done by cast iron or wire screens.

The manufacturers urgently request all Operators wanting Screens, to examine those new patent Screens at their shop, or at work at the Mammoth Vein Colliery of George S. Repplier, near St. Clair, where they have been in use for some time.

By purchasing screens made under this Patent, liftigation, or any trouble as to patent rights will be avoided.

NEW COMBINATION COAL SCREENS.

The undersigned take pleasure in announcing to Coal Operators and others, that they are manufacturing a new COAL SCREEN of their invention, which they will guarantee to wear twice as long, and do its, work better than any crimped wire Screen in use. The segments turned out by us can be bent to any circle required. We also guarantee that the mesh will always retain its original size until entirely porn out. In the crimped wire Screens the meshes frequently slip, and lose the proper mesh, before the Screen is half worn out. We manufacture any sized mesh of our New Combination Screen, used in the trade.

137 Mr. Diehm, who was associated with Mr. Beacham in the business of manufacturing Screens, at Norwegian and Railroad streets. Pottsville, having dissolved partnership, and disposed of his interest, has removed to Railroad street, in the reax of D. Esterly's Hardware Store, Centre Street, and associated with him in the manufacture of their new Coal Screens of all descriptions, Mr. Jasper Snell. He solicits a continuance of the patronage heretofore, so liberally bestowed upon him,

We are also manufacturing a style of Wire Screen by a process different from that used in making crimped wire screens, as good in every respect, to which the attention of Coal Operators is invited.

I stand upon the little bridge
Where I stood thirty years ago,
And leaning o'er the parapet,
I mark the rippling streamlet flow.
And say, as BEANFLOWER used to say:
"The years—the years that glide away." The swallows skim beneath the arch;
Along the bridge the children come;
Poppies and corn-flowers in their hands:
From the near school I hear the hum:
The willow-boughs still to and fro
Wave as they did years ago.

And there, all nestled up with flowers, And there, all fiestich up with hower
Peeps out my tutor's rectory.
Peering above the laurel ledge,
It seems but yesterday to me
I laid my Horace down and went
To where the slanting pollards bent.

And still the great weeds waving float
Beside the cresses olive-brown;
And there the crimson-spotted trout,
And the forget-me-not, I note;
Yet, Postume, O Postume!
Between us rolls Death's silent sea, Oft in our intervals of work,
We laid down Ædipus, and ran
To bask upon this bridge and talk
Of all the tutor's ways, good man,
And Brandlown grave, and wise womens
"The years—the years that glide away." Under the keystone of the arch
The sunny summer seems to play,
As when we threw the speckled fly
Just where the big trout lurking lay,
Until we heard the tutor call
Over the Tvy-covered wall.

And then the rector-would come forth And chide us to our crabbed books; And Hecuba and all her woes Recalled us from the crawlish brooks From Latin jokes, and quips and cranks, And idle basking on the banks.

Poor BEANTLOWER! he lies now at rest Beside the Wurra Gurra's tide,
Far from his kith and kin, and her
Who loved him move than all beside;
Time mocks, the cruel crowned Harpy!
Men's motto—"Carpe diem carpe!" And there's the little village church.
Where, thirty years ago, so proud,
We heard our tutor preach—his text
"At early dew, and as the cloud;"
And when we knelt to join in prayer,
The blackbird's plping filled the air.

The rector and poor CLARA dead! Well, I shall take the evening train, And plunge into the bity's roar,
And calm this throbbing at my brain.
The dream of life it fades to-day— "The years—the years, they pass away."

PENNSYLVANIA POLITICS. MEETING OF THE UNION STATI CENTRAL COMMITTEE. Address to the People of the State. Pursuant to notice, the members of the Union State Central Committee had their first meeting in the city of Harrisburg, on Wed-nesday afternoon, July 6th, 1864. The Committee was convened at the res dence of its chairman. General Simon Cameron, and on the reading of the roll a quorum appeared in attendance, and answered to their names. General Cameron then, in a few brief re marks, set forth the importance of the campaign the State Central Committee was about to organize. If a proper spirit of union ani-mated the individual efforts of the loyal men of the State, and if the State Central Commit tee labored earnestly and harmoniously, he did not doubt the result—Mr. Lincoln would be elected—the different county tickets, as nominated by the Union men of the State, would be successful—and thus, through these victories, the effort to triumph over the trai-

The Chairman presented for the consideration of the Committee an address to the peo-ple of the State, which was read, as follows: To the People of Pennsylvania. In the midst of a fierce conflict for the national life—responding to calls for large reinforcements to nable our armies successfully to combat with traitors—cheerfully meeting the payment of extraordinary taxation to supply the Governnent with money to conduct the war, and submitting to an immense increase in the prices of living, the people of Pennsylvania have nevertheless been able for three years to maintain a prosperity, and secure a healthy pperation in all the branches of their trade, inprecedented in the annals of any country he highest importance, because fraught with the most momentous issues. Ordinarily heretofore, political contests meant only a choice of policy as to the manner of admin-istering the government. The struggle of parties was for the possession of the powers of government, and merely to control their operation. Now, however, our political conests have resolved themselves into a direcand a positive issue for the safety and the permanence of the government; because, po-litically as well as sectionally, the contest at the ballot box and in the battle field must decide whether the Union shall exist or per-ish with the triumph or defeat of one or the other of the contending parties. Hence the unwonted importance with which our political campaigns are now invested. Parties are the government. They are composed of friends and enemies of that government. To choose between these parties equally interests the cause of lovely goals. ests the cause of loyalty and that of treason. No man can stand neutral between the two, and all who are not fairly for the governmen will be justly recognized as its enemies. Admitting that such is the new importance assumed by our political contests, we have an excuse as well as a justification for entering on the contest fast approaching, for the amendments to the Constitution, with all the zeal in our nature, and all the devotion that should characterize the patriot and the lover of his country in his effort to serve it. the Constitution granting the soldiers a right to vote, there should be no division. Among a free people, particularly, who are admitted always to be the most intelligent, such a right should be so well grounded in common and statute law, as to need no action, at this late day, for its exercise and vindication.— The soldier, in all lands, alike among civilized and barbaric nations, has ever been admitted to the highest honors conferred by the governments beneath whose banners he ought. His valor, his sacrifices and his devotion, have ever been regarded as themes for the poet, subjects for the painter, and material for the historian; and thus the calling of arms became one of honor—one which elicited the noble rivalries of compatriots, and where civilization refined the instincts been so conducted as to force combatants to respect and honor each other's qualities— the victor still to treat the vanquished as a MAN. The Constitution and laws expressly declare, that no man shall be deprived of his citizenship, except for high crimes of which he shall be charged and proven guilty. He must be summoned to meet such a charge of criminality in the presence of judges whose oaths bind them to do him entire justice. He oaths bing them to do him charle justice. The must be insured a trial by jury sworn impartially to consider his case. If found guilty, the sentence of his judges may result in his disfranchisement—but disfranchisement is not facts, and in opposition to all equity, there are those in the State who insist that disfranchisement should follow the highest service which a man can perform for his Government. There is a strong party today in Pennsylvania regularly organized, controlled by able leaders and sustained by astute and learned advocates, insisting that the service of a citizen as a soldier—the BEWARE OF COUNTERPRITS AND UNPRINCEBEWARE OF C

When it was deemed expedient, as it was undoubtedly considered by the Democratic leaders then. the elective franchise was extended to the absent soldiers in Mexico; but in the midst of a war waged by the upholders of an institu-tion from which the Democratic leaders detion from which the Democratic leaders de-rive all their strength, George W. Woodward, a Justice of the Supreme Court, and lately the candidate of the Democratic party for Governor, judicially denied the soldiers the exercise of the elective franchise; denied our brave defenders the right almost in the same breath in which he declared the right of the States of the South to rebal and secede from the Union! Fair men can see no difference in an American soldier voting in Mexico, while fighting beveath the flag of his country, and the same soldier citizen under the same circumstances voting in a rebellious State. Time nor place, within the limits of a free government, or in the service thereof, cannot influence, should not be permitted to affect the rights of a freeman. The government which is not able to insure him these authority of a free government which seeks to degrade a freeman, while periling his life in its defence, is a despotism more fearful than that which denies all right to the governed. It is not possible that such a government can last. At some period in its history, if the rights of its defenders be disregarded as the Democratic leaders now deny the right of the franchise to the soldiers, it will need while engaged in the prosecution of a war.—

In the trials of this bloody war, with the struggle just reaching its climax, the people of Pennsylvania suddenly find themselves involved in a political contest invested with arms to protect it both from foreign and domestic foes, and perish eventually, an object too mean for defence. as to secure him not merely all the rights he enjoyed before he entered the army, but increased dignity and power at the hands of the Republic. The enemies of this great principle oppose it only for reasons of expediency. There was a time when the Demo cratic leaders claimed that the army wa largely and even almost wholly composed of their partisan followers. When they were most clamorous in insisting upon the recognition of such a claim, the supporters of the principle, opposed politically to these leaders, were most earnest and even persistent in its advocacy. To them it was a principle of justice too sacred to be disregarded—too noble to be rejected—too important in its relations to the very genius and vitality of the Republic to be denied to in the service of the Government, and who still claim its highest immunities and most sacred privileges.

On the second day of August, ensuing, this question will come practically before the people of Pennsylvania. We do not doubt the result of the election as to the acceptance or rejection of the soldier's right to vote. But we would be false to the party which we re-present, and recreant to the creed which we idore, if we failed to avow in advance ou approval of granting this great right to our brave defenders. Penisylvania has many thousands of her citizens now in the army. They have all gone forth inspired by a sublime faith in the strength of a free govern-ment to crush a wicked conspiracy, and does it become us, while enjoying the halcyon blessings of peace at home, while the limbs of our soldiers are wet with their own blood, of our soldiers are wet with their own blood, and their weapons are dripping with the gore of traitors to say to them, "You have forfeited your citizenship; you are no longer worthy of participating in the control of a free Government; your positions must be with the slaves of the South—among the disgraced and degraded of God's children!" We cannot believe that the people of Pennsylvania are prepared to send such a message to their dellow-citizens in the armies of the Republic. NEVER FORSAKE A FRIEND.—When cue-mies gather round him, sickness fast falls on the heart; when the world is dark and cheerless, is the time to try a true friend. They who turn from the scene of distress, betray their hypocrisy and prowe that interest only moves them. It you haves friend who loves you, and studies your interest and happiness, be sure to sustain him in adversity. Let him feel that his former kindness is appreciated, and that his love is not thrown away. Real fidelity may be rare, but it exists in the heart. Who has not seen and felt its power? They deny its worth and power who have never loved a friend, or labored to make a friend happy. ONE of Johnson's men, taken prisoner, on eing asked what he thought of our forces and General Sherman, replied in the following rather extravagant, but at the same time truthful style: "Sherman gits on a hill, flops his wings and crows; then yells out, 'Attention, creation! By kingdoms right wheel! march!' And then we git."

AS A Frenchman in London recently conceived an entirely new style of self-destruction. He first bought an egg in the market, extracted its contents (by "suction,") and filled the shell with gunpowder. Then going into a very crowded thoroughfare he placed the egg in his month, and "touched it off" with a match. Instead, however, of hlowing his head to store the number when "tonched it off" with a match. Instead, however, of blowing his hoad to atoms, the powder, when ignited, merely poured forth a stream of fire and smoke from the aperture in the shell, but without doing any harm to the man. The astonishment of the passers by at beholding a human mouth suddenly become the crater of an active volcane, may be imacined.
