

CIVE ONE BOOK TO THE SOLDIERS. Citizens of Schuyleill County, you are aware that on Tuesday wext, August 2, there will be held a Special election, for the purpose of voting on three proposed Amendments to the State Constitution. The first, allowing soldiers to vote, is as follows. PIRST AMENDMENT.

Whenever any of the qualified electors of this Commonwealth shall be in any sciual military therefore, under a requisition from the President of the United States, or by authority of this Commonwealth, such electors may exercise the right of suffrage in all elections by citizens, under such regulations as are or shall be prescribed by law, as fally as if they were present at their usual places of voting.

SECOND AMENDMENT. The second amendment is also important, and is intended to prevent what is called 'log-rolling' legislation; it is No bill shall be passed by the Legislature, containing more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title, except appropriation bills.

THIRD AMENDMENT. The third is quite important, and if adopted will save much of the time of the Legislature which should be devoted to more important subjects of legislation; it is

The Sanitary Commission. The Coal operators and operatives of Schuylkill County have done well in contributing to the fund of the Sanitary Commission for the relief of the sick and wounded soldiers of the Union army. Those who have contributed, have done so liberally, all honor to them. Their names are on record, that posterity enjoying the freedom preserved for them by this generation, may read them with admiration and gratitude. But while we make this pleasing statement, it is our duty to say that there are yet some in this County, who during this war have realized princely fortunes, who have not yet contributed anything to the benevolent object. Some of their workmen have given, showing an example the employers are slow to follow.

In all kindness we ask the operators who have failed thus far to contribute, if they do not think they are direlect in the discharge of posed to soldiers voting. a most sacred duty, in the recognition of services by which they have been so greatly benefitted? They are indebted in the first place to the Government, which, when the be active in opposing the soldiers right to trade threatened to be seriously affected by vote. We intend, if it is possible, to let our unlawful combinations and violence, placed boys in the field know who are the men at a heavy expense, a sufficient force here to maintain order and enable our operators to prosecute their business. Surely some return every Union man to the polls. It would be is due for this outlay, and how could it be repaid in a better way than by contributing she should give a majority against the "First to alleviate the sufferings of the men who are Amendment." If needs be, lay business sick or who have been wounded while defending that Government in the field? Again, to the soldiers. it is to the bravery, the magnificent heroism of the men who fought at Gettysburg, and who have shed their blood on the soil of Virginis, and on innumerable fields in the West, that our operators are indebted for the preservation of their property from the hands of soldiers voting. It is to alleviate the sufferings of the me who fight with valor such as this, and fall wounded in this contest for our liberties, that our men of business, our coal operators, are asked to contribute a modicum of their wealth. Should compliance with the request be considered burdensome? Rather should it not be esteemed a pleasing duty? Assuredly, we need not enlarge upon this subject. Every thoughtful, patriotic man must realize his duty in the matter. It might be stated that there is no doubt that although the Reading Railroad is in the hands of the Government, all coal given to the Commission will be transported over

In closing this appeal to the coal operators who have not already contributed, we might state that in our "Memorial of the Patriotism of Schuvlkill County," a work in course o publication at this office, and which has reached so far more than two hundred pages, we intend to insert the name of every coal operator and his employees who contribute, where they will stand to their honor long after the clods of the valley close on their lifeless remains. A COPPERHEAD FALSEHOOD. In opposing the Amendment to the Constitution granting soldiers the right to vote, amendment will give colored soldiers the right to vote-thereby hoping to create an opposition to it. The falsity of the assertion is made apparent by a simple reading of the Amendment-which extends only to "the qualified electors." The Amendment is in the fal-

iowing worus:

"SECTION 4. Whenever any of the qualified electors of this Commonwealth shall be in any actual military service, under a requisition from the President of the United States, or by the authority of this Commonwealth, such electors may exercise the right of suffrage, in all elections by the citizens, under such regulations as are, or shall be, prescribed by law, as fully as if they were present at their usual places of election." As the "qualified electors" in Pennsylvania above cannot be extended to colored soldiers. It is not probable an intelligent man will be misled by this unprincipled attempt at deception, but it is worthy of notice, proving as it does that the modern Democracy are op-

Re Not Deceived Many think that the Copperheads will not make any formidable opposition on Tuesday next to the proposed amendments to the constitution. It is true that the leaders and journais do not oppose them openly, but they are secretly working to describ them. The leaders are quietly circulating tickets against the amendments, and are uttering falsehood after falsehood to effect their base purpose of withholding from our soldiers the right to vote.

A letter dated Harrisburg, July 22d, to the Chambersburg Repository, says: Chambersburg Repository, says:

"The event of the week was the meeting of the Democratic State Committee in this place, on Tuesday evening last. It was largely attended, and political movements of the grayest moment were discussed. The question of adopting the proposed amendment to the Constitution, allowing our brave soldiers to vote, was considered, and a unanimous sentiment was manifested against it; but how to defeat it was a problem most difficult of solution. All agreed that it must be done if it can be done, lest our heroes in the field should make the Union victories in the States too decisive; but they frankly admitted that they dare not openly avow their opposition to the soldiers voting.

dare not openly avow their opposition to the sol-diers voting.

"Heports were made of the progress of secret organizations in a number of Counties with the view of quietly throwing a strong Coppe nead vote against the right of suffrage to soldiers; and some of the more sanguine expressed the hope that by making no open opposition to the amendment, and thus disarming the friends of the soldiers, they might defeat soldier suffrage at the polls on Tuesday, the 2d of August.

"Anxious as were all to deny our soldiers the right to vote, this conclave of Democratic leaders right to vote, this conclave of Democratic leaders frankly confessed that they dure not declare their position on the issue, because it would make thousands of loyal Democrats desert the party rather than deny our heroic defenders their civil

Now, this trickery must be met and defeated. To do so effectually, let every man who knows our soldiers go to the polls on Tuesday next, and vote for the Amendments, especially the one granting the soldiers the right to vote. Let us not be defeated by apathy-a confidence that the Copperheads will not oppose it.

Messas. Editors: To-day I visited your town to transact some business. While here I conversed with different persons on the topics of the day. One of the persons T talked to was John C. Conrad, Esq. The conversation was as follows: Conrad said, "The Rebels are coming." "Are they?" I saked. He replied, "Yes. Oh it boats all. We are ruined." "Why? asked I." "Oh, said he, we can't pay our taxes. Let them take all I have and go to heli." "Who?" I asked. "The Government," he replied. "Why, we should not think so," I said. "O, they may be damned," he said. "Why," I romarked, "you should pay your taxes as well as anybody else." "Yes," he replied, "but I can't have no income." "Then rent your property to some one who will pay the taxes for you," I said. He said "that he would then have nothing to live on:" "Well," I then said, "I will give you my sentiments." "I was, in the army a long time, enduring the hardships and privations of a soldier's life. I forsook all that was dear, and was where my life was overy mothen hiave nothing to live on:" "Well," I then hiave nothing to live on:" "Well," I then said, "I will give you my sentiments." "I was in the army a long time, enduring the hardships and privations of a soldier's life. I forsook all that was dear, and was where my life was every moment in danger. I lost my hoalth so that I was unable do duty any longer; but as soon as my health is sufficiently recovered I shall not only re-enlist and shoulder the musket once more for my, country, but will also sacrifice the little property which I have, if it would assist in putting down the rebellion and restoring peace and property once more. Liberty is a sacred law," said I, "and we should sustain the government at any sacrifice, for it will secure our liberties. As long as I retain my life and health, the sacrifice of liberty. I and other soldiers who have lost our health and limbs, should have more reason to complain and be tired of this war than you' but sooner than submit to the wrongs attempted to be imposed upon the Government, and have justiced and liberty destroyed, we will uphold the war satisfactory to the nation, and secure the entire overthrow of traitors."

Mr. Editors, you will do me not only a favor but justice, by inserting this in the columns of your worthy Journan, and attaching my name, for it is hard for a soldier to have such language as Conrad used spoken to him, after his health is rained for life while standing as a wall of defence between such a man and our enemies.

I am, Very Respectfully, Your Obdt. Servt.,
OLIVER GOLDMAN. In the resolutions adopted by the Democratic County Convention we fail to find a word in favor of granting our soldiers the right to vote. Yet that party has the audacity to prate of democracy and equal rights.

The soldiers despise and execrate these men, and spurn their false lip-laudations.

Green's paper "How Rome is Governed," is very fresh and entertaining. "Headquarters of Beer-drinking," by Andrew Ten Brook, is a pleasant account of Munich, chiefly with reference to its enormous production and consumption of beer. "Spiridion's second installment of "Literary Life in Paris" is very agreeable reading. No. 8 of Mrs. Stowe's "House and Home Papers" is the best vein of that admirable series. An article on "Our Recent Foreign Relations," by G. M. Towle, gives a fair review of the latest volumes of correspondence issued by the State Department. There are some beautiful yerses, by Longfellow, on the funeral of Hawthorne. The other poems of the number are "Friar Jerome's Beautiful Book," by T. B. Aldrich, and "The Heart of the War," by Dr. J. This book is written with much common sense in a clear, agreeable style. It is not only useful to those who are already tainted with consumption, it is equally valuable to those who are well, in showing how by a little trouble the laws of health are to be preserved. Many people complain that they take cold so readily and wonder how it happons. By strictly adhering to certain common sense rules and avoiding, habits into which we are too apt to fall, the constitution becomes strengthened and the evil is greatly surmounted. This is the prevailing tenor of this book. It also treats of food, and explains the causes of indigestion. Mrs. Lewis also adds a few pages upon dress to her female readers. We heartly wish for the beneft of the sex that every woman could be led to read and consider these valuable pages, in which the evils of tight lacing and of insufficiently covered limb are pointed out, giving at the same time many ideas for obviating this difficulty. Those of the fair sex who grieve over the want of roundness in the arm, would do well to read these pages.

THE NEW LOAN. Secretary Fessenden, under authority of an acto Congress of June last, to issue an amount not exceeding $200,000,000 U.S. Treasury Notes, &c., has given notice that subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States. The several Assistant Treasurers and designated depositories, and by the National Banks designated and qualified as depositories and financial agents for Treasury Notes payable at the rate of 7.3.10 per cent. per annum with semi-annual coupons attached, payable in lawful money. These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder, at maturity into 6 per cent. gold-bearing bonds, redeemable after five, and payable twenty years from August 15, 1867. Congress of June last, to issue an am bonds, redeemable after five, and payable twenty years from August 15, 1867.

The notes will be issued in denominations of fifty, one hundred, five hundred, one thousand and five thousand dollars, and in blank, or payable to order, as may be directed by the subscribers. All subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars. Interest will be allowed to August 15 on all deposits made prior to that date, and paid by the Department upon receipt of the original certificates. As the notes draw interest from August 15. persons making receipt of the original certificates. As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from the date of the note to the date of the deposit. Parties depositing twenty-five thousand dollars and upward for these notes at any one time will be allowed a commission of one-quarter of one per cent, which will be paid by the Treasury Department upon the receipt of a bill for the amount certified to by the officer with whom the deposit was made. No deductions for commissions must be made from the devosits.

Accompanying this advertisement in a circular form is Secretary Fessenden's appeal to the people of the United States, in which he says: "The circumstances under which this loan is asked for and your aid invoked, though differing widely from the existing state of affairs three years ago, are such as afford equal encouragement and security. Time, while proving that the struggle for national unity was to exceed in duration and severity our worst anticipations, has tested the national strength and national resources to an extent alike unexpected and remarkable, exciting equal astonishment at home and abroad. Three years of war have burdened you with a debt which but three years since would have seemed beyond your ability to meet. Yet the accumulated wealth and three years since would have seemed beyond your ability to meet. Yet the accumulated wealth and productive energies of the nation have proved to be so vast that it has been borne with compara-tive case, and a peaceful future would hardly feel its weight, as a price paid for national existence and the preservation of free institutions. It does not deserve a moment's consideration. June 27, *63

London Hair Color Re It is your war. You proclaimed it, and you have sustained it against traitors everywhere with pa-triotic devotion unsurpassed in the world's history. The securities offered are such as should command your roady confidence. Much effort has been made to shake public faith in our national credit, both at home and abroad. As yet we have asked no foreign aid.

Calm and self-reliant, our own means thus far

Calm and self-reliant, our own means thus far have proved adequate to our wants. They are yet ample to meet those of the present and future. It still remains for a patriotic people to furnish the needful supply. The brave men, who are fighting our battles by land and sea, must be fed and clothed. Munitions of war of all kinds must be furnished, or the war end in defeat and disgrace. This is not the time for any lover of his country to inquire as to the state of the money market, or ask whether he can so invest his surplus capital as to yield him a larger return. No return and no profit can be desirable if followed return and no profit can be desirable if followed by national dissolution or national disgrace. Present profit thus accounted is but the precur-sor of future and speedy destruction. No investcouraged in the belief by the recent legislatic Congress, that our finances may be placed sounder and stable footing. The present dera sounder and stable forting. The present deranged condition of the currency is imputable in great degree to disturbances arising from the withdrawal of necessary checks often inevitable in time of war, when the expenditures must largely exceed war, when the expenditures must largely exceed any possible supply of coin.

The opportunities thus presented to acquire sudden wealth have led to vicious speculation, a consequent increase of prices, and violent fluctuation. The remedy is only to be found in controlling the necessity which begets the evil.—

Hitherto, we have felt the need of more extensive and vigorous taxation. Severe comment has been made upon what seemed to many a pundue timil. NOTICES. made upon what seemed to many an undue timid in and upon what seemed to many an unduc timulity and tardiness of action on the part of Congress in this regard. I doem it but just to say that very great misapprehension has existed, and perhaps still exists, upon this point.

Legislators, like all others, have much to learn in a new condition of affairs. An entirely nev system was to be devised, and that system mus It is not strange that the first efforts should have proved imperfect and inadequate. To lay heavy birdens on a great and patriotic people in such a manner as to be equal and so as to occasion the least amount of suffering or annoyance, requires time and caution, and wast labor; and with all these experiences it is needful to test the value of the system and correct its errors.

Such has been the work that Congress was call-able means to greater immediate profit, in specu-lating upon his country's misfortunes, may find that what seems to be present gain leads to future loss. I appeal, therefore, with confidence to a

Such has been the work that Congress was called upon to perform. I am happy to say that daily results are proving the Internal Revenue act to exceed in efficiency the most sanguine expectations of its authors. For the month of June, 1863, it yielded about $4,500,000, while the corresponding month of this year returned about $15,000,000 under the same law. Under the new $15,000,000 under the same law. Under the new law, which went into operation on the 1st day of the present month, the Treasury frequently receives $1,000,000 in a single day.

As time and experience enable the officers employed in collecting the revenue to enforce the strength of the provisions of the new law, I trust that a million per day will be the rule and not the exception. Still, much space is undoubtedly left for improvement in the law and in its administration.
