

THE PEACE QUESTION—IS THE WAR A

PAILURE! For some time previous to the assembling of the Chicago Convention, and since the adjournment of that august body, the cry of "Peace, Peace," has been rung in our ears in all its numberiess variations. When armed rebels fired on the gallant band of veterans within the walls of decided success, and ere long the Flag of our Someter, and raised their bloody hands in rebellion against the flag of their country, peace was let in the land. The loyal men in the North want not spoken of. Then, he who would have come peace, but unlike these Northern sympathisers, hot spoken of. Then, he was would have come peace, but uninke these Northern sympathisers, before the people, who had been aroused in their they say, "Give us peace, but give us freedom might, and plainly, openly advocated peace, first. Let us have War—war to the knife—until peace on any terms with the traitors in arms, who were even then marching to capture the Capital, arms, unconditionally, and then, and not until would have fared very badly. Treason then, in then, let us have peace." the North, was compelled to be wary. After the first flush of patriotism had died sway, and the people saw the gigantic size of the Rebellion saw that it was not to be overthrown in a short campaign of three months with 75,000 men; saw that the rebels apparently were increasing their armies, and becoming stronger, better supplied and better equipped as each month rolled by, there arose among the masses of the people—the loyal, devoted masses of the North-a firm determina tion to carry on the war and maintain our Government, though fire and blood swept in desolating paths through the fields and homes of the risings and impulsive movements, there was now s fixed, calm determination to "strike till the last armed foe expires." But while the people, as a people, were imbued with this spirit, and were going forth conquering and to conquer in the good cause, there were those who were traitors among us, and who began to show their treason and perfidy. They at first professed to be patriotic, and to be in favor of the maintenance of the Government, but after the Union arms had experienced their first reverse, their true principles were generally brought to light. Then was peace first hinted at, though they had not sufficient boldness to proclaim is openly. As time passed on and the war ber, and Lincoln and Jourson in November, "dragged its slow length along," the opposition leaders in the North, growing bolder with every the largest majorities ever given by that succeeding year, became more open in their cry staunch County to candidates for her suffraof peace. To-day, taking advantage of every straw in their favor, they advocate peace on any terms which the lords of the South may be willing to grant to the mudsills of the North. In their papers, in their speeches, in their correspondence and in their private life, they are industriously circulating their notions of peace. The leaders of the Peace party are doing their utmost to seduce the people from their loyalty to the Gov- Union men of this County and of this District, sophistry, and appeals to their assions. Re-

Me are asked in this resolution to suspend hostilities. Why? Because the foe has been striving to ruin our Government; to make us a laughing stock before the world; who has attempted to establish a government founded upon slavery; who has with bloody hands welcomed thousands of our brave men to hospitable graves; has at last repented of the error of his ways, and is willing to come once more under the protecting folds of the old banner, if that boon be but granted to him? No, No! This is not the reason; but according to these sages who so recently assembled in conclave in Chicago, hostilities must be suspended because the experiment of war has resulted in four years of failure! Have then, indeed, these four years of suffering and toil, hardship and heroism, marching and fighting, been one grand, stupendous failure? Have our brave men marched to the cannon's mouth, faced death in many a well-fought, battle, and many thousands of them laid down their lives a willing secrifice to the cause of their country, only to add more blood the cause of their country, only to add more blood. the cause of their country, only to add more blood to a monster failure? The Bucks County Intelligencer says truly, that Sherman's great victory at Atlanta is worth tens of thousands of votes to the cause of Lincoln, Johnson and the Union. It will invigorate the efforts of our armies in the field, and spur them forward to emulate his triumph upon other fields. It will inspire every loyal heart throughout the North with new confidence and faith in the glorious future yet in store for our beloyed country. To surrender now all that we have gained, by tendering an "immediate cessation of hostilites," as proposed by the copperheads at Chicago, would be but to confess ourselves unworthy to live under a free republican gorman. Sherman has demonstrated that the Rebels can and will be conquered—and to the triumphant victory won by his arms the people will resopond by another in November.
