And Sheridan, in due time, puts a red hot poker down the Valley, and Early's "forces are defeated, de-moralized, and fly to the mountains." The old rat Lee hastens to send Longstreet, and just then Grant gives a double turn to the engine, and both rebel flanks fall in, and he gains tremendous advantage both by a securely held advance within six miles of Richmond, on the James' river, and on the Appo-matox by an advance beyond the Weldon Road to sighting distance of the Southside Railroad. Yes, Lee is now compelled to draw in—concentrate; his old game of wig-wagging on interior lines has failed him. He will soon be forced to meet Grant's heavier forces or run. We need not speak of Sherman at Atlanta. Let us have done with croaking about generalship. thus speaks of the Commander-in-chiof on the day of the battle of Malvern Hill. On page 298 he says :

"The Commander-in-chief was evidently op-pressed with the deepest solicitude, for he accom-panied the Prince [de Joinville] and his nephew, to the war-steamer, and remained on board until ate in the afternoon, communicating his orders by signals and couriers. Dr. James Rogers, Bri-gade Surgeon of Robinson's Brigade, who had been ill with fever for several days, was likewise been ill with fever for several days, was likewise on this steamer, and afterward related to me the events and scenes of that day as they came under his eyo. He said General McClellan was evident-ly laboring under the deepest depression, and ap-prehended the worst results. But about 40'clock a displach came from General Marcy, saying that our army was holding the enemy at bay at all points, and in all probability would drive him from the field. This message seemed to lift an immense burden off the heart of the General, and he arose and walked the deck with a buoyant step, and from this time evidently listened to the bat-tle with new hope. But about 5 o'clock the Com-manding General rode into the line of our army, and remained until the action closed. Generat Heintzelman had sent to him a message that the troops noticed his absence, and it was exerting a depressing influence on them, and he could not be answerable for the consequences if he longer held hinself so far aloof from the scene of action and of danger."

Grand Union Meeting .- At Minersville, of [COMMUNICATED.] Day of Atonement.

Grand Union Meeting.—At Minersville, on Thursday night; the citizens were addressed by a number of eminent speakers of the state, under the auspices of the Republican State Contral Committee. The meeting was a large and en-thusiastic one, and notwithstanding the division of political sentiment existing in the town, the greatest cordiality was extended to the speakers, and their inconduce ware listened to with flor next Sunday evening (to-morrow,) after sunset, the Day of Atonement begins, according to Scriptural computation of time, the tenth day of the seventh month, Tishri. Three times the observation of this day is commanded in Holy Writ, and history testifies that it was always observed in Israel as a testifies that it was always observed in Israel as a day, of atonement, from the time of Mosés to our very age, althongth the ceremonies and observan-ces connected with it have changed several times. The idea of the Day of Atonement itself is grand and sublime, especially if we take into considera-tion, the crucities and absurdities to which the various religious systems resorted and still resort to make atonement before God for the sins of man. We need not mention again the Heathen crucities of this kind which went to the very ex-treme of sacrificing innocent children and chosen men; we only call attention in this respect to the "absolution" or the "Lord's supper." The peni-tent in taking the bread and wine, must believe they actually consume the Lord's flesh and blood. of political sentiment existing in the town, the greatest cordiality was extended to the speakers, and their speeches were listened to with the most-marked attention. Mr. F. S. Lambert of New York, was the first speaker. His remarks, addressed as they were, to the laboring class were of a nature such as could be comprehended by the most illiterate per-son in the audience. In dissecting the miserable subterfuges to which the copperheads had resort-ed for the purpose of gulling the people, he spoke with an cloquence that at entervals elicited the greatest enthusiasm. His speech, and as such went home to the hearts of those who were his listeners. Judge Shannon of Pittsburg, next followed. As the surgeon lays bare to the bone the flesh of the patient upon whom he is operating, so with his keen-edged political scalpel, Judge Shannon cut away right and left at the extrass. of the so-called Democratic party. How pestilential grew the athogs mean snowing all the while that the names of such men as Seymour, Wood, Long and Harris were being mentioned! With a skill and eloquence almost unequalled in volitical annals, all the clicanery of the McClelian faction was thoroughly unmasked and discovered. All party policy and temporary expediency was discounte-nanced, while every freeman of Schwirkhil Coun-ty was invited to come forward and take his stand upon the broad and comprehensive platform of seventy-siz. they actually consume the Lord's fiesh and blood. Can you imagine anything more absurd? Still it is so. The Day of Atonement in the Bible is without absurdity. It announces the doctrine that God this day forgives the sins of man, if he becomes conscious of his faults, horestly repents them, and firmly intends to avoid them. It is a day that calls all Israel together before the Lord to a holy convocation to rouse the sinner from his delusive dreams, and bring home to every contrite heart and every mind afflicted with the consciousn and every mind andered with the constraints of guilt. The means and ceremonies are simple and sub-lime. The worship in the tabernacio and the tem-ple of old had only two objects in view, viz: to rouse in every heart the consciousness of guilt and engender repentance, and to distil into the afflicted hearts the balm of consolation, "Thy lains are forgiven."

upon the broad and comprehensive platform of seventy-six. Judge Shannon spoke nearly an hour in length, was received with the wildest onthusiasm. Da-vid B. Green, Esq., of this town, was the last speaker. This plain recital of facts was cordially received by the audience, and elicited much ap-planse afflicted hearts the Dann of consolution, "iny-sins are forgiven.". As to the individual, only one act is required by the law, "Te shall afflict yourself;" the conscious-ness of guilt and gnawing tooth of repentance are the sorest afflictions of the heart; these are the only means of moral regeneration, without them all observances and ceremonies, however solemn to the sinner. This, however, must not lead Israel to cruel practices or absurdities, as it did and does Gentiles; for God forgives eins and ini-quities and trainsgressions; He himself appointed this day to the very purpose of revealing His mercy and grace to all those who return to Him from the path of sin, and He himself let you know through His prophet: "Inquire after the Lord when he is found, ery to Him when. He is nigh." After the destruction of the Temple at Jerusalem, neither the idea nor the doctriue and import of the Day of Atonement was changed, buly the ceremonies were, the worthip by prayers and aynins superseded the sacrifices. How sub-lime is the idea that this day all isreal, from one end of the earth to the other, come into their If we had the space to-day, we could readily fill two or three columns with a description of the grand mass meeting of the unconditional Union end of the earth to the other, come into their syngogues to re-unite bofore God, to cement again the union of Israel, that indestructable structure, that eternal rock made by God himself. en of Schuylkill County held in this Borough on Saurday last.
