OUR ECONOMICAL SOIRES. Economy in household expenses has come to be the leading idea of terrestial experience in the minds of Mrs. Bobb and myself. We calculate closely. We never did before since we were married that I can remember. But when butter costs at the rate of five cents a dab, and everything else in proportion, housekeeping expenses become a serious

"What a good papa he is?" whispered Sallie to her sister, next plate east.
"Oh, he's gay!" slanged Fred.

I gave Sallie some more gravy.
"Do you like kisses, papa?" put in Nellie.
"I like everything good, dear. Why do you ask!"
"Because we're going to have all the girls kiss you to night."

"They won't be big enough, Nell—nothalf. I prefer big girls to little ones."

"James!" said Mrs. Dobb, reprovingly.

"Oh, Mary Ann Smith is a great big girl!" said Nell. "Her dresses almost come down Do they?. That's encouraging. Is Mary Aun coming?".

looking as sweet as June roses.
I went out to tea, and when I looked in again, the room was filled with the neighbors' progeny, including Mary Ann Smith and two other big girls.
Such a staid conclave I never saw before in my life. There they all sat, as bashful as mice, never uttering a loud word, and scarcely daring to look each other in the face. I was vastly amusing to me to observe the conventional awe under which those boys, especially, labored; the very boys that had been saluting each other roughly in the street an hour before, perhaps pulling each other's hair; as sedate as deacons now. The ice was broken in this way:

One of the big girls, by the way of opening the ball, said to a youngster of some eight summers, named Joev Perry.

"It's a pleasent evening, Mr. Perry."

And then such a broadside of laughter! In less time than it takes me to write it the youngsters were in a hubbub as noisy as the meeting had before been sedate.

They played the "Post-office," and "Cedar Swamp," and "Forfeits;" and all that sort of games, whose principal feature is an abundance of kissing. I went into my study and began writing. The merry bursts of laughter came echoing to my ears, but they could not disturb me. I am a fond father.

One of the big girls came into my augus presence and threw & cushion at my feet, on which she kneeled, pouting up at me a pair of ripe red lips.
"Who's this?" said I, laying down my "That's Mary Ann!" cried Fred from the door-way, which was througed with giggling little spectators. 'She wants you to kiss

. Ah " said I, as memory suddenly recalled the old-time game, "how many can I have?"
"Twenty!" "Thirty!" "A hundred! cried a dozen voices.

Well, I'll take three, "said I, "and you may have the rest, Fred." Can't see it!" slanged the young hopeful, The young lady struggled after the orthodox manner, handed down from generation to generation of young ladies, and the children screamed with delight. "Hold her, Mr. Dobb "Kiss her, Mr. Dobb!" 'Rub her nose, with your whiskers, papa' That was from Fred, who had memories. We left them alone at last; I don't believe in old folks intruding too much on the enjoy ment of the little ones. They get along a great deal merrier by themselves. So Mrs.

Dobb shut the parlor door and left them alone while I shut myself up in my study. About half-past nine I went out and found the little guests had gone.

The above is a correct likeness of Dr. Schenck, taken many years ago, after he had recovered from Consump: tion, by a course of his "Schenck's Pulmono Syrur." The likeness although it does not represent him anything like as had as he was at, the worst, yer it is in strong contrest with the hale and vigorous looks of the Portrait below, which is the true likeness of him at the present time. The contrast between these two portraits is so great that many would not believe them to be the same person. Yet there are hundreds of persons in and around Philadelphia, who will recognize both portraits to be true representations. When the first was taken he weighed 107 pounds; at the present time his weight is 220 pounds.

Thirty years ago I was in the last stages of Palmongy Consumption, and given up to die. I resided in Philadelphila, and Dr. Joseph Parish, then of this city, ordered me to Moorestown. N. J., a distance of nine infles, which took me two days to get there. On my arrival I was put to bed, and there hald for many weeks. This was my native place, where all my family lived and had died of Consumption. Dr. Thornton, who strended my father in his last illness, was called, and gave me one week to fix up my affairs. He had seen all my family lived and hard died of Consumption. Dr. Thornton, who strended my father in his last illness, was called, and gave me one week to fix up my affairs. He had seen all my family lived and hard of the remedies I now offer to the public, which cured me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrating my whole system.

They soon repended the matter on my lungs, and I would spit off more than a plut of offensive yellow matter every morning. As soon as that began to subside, my cough, fever, pain, night sweats—all began to leave me and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty I could keep from eating too thach. I soon gained my tength, and I have been growing in fesh every since. For many years I have enjoyed uninterrupted good health, keeping the liver and stomach healths with the Scawced Tonic and Mandrake Pills, as I am of a billous temperament. My weight is two hundred and twenty pounds. On my recovery people would send for me, far and near, to see if their cases were like mine. For this jumpose I pay professional visits in the large cities. The consumptives wish to see the one that makes these medicines, and chronic ulcerations of the bronchial tubes can be healed. Such cases are dying hourly under the ordinary treatment of physicians, and just such are cured by the proper use of Schencks Pullmont Syrup, Seawed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

This is frequently caused by a fool stomach. You may burn it out with caustic time and sagin, and all they will get is temporary felled. Correct the stomach and liver, and they will heal up themselves.

Good nutrition is the remedy. If you had any discuse in any part of the body, it will remain there, and decay more and more, until you can get the stomach in the condition to direct food, and make new blood to take the place of discased matter. This is, the only way to heal cavities in the lungs and ulcerated bronchial tubes. Correct the stomach and liver, and nature will do the healing. Many persons, have an idea that certain medicines are great purificate of the blood. When blood is once diseased it cannot be purified; it is diseased, the same as the diseased matter in the system; but get the sparatus in order, the liver and stomach, and give it plenty of nourishing food, it will make new blood, which will take the place of that which is diseased.
