We have him, petticos and all, and it is expected that he will reach Washington to day. The particulars of his capture are published in another column. It seems that, Jeffy was making very good times, to the coast, with his official staff where he hoped to escap to Nassau. A strange accident brough about the capture. The cavalry wes engaged in scouring the whole country for Davis and his party, and two regiments or e from Wisconsin and the other from Michigan, encountered each other in the pine woods just at daybreak, when, in the unocitain light, each mistook the other for Davis' body guard, and a severe skirmish ensued, during which Davis attempted to run away from his camp disguished in women's apparel. As he was making rather sharp tione for a woman, and his long boots did not seem to belong to the sex, he was hailed, cardered to stop, and not doing so, was brought up by force. He appears to have drawn a bowie knife to show fight, but without doing any damage.

This is the second time in the course of his eventful life that Jeff donned petticoats ost complete and compact Map now published. Price He was engaged to fight a duel with Colonel Bissell, near Washington. The time, place, and seconds, were selected, when Presiden Taylor was apprized of it, and placed guards around the houses of the two belligerents to prevent their fighting. Davis donned one of his servant girl's skirts and left the house passing safely by the guards; but Bissell, less vasive, was arrested and couldn't come to time. The second ruse of Jefferson D. was less successful.

There are two charges against Davisme, treason; the other, murder. While some journals favor the propriety of trying him as one of the assassins of President Lincoln, it seems to be understood that he will not be tried before a military commission, but before the United States District Court Washington, on the charge of high treason. In either event he richly merits hanging, which we hope will be his fate.

A REL OF TERROR. Now that the War is over and the military withdrawn from the County, the Thugs of Schuylkill County who regard not the law when it is administered with inefficiency, with in fact, absolute imbecility, are commencing to inaugurate again in Schuylkill County a reign of terror. Murders are of weekly occurrence; threats against property are freely made, and the majority of the miners in this Region who are industrious and well-disposed, are awed by the ruffians who o accomplish their murderous purposes, use the dagger and pistol. In this County we have reached that stage when there must be either a change for the better in administering the laws, or the citizens must form! themselves into vigilance committees to rid the County of the cutthroats who are now in it setting the laws a defiance. There should be militia organizations throughout the County, but in lieu of them, the citizens if the laws are powerless to rose from vertigo, to which he has always protect them, must protect themselves. We don't admire this plan, but what else can we do in a county where ruffians are permitted to do pretty much as they please? When caught they are never adequately punished

THE ASSASSINATION CONSPIRACY. The trial has been made public, and occupies a large space in the daily journals. So far the testimony points conclusively to the existence of a plot to murder the President, Secretary Six weeks before the assassination, the arms with which the assassins were to defend themselves, were deposited in the house of Lloyd, a kind of blockade runner between Maryland and Virginia, which shows that the plot was deliberately concocted and well matured before execution. So far, the case against the prisoners named seems tolerably clearly made out. Who else were parties to the crime will be developed in the course of the trial. The assistant carpenter at the theatre. Spangler, is implicated very strongly by the testimony of Slecman. The facts which connect Davis, and the rebel leaders in Canada, with the conspiracy, as charged, will be looked for with interest. The trial will occupy several weeks, it is believed.

The following account of the death of the assassin Booth, was elicited on Tuesday. I is the most minute we have yet had. is the most minute we have yet had.

Testimeny of Litent. Col. C. J. Congers.

By Junoiz Holt.—Q. State to the court whether you and others were engaged in the pursuit of the munderers of the President! If so please take up the narrative at the point where you met the Confederate soldier, Jebb, who has just given his evidence, and what occurred? A. I found him in a room in the hotel in Bowling Green in bed. I said to him, where are the two men who came with you across the river at Port Royal? He said, I know who you want, they are on the road to Port Royal about three miles from here, at the house of Mr. Garrett, and if I show you where they are now you can get them. I said, have you a horse? He replied he had. I told him to get it and get ready to go. I told him I had just come from there, and he seemed for a moment to be considerably embarrassed. He said he thought we came from Richmond, but if we had passed by Garrett's he could not tell me whether the men were there or not. I told and he seemed for a moment to be considerably embarassed. He said he thought we came from Richmond, but if we had passed by Garrett's he could not tell me whether the men were there or not. I told him it did not make any difference. We could go back and see. He gct out his horse and we started. Just before we got to the house, Jebb, who was riding with me, said. 'we are near where we go through a gate."—Jebb went with Lieuit. Baker and myself to find the gate. I sent Lieut. Baker on to the gate, while I went back myself for the cavalry. We returned rapidly and a guard was stationed, around the building. When I went to the house Leiut. Baker was telling some one to strike a light and come out. I think the door was open when I got there. The first individual I saw when I got there, was he who was said to have been Garrett: I said to him. Where are the men who slept at your house? They have gone. Gone where? Gone to the woods. Whereabouts in the woods have they gone? He than commenced to tell me that they came there without his consent, and that he did not want them to stay. I said, I don't want any lying stories from you: I just want to know where those men have gone. He commenced to tell me over again the same story, and I turned to one of the men and told him to bring me' a lariat, and threatened to hang him to a locust tree because he did not tell ime what he knew. One of his sons then came in and said, don't but the old man, he is scared; he said i will tell you where the men are; they are in the barn; I went to the barn, and as soon as I got the e I heart somebody walking about on the hay. I stationed men around the barn, and as soon as I got the e I heart somebody walking about on the hay. I stationed men around the barn, and sieut. Baker said to one of the Garretts, (there had two of them appeared by this time). "you must go in the barn, and so on the hay. I stationed men around the barn, and sieut. Pottsville, May 20, 1865.

The quantity sent by Railroad this week is 10,-522 14-by Canal 6,412 00; for the week 16,931 14 tons, against 87,687 for the corresponding week last year. Loss for the week 72,752 tons. Notwithstanding the general stoppage in the supply of Coal, we learn there is no improvement in the demand for Coal. The truth is that there every thing at present, until the bottom is touched, when the demand for Coal will set in again,

"Great efforts will now be made by English capitalists and manufacturers to induce us to reduce our tariffs, and permit them to do all our manufacturing; they are beginning to sit this matter already. Our warm personal friends will be put forwerd to move the matter, such men as John Bright, Goldwin Smith and others who have stood by us through the war. Personally we own them very much, but we may frightfully abominate their free trade principles. They will struggle hard to break down our tariff. See if this does not prove true. There will be a terrible pressure put on the Government."

This machinery comprises everything requisite for the boring of oil wells, excepting the STEAM ENGINE AND CAST IRON DRIVING PIPE, (but will be furnished, if desired, at a reasonable orice, and discenses nished, if desired, at a reasonable price.) and dispenses with the use of the Derrick rope, Bull Wheel, and other with the use of the Derrick rope, Bull Wheel, and other, cumbrois and expensive fixtures now in use, and is so arranged, being constructed on wheels and portable, that it can be easily removed for the purpose of sinking wells in different localities.

THE DETRITUS is removed from the well by our Patent Hydraulic process, and does not require the removal of the drill from the boring. This process not only removes all the detritus in from 5 to -10 minutes, but likewise effectually clears out and opens all the small oil veins that are so often entirely closed up by the old process of sand puraping. THE RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE FOR THE SOUTH-ERN BLACKS.—Daily the feeling is growing stronger that in the work of reorganization at the South the black must play an important part, by exercising the right of suffrage. The New York Herald of Saturday last, in an editorial article on the subject, says: an editorial article on the subject, says:

Against this demand, that as slavery is abolianed; and that as the African race have powerfully assisted us in putting down the rebellion, and in saving the life of the nation, they should have a share in the political right of the ballot box, what valid objection can be made? We cannot long resist this demand, in view of the extinction of slavery and the services of the Southern blacks during this war. With every opportunity and in every way they have been our faithful allies. We have had two hundred and fifty honisand of them in the service of the ermy and navy. Their battle of emacipation involving four millions of their race, has turned the scale in our favor, and we must yield to the sagacity of President Lincoln's emancipation edicts. It is folly to argue against established facts. We adhere to the lights of experience and common sense. Hence to the lights of experience and common sense. Hence we would say again to President Johnson, that he has nothing to fear in laboring to give the Southern blacks the right of suffrage in the reconstruction of the rebel-

Capture of one of Booth's Accomplices in Obio-The Manner of his Capture. Capture of one of Heoth's Accomplices in Ohio—The Thanner of his Capture.

We learn that Carroll, the man who procured the came in which the assassin Booth crossed the Potomac River in his flight from Washington, was arrested at Delphos, Ohio, on Treeday afternoon last, by Major Burns, a Government detective. Major Burns is a cripple, having lost the left leg. in the army, and after the assassination was employed as a detective to assist in ferreting out the guilty parties. How it happened that he selected Carroll as his "bird" has not transpired.—Dressing himself as an indigent soldier, with his crutch and cane, and a paper from a Government official, requesting Provost Marshals along the route of travel to afford the "poor soldier" such assistance as he might need, Major Burns started on the pursuit.

He first learned of Carroll at Alexandria, and then slowly but surely followed the track until he learned that the accomplice had a relative at or near Delphos, Ohio, when the Major went directly to that place,—There his letter of commendation secured him much attention from those able to lend him pecuniary aid, and enabled him to look about town without exciting suspicion that he had any special busings. After remaining there a few days he canght sight of Carroll, and with assistants, followed him into a store or raloon and arrested him. Carroll, taken he agrees was and with assistants, followed him into a store or raloon and arrested him. Carroll, taken by surprise, was completely overcome. It is stated that he wept bitterly, and wringing his hands, exclaimed: "They will hang me!" and by other expressions. me: they will hang me!" and by either expressions, evinced his fear at the approach of justice. When the gentleman who brought this news to this city left Delphos, Carroll was in fail at that place, awaiting the arrival of the guard to conduct him to Washington, the Government having been informed of his arrest.—Toledo Blade, May 11.
