A MAUGHTE STORY. A New York correspondent writes : Shall 'I tell you a naughry atory? Let its veracity excess it. Some time ago a carnival came off on one of the Brooklyn ponds. Everybody was expected to wear fancy dress and mask, and the affair being very select, good folks by scores, resolved to go. Among them were Mr. Polic-I see that you demand all the hames and his handsome lady, of Clinton avenue. Clinton avenue is the Madison Square, the West Green Street of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Foley is the most admired mistress of its most sumptuous dwelling. She was quite a good figure upon steel, having practised upon the Capitoline-not to speak of parlor skating, which teaches one the motion quite as well-every good afternoon. But unfortunately, Mr. Folie, who must necessarily make one of the party, did not know the use of patins, though to gratify his wife, who was much too "proper" to go anywhere by mght, unaccompanied by her husband, he consented to attend the carnival. Folie had pover seen his wife on ice, being a close business man, though something of a gallant, so he acknowledged her to be a nice thing. when gliding off so excellently, and "rolling" so elegantly. Poor fellow! Must he palter around like a cripple while she could skim like a racer? However, they masked at last in the separate buildings provided for the sexes, and put on their distinct costumes. Mr. Folie wore a dress of the time of Cosimo the First, and Mrs. Folie appeared as a fair Bretoness, with a peaked, starched cap and skirt gown, which gave her graceful limbs free circulation. Folie, being absorbed in business, had forgotten to ask what his wife's garb would be; but Mrs. Folie, to be well protected, had betrayed her domino to a gentleman whom she made promise not to reveal her incognito, and particularly to introduce no gentleman to her who was not absolutely fastidious and honorable. So they shot out for the pond; the ice was smooth as crystal; drummond lights threw wide splashes of brightness to and fro, but here and there were dark, isolated covers and corners, secure from intrusion. The people were numerous and the costumes so motly that the angel of the Plague would not have known whom to spare. So for an instant Mrs. Folie's friend disappeared, being a poor skater and unable to keep up with her, till returning, he made her acquainted with Mr. Dromio. Bowing merely, but not unmasking her. the new arrival glided to Mrs. Foile's side," took her hands in his, as couples on ice do, and they "rolled" off like two marvelous automatons. Dromio wore a splendid Floren-

"Say not so," exclaimed the ardent Dro mio ; "let us ourselves withdraw." They glided off to the far angles of the pond, where, unobserved their conversation PERPETUAL AND TEMPORARY POLICES ON LIBERAL TERMS. sweetened. At last the supple Florentine seized Mrs. Folie's hand and swore that i was the furest on Long Island. "Flatterer!" she answered. "If this were not the Carnival, I should be indignant." .. But since it is the Carnival, give me one kies von will not refuse me ?" She did not. They lingered a luscious moment on the margin of the world moral and the demi-monde, and then the bell at the great gate rang-the Carnival was over-it was

They slipped off the dark visages instantaneously, and looked into each other's faces. "Good heavens! It is Folie!" "My wife! My wife!" said the strong man, and they wilted. This closed the tableau. I may add that Folie was a good skater but, wishing to have some fun on his own account, had not told his wife so.

AN ACTHENTIC ANECDOTE:-Tallevrand was once in the company of Madam de Stael and another eminent French lady, whose name we do not remember. "You say charming things to both of us," said Madam de Stael to him; "which of us do vou like best?"

The wily statesman artfully replied that he severest test, but not one whit discomposed he turned to Madam de Stael, and replied-"Madam, you who know so many things, doubtless know how to swim." THE Gold Hill News (an admirable paper) does Miss Heron and "Medea" up after the style of Hiawatha. We give the opening stanza, which is a fair specimen of the whole: Have you seen Matilia Heron?

Not the lean and lanky maiden—
Maiden, angular and bony,
Years ago, in California. Took the rag from off the bushes, But Matilda Heron Stoopel ilda, fat and fair and forty? We have "been there;" we have seen her haw her act the fierce Medea:

Saw her act the outraged woman; Saw her act the wife discarded— Deserted and heart-broken mother, Saw her frenzied, fierce and maddened Wreak her fierce and awful vengeance

WARM INVITATION .- At a station on the overland route, the keeper got rather short of provisions-in fact, had nothing left but a bottle of mustard and some bacon. As the stage stopped there one day to change horses the passengers seated themselves at the table—and the host said: "Shall I help you to a piece of bacon?"

"No, thank you; I never cat bacon?" said "Well, then," said the staffon-keeper, "help yourself to the mustard!"

HERE is a pathetic love song : I pressed my beating heart, I smoothed my ruffled hair, I stepped into the room, I found Lorinda there.

I seized her lilly hand, I kneit upon the floor.

I told my tale of woe,

I whispered all my fears,
Then, what dive thick she did? Why, could boxed my ears!

Skeing Double.—A devotee of Bacchus, stepping out of a hotel at Elmira the other evening, and his perspective faculties 1 t being particularly distinct, tumbled unaware into the canal. After paddling around about half an hour, he succeeded in getting out and other worths dollar to a sick man for every cent they cost.

SICK HEADACHE, Its Symptoms, Cause and Cure. FEX WEEK has received its name from a constant usu sen or sickness at the stomarch, which attends the pain in the head. This headache is apt to begin in the morning on waking from a deep sleep, and when some irregularity of diet has been committed on the day before, or sometimes for several days previous. At first there is a distressingly oppressive feeling in the head, which gradually merges into a severe heavy pain in the temples, fraquently attended by a sense of follows and tendernoes if one oye, and extending across the formend. There is a claimity, unpleasant taste in the mouth, an offensive breath, and the tonsue covered with a yellowish white fur. The sufferer desires to be atone in a dark room. As soon as the patient feels the fulness in the head and pain in the temples, take a large loss of Schenick's Mandricke. Pills, and in an hour or two they will feel as well as ever. This has been tried by thousands, and is always sure to care, and instead of the sick headache coming on every week or an days, they will feel as the discussion of the sick headache coming on every week or an days, they will feel as the tried by thousands, and its always sure to care, and instead of the sick headache coming on every week or an days, they will feel as the discussion of the sick headache coming on every week or the months.

WM. Levan & Cot-In the Spring I was attacked what a bad cough, tightness of breathing, night sweats, and spitting of blood from the lungs. I kept getting worse and worse till I had to give up work. I was so weak I could hardly get along. My cough kept getting worse, and I became very hoarse. I tried every thing and finally commenced to use the Extene. I have used it about two months—the cough, spitting of blood, night sweats and tightness of the chest are gone. I am at my trieds again, working as hard as ever. My appetite never was better in my life, I am entirely cured.

4 Our only child, about three years of age, was attacked by pimples on his forehead. They rapidly spread until they formed a loathsome and virulent sore, which covered his face, and actually biluded his eyes for some days. A skilful physician applied nitrate of silver and other, remedies, without any apparent effect. For fifteen days we guarded his hands, lest with them he should tear open the festering and corrupt wound which covered his whole face. Having tried every thing else we had any hope from, we began giving your Sunsapantilla, and applying the fodide of potash lotton, as you direct. The sore began to heal when we had finished the second. The child's cyclashes, which had come out, grew again, and he is now as healthy and fair as any other. The whole neighborhood predicted that the child must die."

Mr. Chas. S. Van Lieu, of New Brunswick, N. J., had dreadful ulcers on his legs, caused by the abuse of mercury, or mercurial discase, which grew more and more aggravated for years, in spite of every remedy or treatment that could be applied, until the persevering use of AYEN'S SARSAPARILLA relieved him. Few cases can be found more inveterate and Leucorrhœs, Whites, Female Weakness are generally produced by internal Scrofulous Ul-ceration, and are very often cured by the alterative ceration, and are very often curod by the alterative effect of this Sansapanilla. Some cases require, however, in aid of the Sansapanilla, the skilful application of local remedies.

From the neell-homen and widely-celebrated Dr. Jacob Morrill, of Cincinnati.

"I have found your Sansapanilla an excellent alterative in diseases of females. Many cases of Irregularity, Lencorthea, Internal Ulceration, and local debility, arising from the scrofuleus diathesis, have yielded to it, and there are few that do not, when its effect is properly aided by local treatment."

This Fortilizer is composed thizing elements of urine, combined chemically an mechanically with other valuable fertilizing agents as

It is reduced to a pulverulent condition; ready for immediate use, and without loss of its highly nitrogr ious fertilizing properties. Its universal applicability to all crops and soils, and ts durability and active qualities, are well known i GENICAL COMPOST. This izer is largely composed of animal matter, such as meat, bone, fish, leather, hair and wool. "ogether with chemicals and inorganic fertilizers, which decompose the mass, and retain the nitrogenous elements.

It is a very valuable fertilizer for field crops generally, and especially for potatoes, and partien purposes. Its excellent qualities, strength and cheapness, have made it very popular with all who have used it.

COMPOSITE FERTILIZER THIS highly phosphatic fertilizer is particularl dapted for the cultivation of trees, fruits, lawns an adapted for the cultivation of trees, fruits, lawns and flowers. It will promote a very vigorous and healthy growth of wood and fruit, and largely increase the quantity and perfect the maturity of the fruit.—For hot-house and household plants and flowers, it will be found an indispensable article to secure their greatest perfection. It will prevent and cure diseased conditions of the peach and grape, and is excellent for grass and lawns.

It is composed of such elements as make it adapted to the growth of all kinds of crops in all kinds of coils. The formula or method of combining its constituent fertilizing ingredients have received the highest approval of eminent chemists and scientific agriculturists.

HOW TO PLANT POTATOES. Potatoes require different management lifferent soils. If planted as deeply on eavy soils as on those light or sandy soils where potatoes are often made the staple crop, the yield would not be so great, and much more labor would be required to dig them. When potatoes are planted on heavy soils in sod, it is a good way to plow the ground with lapped furrow slices, and to lrop the sets in the channels formed by the lapping of one slice on another, which will e equivalent to planting the potatoes 2 or 3 nches deep. The plowing must be performed in a workmanlike manner, with straight furrows, 6 or 7 inches deep. This will require a good plow with a sharp point sharp and well-adjusted coulter, and a good. plowman. With a reversible mold board plow, one should begin at the side of the field and plow back and forth until it is finished. With a common plow it is best to strike out lands six or eight rods wide to have few dead furrows, leaving the headland about ten or twelve feet wide.

If it be desirable to have the rows 30 inches apart, which is far enough for potatoes, adjust the plow to cut a furrow slice. ten inches wide and five or six inches deep. This size of furrow slice will be of good proportion to turn well. The ground should not be harrowed after plowing. If it be desirable to have the rows two ways, the round may be marked across the furrows with a light horse-marker, or with a log chain. A skillful workman will drop them in straight rows without a mark, walking icross the furrows. When the ground is not n sod, plow with narrow furrow slices, harrow, roll if there be lumps, mark out with a small plow, and drop the sets as directed for od ground. Whenever the place for a hill is not deep enough, the man who drops the sets may press each one deeper into the soil with his foot. When the drills are not too deep it is well to always step on the sets as they are dropped. How to Cover Them - When the sets are dropped as directed, they may be covered expeditiously with hand hoes. But the coverng may be done very much faster and casier with a horse and rude contrivance made in the following manner:-Fasten a chain to each end of a piece of plank about four feet long and eight or ten inches wide; hitch a. horse one side of the middle of the chain, and drive him between two rows, drawing the plank sidewise after him, with a man standing on it. This will cover two rows at a time very well. Where the ground is moderately mellow, and not stony we sometimes turn a harrow upside down, using two horses to cover three rows at once. The crotch of a tree drawn either end foremost, makes an excellent implement for covering 45 South Whates and 41 South Water St., (First store above Chestnut.)

PHILADELPHIA. cover four rows at once, if the soil is not too hard. But on heavy sod ground just plowed, the plank above described will be found most effective. From the American Agriculturist. HORSES AT PASTURE. Every horse in the country ought, if possible, to have at least a few weeks run in the pasture. It will do for him what no kind of improve his hoofs, his hair and skin, his wind, digestion, and blood, will take out stiffness new life generally. Before turning horses out, it is well to accustom them gradually to that kind of food, by cutting a little grass for them each day, or allowing them to "bait" for an hour or so they should not have "flush feed" at first, as themselves both in their looks and their wind. The best grass for a horse pasture is a mixture of Timothy, Blue Grass, and Red Top. Horses relish this feed when it is moderately short. When they are to be turned out for any length of time, and not to be used much in the meanwhile, they should have on only a light pair of shoes. This will allow the hoofs to come in close contact with the soft earth, and will prevent contraction. Where. horses cannot enjoy pasturage, they should have fresh cut grass as often as convenient, and should have their stall floors covered with tan bark, or better, have the planks taken up and clay floors laid.

Recipes. UNLEAVENED RYE AND INDIAN BREAD .-Take 2 parts coarse corn meal, scald thormeal or rye flour, and more water if necessary to moisten it. Stir thoroughly together. It should be made as stiff as it can be managed with a large iron spoon. Make it into a loaf three or four inches deep and set it upon a stove or range hot enough to cook it slowly upon the bottom. In an hour or more it will rise some and crack the upper surface slightly. Then bake in a slow oven three or four ours. I usually put in about 7, P. M., let it acquire a rich brown crust by 10 o'clock, then cover up the fire so that i, will keep all night and in the morning I take out a nice warm breakfast loaf. It usually improves by keeping three or four days, when it is delicious sliced and toasted. Many prefer this oread sweetened with molasses stirred in with rye flour. Well boiled white beans make a very wholesome addition. Even without these improvements the bread is far better than the Boston brown bread of the shops. No one who tries this recipe shoroughly will ever again put in yeast, which always sours and spoils corn meal. SUBSTITUTE FOR CREAM, for puddings, cold rice, etc. Boil 3 of a pint of sweet milk, new milk is best. Beat the yolk of I egg, and & level teaspoonful of flour, with sugar enough to make the cream very sweet. When the milk boils, stir this into it; and let it begin to simmer, stirring it, let it cool and flavor to taste. For any pudding in which eggs are used, this is almost as good as rich cream

(which many prefer to another dressing), and much better than thin cream. NICE BREAKFAST DISH. -Slice a few cold biscuit, or some dry light bread, fry them slightly, in a little butter, or nice gravy.

pour over the fruit until the dish is full. Bake until the crust is of a handsome brown

Double Heeling A Stocking -Knit the first stitch, slip off the next without knitting.

Pop-Cons Pudding .- Soak 2 quarts of popcorn, broken fine, in 3 pints of milk over night; in the morning add 3 beaten eggs and a little sait and nutmeg. Bake the same as a custard. Rusks. -One pint milk, one cup yeast, one cup sugar, one cup lard, one egg. Add the egg and sugar after raising once.
