Mr. J. S. Keller of Orwigsburg, Schuylkill County, a naturally obscure individual, has become quite famous in an ignoble way, by Letcher of Virginia, after Fort Sumter had been captured by the Rebels, and which was recently seized with others of the traitor Letcher's effects. We have published this letter, and since its appearance in print Mr. Keller denies upon his "word of honor" that he wrote it; says that it is a forgery, and refers to his neighbors and those who know him in Schuyikill County, to establish his character. The Fifth Cavalry's Flaj.—Last Winter it will be remembered that, a number of ladies of this Borough prepared a beautiful flag for presentation to the Fifth United States Cavalry. The flag was forwarded to the Regiment in February, but it did not reach Harper's Ferry until after the Fifth had started with Sheridan in his grand raid through the Valley. The flag did not finally reach the Regiment until it had joined the Army of the Petomac. This will explain why the acknowledgment of the Regiment was delayed.

oil all's well.

It is amusing to hear of the numerous large wells being struck through the region, and were the repo is all true or believed, it, would be well to "jarry not in all the plains," fearing the great deep was broken up, and an inandation as of oid, would delaye the world in oil instead of water. Utterly maconscious of croakers without, and indifferent to troubles within, they resolutely pursue their slippery path, the various obstacles in their way only inciting to renewed exertions.

We hear of millions of dollars being made in oil, which is literally true, but as the first million is the hardest to arquire, those millionairs had their troubles, such as now and then a dry well, the body getting fast, the tabling breaking of dropping down the well, the seed bag being misplaced or giving way, &c.; but indomitable perseverence overcame them all, rewarding the persistent effort by a liberal flow of the mysterious fluid, which is sure to enrich the fortunate recipient—This should be sufficient encouragement to those who have not yet obtained their million.

Within the last week I have trayersed many miles of Oil Creek, but the greatest and latest attraction is Bennynoff Rum, and the Bennyhoff. Farms generally, one extends to Oil Creek. As the Getty well on said tim, has made a stampede, and is running 400 barrels daily, and as its increase was rapid, it is uncertain where or when it may arrive at its maximum. They are now pumping oil from a well turthest up the Run, and near the Martin Bennyhoff Farm; but as it is not deemed generous enough at a depth of 530 feet, they intend opening its purse strings by going deeper, and no doubt will open its neart also, as the former action generally produces the latter.

As oil in that vicinity is on a rampage, a correspondopening its purce strings by going deeper, and no or will open its near taloo, as the former action generally produces the latter.

As di'll n-that vicinity is on a rampage, a corresponding influx of operators has taken place. Property that can be purchased at all, has gone up in value double what it was, and they are paying $5000 boms for a lease of one acre and a half of the oil as royalty or rent. At the m-anth of the run the wells have not yet proved very successful, from mismanagement or some other cause, and the run from that circumstance was considered doubtful oil territory but a few months ago, browning that the oil smellers and other prophets are being that the oil smellers and other prophets are being that the oil smellers and other prophets are being that the oil smellers and other prophets are morning sun, and there is none now to be found that has the temerity to deny that the whole extent of the Run abounds with oil confirming the theory that I from the other; to pay the millions of dollars that nav been invested in oil lands in Venango County, excepting of course, the millions of inflitted stocks, the being separate and distinct operations—the former will always pay, while the latter depends on locality and other circumstances, obvious to the mitiated.

Matters down here are beginning to assume a peaceful aspect. Texas, or as it was called the Trans-Mississipit Department, has given up the ghost without even the least effort to sustain itself. After all the vain and idle boasts they have made about dying in the last ditch, etc., they have made about dying in the last ditch, etc., they are very much like poor "Jeffy." don't want to die at all. Jeff, however, if he gets what he deserves, will die with a baiter around his neck, dancing on nothing. Great preparations were being made to crush this the remnant of the rebellion. When on the 25th of May, the people were somewhat surprised that the rebel Generals Buckner. Pap Price, of Boonsville fame, and others had arrived during the night, for the purpose of negotiating for the surrender of Kirhy Smith's army. The rebel citizens did not believe if, it was another Yankee lie of course, and in fact would not believe it until they saw some of the paroled rebels arrive. On the 26th, the terms were agreed upon.
