INDEPENDENT POLITICAL ACTION. Experience proves that unless intelligence and thought enter into a man's political action, there will be very little independence. A favorite partizan name; a plausible demagogue; specious statements, are sufficient with the unthinking, to secure their co-operation for the support of measures diametrically in opposition to their interests. With a certain class in this country, the members of which left their country to escape as they have it, tyranny, and who act with the so called Democratic party, this has been especially the case. With that party they acted and voted to uphold slavery. We know that he Southern slaveholders entertained the most supreme contempt for a white laborer, and that the system of slave labor on this continent, kept the wages of free labor low, and confined that labor within restricted Schuylkill County, voted steadily for slavery. The War has rudely destroyed that chimera. If it were not so we would see the refugees from European yet bowing to Southern slaveholding tyranny.

Again, this class which acts with the socalled Democratic party, is directly interested in the maintenance of an adequate protective tariff. It is important to these men who work in our mines and factories, that the cheap productions of Europe-where the price of labor is so much lower than hereshould not be admitted into American ports at a low rate of duties, to enter successfully into competition with our manufactures, close our workshops, stop our mines and beggar our workmen. It is necessary to the interests of these men that at this time, they should act with the party which will protect | sharpen up, so that the interests of the Govtheir labor. Yet to judge from their course in the past, they will not. All remember how they were deceived in Pennsylvania during the Polk and Dallas eampaign, when they were told by the demagogues of their party that Polk was a better tariff man than Henry Clay-how George M. Dallas gave his casting vote in the United States Senate against protection and the interests of Pennsylvania. Did it change their political course? No; new prejudices were excited, and passion not reason, swayed the class to which we refer. For many years the favorite bughear was "abolitionism." That having "played out," to use an expressive phrise, the great cohesive thing now is Fenianism, or organized hostility to England. If the movement promised to amount to anything in the way of making Ireland free, it would have our best wishes, for we want to see all M. Furman retires from the position. movement promised to amount to anything protection, to hold the class to which we refer; and in the end if that party should get class, the movement will be positively beneficial to Great Britain, for free trade will be ficial to Great Britain, for free trade will be number of ladies, gentlemen and children par established. There is an organized effort ipated, came off at Tumbling Run yesterday. now being made with British gold, to effect it, through the efforts of New York Copperhead importers, and the men so bitterly hostile as they profess to be, to the English gov-

At the last session of Congress its representatives voted in a body against a modification of the tariff, and at the approaching session when the question must come up, they will be found voting as usual, against the interests of our miners and usual, against the interests of our miners and mechanics. The prostrated condition of the the Journal to-day, that the taxes on licenses, er trades, together with the revenues of the tember, 1865, or the penalties prescribed by law, Government, will demand action, and the will be imposed. er trades, together with the revenues of the stronger the pressure brought by districts like this, the better will be the prospects of obtaining protection. But if the class referred obtaining protection. But if the class referred last year, was a resident of Pottsville, died on the 19th ult., at New Canaan, Ct. He was one of the to votes the free trade ticket, it can expect no consideration at the hands of Congress. If our workingmen will act independently in this matter, they will consult their true interests, which lie in comfortable homes and good wages. We give a few thoughts for must keep a sharp eye at night on their gremises. A fellow attempted on Thursday night to orerate in Market street at Mr. Hyan's residence, but a shot sent him quickly away. We have no doubt that attempts will be made in different parts of the Borough, to enter houses. Watch the rascals and if you can, catch them. be used by mere selfish partizans and office seckers, they will suffer. It they think and act right, all will be well.

The Rebellion Revived—Leniency Suicidal. The meeting in New York, of the friends of Jeff. Davis, and their assurances that the Rebellion will yet be successful through other means than fighting; and the conduct accidental fall." of the traitors of Richmond and North Carolina, show that we must meet the question of of reconstruction in other than a milk and water spirit. At the beginning of the Rebellion we avoided meeting important issues, which finally had to be considered. We hope such will not be the case now that new troubles are upon us. We trust that the reins of the Government will be drawn tight. of the traitors of Richmond and North Caroreins of the Government will be drawn tightrewarding the generosity of the Government

And we must be firm, for the country cannot afford to run the risk of fortering another and the military authorities and the amounts carned by the men be taken from the same, in order to arrive at an assessment. So all had better attend to their duties in this respect in time. of fostering another rebellion by supinely suffering power in the South to steal back into the hands of the men who excited the last. That whole class must be taught that

Gazette, on the question of permitting the rebel leaders to assume again, the right to rule, are to the point. We endorse them heartily:

So we believe and have said; but it is not to be done by rebel voting. There is a large share of good common sense and intelligence in Georgia, but it is not probable that if rebel soldiers vote there, as they do in Virginia and North Carolina, any men will be elected to Congress who agree with Governor Johnson. The probability now is that no rebel State, unless it is Arkansa, will send a loyal representation to Congress And if they do not, what then? The remedy is a very plain one. Congress will not admit a single rebel State or a single member till they come purgeu of every taint of secresion and rebellion.

THE SCHOOL TAX. It is thought that the tax this year for school purposes is too high. The main increase is for building purposes. The tax for strictly school purposes is eight mills, an increase of only one mill on the rate established before the era of high prices. When the high character of the public schools of this Borough and the capacity of the teachers are considered, we are disposed to think that the rate is almost too low to enable that character to be maintained. As to the extra levy for building purposes, no public spirited citizen of Pottsville can object to that. A necessary building, which is an ornament to the town, has been erected at a cost exceeding the original estimate, it is true; but that is due to the fact that during the progress of the work, prices of material and labor advanced unexpectedly to high figures. The delay in the erection of this building is owing to the opposition to the scheme manifested some years since by a few lilliputian-spirited men in our midst. If they had not placed obstacles in the way, the building would have been erected before the War at a figure some eight or ten thousand dollars less than the actual cost. As it is, we have now a substantial, comfortable, well ventilated building for children to be taught in. It contains a fine lecture room. The library, by saving a percentage, and adding to it yearly, will be improved, and we presume, in course of time, will become public. All in all, taking into consideration the effective condition of the public schools of the Borough; into account the large number of children taught; the beautiful improvement on Centre street, and the fact that after this year the bounds. Yet the class to which we refer, of school tax will be lower, we feel that we can which we have many representatives in bear the little extra burden this year, cheerfully. The fact is, we esteem education so important to the preservation of our liberties; to the future of the Republic, that we pay no tax more cheerfully, than that levied for school purposes. When they observe marked progression in education, as here in Pottsville, it should be a source of pleasure to citizen of all classes, to feel that this great > work is theirs. THE publication of the income returns in worth throughout the country hundreds of thousands of dollars to the Government. Rubens Peals.—This venerable gentleman, for more than twenty years a resident of Schuylkill County, died on the 18th ult., aged 82 years.—His mortal remains were consigned to the grave in this Borough. Mr. Peale was for many years a resident of New York, where he took an active part in many works for the advancement of science and art, in which direction his taste and edvantion led him. He was one of the distinguished ence and art, in which direction his taste and education led him. He was one of the distinguished family of artists, the progenitor of which was Charles Wilson Peale, who bore the joint character of a revolutionary patriot and soldier, a personal friend and companion of George Washington, and painter of his portrait, as well as of many other distinguished army officers and civillans.—

It is an interesting coincidence that the date of Washington's birth, 22d of February, was also that of the elder Peale's death, and of his oldest son's and a grand son's birth, which gave to that day an unusual interest in that family. day an unusual interest in that family.

The enthusiasm of the elder Peale for his beautiful art, was strikingly manifested in the naming of his children after the most distinguished paint of his children after the most distinguished painters in history, and more remarkable still is the fact that nearly or quite every one so named displayed the same taste and geeins for the art as did the father. Thus, there were Rembrandt, Rubens, Titian, Franklin, and Michael Angelo, among the males and others among the female branches of the family, who distinguished themselves as lovers and practitioners of the "divine art". Rubens Peale established in New York, the old Rubens Peale established in New York, the old time Parthenon Museum, which was situated on Broadway between Warren and Murray streets, opposite the Park. Its purpose was to combine instruction with amusement. Choice paintings, many of them from the hands of different members of the Peale family; curiosities; and a lecture room, comprised the attractions.
