From the New Albany Commercial. THE "AGER." BT A POST Unit upon an evening blears.
While I sat me, dreamy, dreary.
In the sunshine, thinking over.
It is the sunshine, thinking over.
It is noded, nearly sleeping.
Gently came a something creeping.
Up my back, like water seeping.
Beeping npward from the floor.
"Tis a cooling breeze." I mutered,
"From the regions neath the floorOnly this, and nothing more."

Ah I distinctly I remember
It was in that wet September
When the earth, and crery member
Of creation that it bore.
Had for weeks and weeks been soaking.
In the meanest most provoting
Forgy rolins, that; without joking.
We had rere seen before.
So I knew it must be very
Cold and damp beneath the floor.
Very cold beneath the floor.

Bo I set me, searly napping.
In the sumbline, stretching, gapling,
And a feeling quite delighted
With the breeze from 'neath the floor
Till I found me growing colder,
And myself feeling older—
Older than I'd felt before;
Peeling tha' my joints were stiffer
Than they were in days of yors—
Stiffer than they'd been before.

All along my back the creeping.
Soon gave place to rushing, leaping
As if countiess frozen demons
Had concluded to explore
All the cavities—the varmints— All the cavities—the varmints— Twixt me and my nether garments, Up into my hair and downward Through my boots into the floor: Then I found myself a shaking Gentily shaking more and more— Every moment more and more.

Twas the Ager, and it shook me Into heavy clothes, and took me Shaking to the kitchen—every Place where there was warmth in store; Shaking till the "china" rattled, Shaking till my molors rattled, Shaking till my molors rattled, Shaking and with all my warming.

Feeling colder than before:
Shaking till it had exhausted

All far powers to shake me more.

Till it could not shake me more.

That is had the face to borrow,
Shaking, shaking as before:
And from that day in SeptemberDay which I shall long remember
It has made diurnal visits, Shaking, shaking, oh, so sore!
Shaking off my boots and shaking
Me to bed, if nothing more—
Fully this, if nothing more.

And to day the swallows fitting Round my cottage see me sitting Moodily within the sun-hine Just inside my silent door, the sunlight on me streaming Sheds no shadow on the floor

For I am too thin and sallow To make shadows on the floor, JOSH BILLINGS.

The Troy News has just been celebrating its first annual festival. Among the principal speakers on the occasion was Josh Billings. The Chairman, on calling Josh out, gave the following description of him: Some of you who have read the Troy News during the past year may like to know something of the personnel of that quaint, droll, funny, yet sensible humorist, who under the signature of 'Josh Billings,' has acquired so wide a celebrity. He is a child of impulse-only forty-six years of age-and silver mounted. He tells me that what he does he must do quickly. Says he-If I stop to think I soon git lost-if I take a rest I couldn't hit the broadside of a circus tent. So you see that he is a gushing child of genius -and I say let him gush, the more the hetter. He was born in Berkshire county, Mass, beside the green pastures and still waters of the Housatonic-emigrated at the age of fifteen to the turbid waters of the Ohio and Mississippi-was educated amid the strife of men-and is six feet three inches in height, as you will discover when he rises to speak. He has dabbed in all kinds of business, from driving sheep to running a stern wheel steamboat-has a powerful recollection, but no memory-is neither rich nor poor nor any desire to be -believes all work is honorable except dirty work. He says he believes in the Christian religion, and had rather be an idiotic beast than an unbeliever. This is about all that I know of him or that he knows of himself. as far as heard from. I should add that he is of a nervous nature, would rather be whipped than disputed, and is more afraid of a monse nibbing in a wainscot, than of an elephant on araid."

Josh's speech in reply is one of his cleverest "efforts." The report of it in the News

"Gentlemen and Mr. Chairman: I rize with grate diffidense for the fust time in mi life. tew address an impromtew assemblage. What I kan say is instant, and I kaunt alter it. I kaunt sit down, or stand up, and studdy a thing out, any more than i can sit down and think how tew lift a ton. We have met here, just for fun; and i beleaf, that aul things, including truth, have a fun redikilous side tew them, and i fully beleaf, that while Satan, with consumate skill, fills hiz ranks bi the arts ov seduction, virtue should resort tew the same means. I beleaf in sugar-coated pills, and i beleaf that virtue and wisdum kan be snuggled into a man's foul bi a good natured proverb, better and deeper than to be morticed into it with a wornwood mallet and chisel. We have met tew selebrate the birth day of a newspaper; the child iz a year old, and is a growing the child iz a year old, and is a growing

I had rather tend one wedding than a dozen phunerals; and a birth even it it aint "OWN MAKE" OF HOOP SKIRTS, dozen phunerals; and a birth even if it aint enny thing more than the hatching ov a duck's eg, is always another suckcess. Life iz short, and that is one great rezon whi it ought always tew be cheerful, and i fully beleaf, that when Gabrel bloze hiz horn, the first ones that rize, will wear a smile on their faces. He that kant laff iz to be pityed, and him that won't laff iz tew be feared. I am clean thru—this iz mi maiden speech, and will bet 10 dollars that i won't never run the risk ov doing it again. Adew."

"OWN MAKE" OF HOOP SKIRTS, are the wants of first class trade. They embrace a complete assortiment of all the new and destrible styles, sizes and length, for Ludies, this and durability; being made of the finest tempered English Steel Springs—with lines flushed covering; and having all the metalic faces. He that kant laff iz to be pityed, and him that won't laff iz tew be feared. I am clean thru—this iz mi maiden speech, and will bet 10 dollars that i won't never run the risk ov doing it again. SKINNING GEN. BUTLER'S HORSE. - About six months ago, while in the neighborhood of the Dutch Gap canal, General Butler received information that his favorite horse, "Almond Eye," had been accidentally killed by falling into a ravine. Upon the departure of his informant, he ordered an Irishman to go and skin him.

"What! is Almond Eye dead?" asked Pat. "What's that to you? Do as I bid you, and ask no questions."

Put went about his business, and in an hour or two returned. "Well, Pat, where have you been all this time?"

"Skinning the horse, yer honor." "Does it take nearly two hours to perform such an operation?" "No, yer honor; but then it took about half an hour to catch him." "Catch him! fire and furies! was he "Yes, yer honor; and you know I could not skin him alive." "Skin him allve! did you kill him?". "To be sure I did. You know I must oney orders without asking any questions."

General Butler eyed his servant with such a malicious look that Pat thought he meditated skinning an Irishman in revenge for the death of his horse. SCARCE ARTICLES.

These Machines are the best appliances for increasing the steaming capacity of boilers where there is a defective draft, or where cheap, fuel is, required to be need, like Fine and Dust Coal. Coke, Screened Ashes, Bituminus Coal. Saw. Dust, Tanners' Spent Bark, &c.

These Machines are operated by steam direct from the boilers, and require no power from the Engine: they occupy no room available for any other purpose, are quite noiseless in their operation and are not liable to wear out for years.

By using this Machine your grate bars will never bend or melt down, your coal will burn to ashes and not clinker, saving the trouble and expense of cleaning your fires more than once a day. The Machine is easily run with ten pounds of steam, and you can get up your steam in the morning in half the time and expense of the ordinary way.

We warrant every machine to do your work in a satisfactory manner or no sale, and give you ten days after the machine is put up to decide whether you will keep it or not.

FERTILIZERS. CAUTION TO FARMERS. Whereas, certain individuals who call themselves my

MORO PHILLIPS' GENUINE IMPROVED SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME, go amongst the Farmers, offering the same at a price much below my establised Philadelphia and Baltimore Retail Price, I hereby give notice that I have no Agents to hawk my articles about—It is sold at my Office and No. 27 North Front St. Philadelphia,

No. 14 Bowley's Wh f, Baltimore.

It is also sold by responsible deelers in all parts of the country. I make no consenments but sell at my wholesale price to licensed dealers, and at my retail price to consumers. My price is uniform to all. Sixty dollars per ton in Philadelphia: and sixty Dollars per ton in Baltimore; Three Dollars per ton for freight. &c. added to the Baltimore price. Dealers are not permitted to overcharge the Farmer, but to be satisfied with a reasonable profit, and to sell for no less than my retail price at Philadelphia, and no more than my retail price at Philadelphia, and no more than my retail price at Philadelphia, and no more than my retail price in Baltimore.

I do this for the protection of the Farmer, that my article should not fall in the hands of irresponsible parties to undersell and adulterate.

Farmers will find it to their interest to deal only with responsible parties, and allow them to make a fair profit, as no man, honest or otherwise, will work for nothing.

Respectfully yours.

FAFTEMING TERRIES. With turkey at forty cents a pound, it is a matter of interest to the tarmer to get as market. This used to be one of the best of farm crops when the birds were thought to be well sold at Christmas and Thankagiving, for twelve and fourteen cents a pound, It cannot be anything else when the price is multiplied by three. Turkey is at the top of the scale of high prices, and must be about the most profitable meat we can raise. Corn can be bought for a dollar a bushel, and it was frequently at that price when poultry was worth a shilling a pound. Com will make just as much flesh now as ever. One great advantage of this kind of stock is, that they mainly take care of themselves, and do their own foraging. After the young broods are fairly started, say a month old, they shift for themselves until the cold nights of Autumn come on, when the fattening process should begin. Those make a mistake who put off the feeding later. At this time their feed of grasshoppers, crickets, and other insects, which has so largely supplied their wants, begins to fall off. There is to objection to their roaming still and gathering what they can; we do not approve of shutting them up. This will do very well for ducks and geese, but the turkey is a more enterprising bird, and it chafes his restless spirit to be confined in a pen, no matter how well he may be fed. The flocks will gather a good deal from the woods and fields, all through October and November, especially il mast is abundant. What is wanted, is that they should go to their roosts every night with full crops. As the insects drop off, their food should be increased. At first they need only to be fed at night. This will not prevent their excursions in the morning. They will make for their familiar pastures as soon as they leave their perches. Regular feeding will encourage them to come home early, and to roost near the farm buildings where they are safest. A ton or two of turkies is too much property in these days to have lying round loose. Encourage them to come at call and keep the flocks well in hand. As the weather grows colder, increase the feed and improve its quality. To promote thrift, nothing perhaps, is better than boiled potatoes mashed up with cat or corn ment and given warm. To prevent wasting, these should be fed in troughs made for the purpose. The bird is a gross feeder and almost anything that ordinarily goes to the pig stye will be acceptable. He has, however, his decided tastes, and knows which side his bread is buttered as well as taller bipeds. He has an eagle eye for grain, oats, harley, buckwheat and corn, and all these may be given with decided advantage. His especial weakness is Indian corn, and his eye twinkles with delight at the sight of this golden grain. His flish tells the story of his keeping. For the last six weeks of his life he should be plied ith corn as the standard diet. There is no cheating the consumer. A lean bird is not

From the American Agriculturist. AMOUNT OF SEED WHEAT FOR AN ACRE. Every wheat plant requires for its fair derelopment an area of about 16 square inches. or a piece of ground 4 inches square. There are in an acre of land 43,560 square feet.-Each square foot contains 9 of these 4-inch squares, hence is capable of sustaining 6 wheat plants; and so we have 392,040 as the number of wheat plants that will grow advantageously on an acre of good land. In a bushel of wheat with kernels of fair size, there are about 650,000 grains. If these be unif rmly distributed over one acre, there will be about 15 kernels on every square foot or a fraction more than 9 square inches, or an area of 3 inches square, for each kernel -Did the wheat plant produce only one stalk and head, this would not be too thick. But, as we may expect every plant to tiller, that is produce from 1 to 5, 10, or more stems, fall these kernels should grow, the straw would be so thick that the ears of wheat would be short and smell, and the grain also of a diminutive size. But, in practice, we find that there is a failure somewhere; for if we use no more seed, the grain will not stant thick enough on the ground. What then becomes of the seed?—and how much must we use? Much depends upon the size of the kernels, the number that will vegetate, the condition of the soil, and the manner of putting in the seed. Some kernels often are nearly twice as large as others. When kernels are small, of course less seed is required, and vice versa. If the grain has been threshed with a machine which has bruised the kernels, moreseed is necessary than if threshed with a flail or whipped out, which is the best way to thresh for seed. When it is put in with s good drill, less seed will be required than if sowed broadcast. When the soil is rich, an acre will require less seed than if the ground is in a poor state of fertility, for the richer the soil is, the more the plants will tiller -One bushel of good seed per acre, well put into a rich soil, is enough. Making suitable allowances for imperfection alluded to, it is advisable to increase the an ount sometimes to 21 bushels per acre. Usually about 2 bushels is the adviseble quantity. If plants have room to tiller when the soil is fertile, thin seeding will yield as much as thick.
