IMPORTANT NOTICE From a life of study, observation and experience, and years of practical application of my "Metaphysical Discovery" on thousands of diseased men, women and children, I have justly come to the conclusion that every family in the land, who wish to get rid of disease, and keep it at bay, must have my Metaphysical Discovery always on hand. It is a certain prevent-five against disease. It also treats and destroys the cause of disease, consequently the effects die; beginning with Deafness, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, with every disease man, woman or child is heir to. It is the only safeguard against Cholera. It cleanses every sewer of the human body, hard-ens the fiesh and purifies the blood. In consequence of the above facts, I have this day reduced the price, so as to leave no barrier in the way of the diseased. The package consists of three bottles, one the Scalp. These three work in conjunction, passing into the system by absorption, thus killing the very root of disease, which is in a specific locality in the head. My Metaphysical Discovery is packed in a nest wooden case, and will be despatched to any part of the world on receipt of the price, which will

I receive daily at my different Offices:

Bingsa (pronounced Binyen) on the Ruise is con-sidered one of the finest of Mrs. Norton's poems. We admire it so much that we would like to lar it at least once a year before our readers. A request having reached us within the past few days, to publish it, we comply with great pleasure : BINGEN ON THE RHINE.

BY MES. NORTON.

A soldier of the Legion
Lay dying at Algiers;
There was lack of woman's nursing.
There was dearth of woman's tears;
But a comrade stood beside him.
While his life-blood ebbed away,
And bent with pitying glances,
To hear what he might say:
The dying soldier failtered.
As he took that comrade's hand,
And he said, "I never more shall see
My own, my native land;
Take a message and a token
To some distant triends of mine,
For I was born at Bingen—
At Bingen on the Rhine."

"Tell my brothers and companions.
When they meet and crowd around.
To hear my mournful story.
In the pleasant vineyard ground,
That we fought the battle bravely—
And that when the day was done.
Full many a corse lay ghastly pale
Beneath the setting sun:
And 'midst the dead and dying.
Were some grown old in wars—
The death wounds on their gallant breasts,
The last of many scare:
But some were young, and suddenly
Beheld life's morn decline,
And one had come from Bingen—
From Bingen on the Rhine! From Bingen on the Rhine !

"Tell my mother that her other sons
Shall comfort her old age,
For I was still a troant bird.
That thought his home a cage:
For my father was a soldier,
And even when a child.
My heart leaied forth to hear him tell
Of struggles fierce and wild.
And when he died and left us
To divide his scanty hoard.
I let them take what eer they would—
But kept my father's sword; But kept my father's sword;
And with boyish love I hung it
Where the bright light used to shine
On the cottage wall at Bingen
Calm Bingen on the Rhine.

"Tell my sister not to weep for me,
And sob, with drooping head,
When the troops come marching home again,
With glad and gallaut tread—
But to look upon them proudly,
With calm and steadfast eye,
For her brother was a soldier, too,
And not afraid to die;
And if a comrade seek her loye,
I ask her in my name I ask her in my name.
To listen to him kindly,
Without regret for shame:
And to hang the old sword in its place,

My father's sword and mine.
For the honor of old Bingen—
Dear Bingen on the Rhine. There's another-not a sister-In happy days gone by, You'd have known her by the merriment That sparkled in her eye ; Too innocent for coquetry—
Too fond for idle scorning;
Oh, friends, I fear the lightest heart Makes, sometimes, heaviest mourning. Tell her the last night of my life— (For ere this moon be risen,
My body will be out of pain,
My soul be out of prison.)
I dreamed I stood with her and saw The vellow sunlight shine
On the vine-clad hills of Bingen—
Fair Bingen on the Rhine.

"I saw the blue Rhine sweep along— I heard, or seemed to hear, The German songs we used to sing, The echoing chorus sounded Through the evening calm and still; And her glad blue eyes were on me,
As we passed with friendly talk.

Down many a path beloved of yore, And her little hand lay lightly, But we'll meet no more at Bingen -Loved Bingen on the Rhine!

His voice grew faint and hoarse-His eyes put on a dying look— He sighed and ceased to speak But the spark of life had fled In a foreign land was dead And the soft moon rose up slowly.

And calmly she looked down And calmy she looked nown
on the red sand of the battle-field
With bloody corpee strown;
Yes, calmy on that dreadful scene,
Her pale light seemed to shine,
As it shone on distant Bingen—
Fair Bingen on the Rhine;

V. The material resources of the earth are helpful to Christ's Kingdom. "The earth is full of His riches." It is a capable of giving sustenance to three thou-sand and six hundred millions of people; or Glube. Who can estimate the extent of the carth's hidden treasures? Without coal no modern nation can become great either in manufacture or commerce: and how singular a fact that, as yet, no considerable delar a fact that, as yet, no considerable deposits of this material has been opened, except to those holding the true religion! It would seem that for his glory God had given Protestan nations the monopoly of this inestimable product. In England are some three thousand coal mines, yielding annually forty millions of tons, without the slightest signs of exhaustion. This supplies motive power to fifteen thousand steam engines. power to fifteen thousand steam engines, which is equal to that of four handred millions of men. In this is seen a chief cause of England's material greatness. And yet this immense yield is from a coal bed of only some thirty miles in length by eight in breadth. In our country, the coal fields are and sixty, thousand square miles!—six hun dred times the extent of that of England itself. Some of our Coal fields are equal in extent to all England. And as Hugh Miller Pottsville.

The citizens of Pottsville and vicinity are respectfully invited to examine my stock of Christmas Toya, consisting of a variety to suit the tastes and means of every one. Give me a call.

Dec 2, 185-18. they would supply twenty-four billions of tons annually. And if with the present yield of some sixteen millions of tons these deposits are so much adding to our strength, what a source of power would they become, if supplying fifteen hundred times that returns than did her coal and iron combined. Should the enormous investment of capital into product and manufacture, now reaching (in last May.) five hundred millions of dollars, prove remunerative by an adequate return of the crude material, it would, of course, vastly increase the nation's wealth.

These are some of the resources of the earth. And they all belong to our Christ. They bear his brand. Veiled until the opportune moment, when it shall fall into fitting hands, He uses it for his glory. He is even now using these resources by attracting through them foreigners to Christian lands, where they learn the Gospel, and by giving power to those lands to build up and make strong, and perhaps, defend, their own free institutions, and also to send into the regions beyond, knowledge, civilization, bibles, and Christian teachers. Besides all this, no doubt, in a thousand ways unknown to us, the all-wise God uses and will use the things he has provided, for the good of his cause and his people—sitting over against his treasury still, He will see that, whether men will it or not, his funds are not diverted. They shall help his church.

FRESENT OBJECT OF ALL.

WAR HISTORY—A LETTER FROM D. L. XB.

FROMING. The following letter, written by Senator Yulee, of Florida, in January, 1861, has just come to light:

DEAR SIR:—One immediately important thing to be done is the occupation of the forts and arsenals in Florida. The naval station and forts at Pensacola are first in consequence. For this a force is necessary. I have conversed with Mr. Toombs upon the subject. He will start this week for Georgia and says if the convention or Governor will ask Governor Brown of Georgia for a force, he will immediately send an efficient force and take the mavy yard and forts.

The occupation of the navy yard will give us a good supply of ordnance and flake the capture of the fort easy. Major Chase built be very soon despatched to reinforce and strengthen the forts in Florida. The arenal as the convention or of overnor will ask Governo returns than did her coal and iron combined. I Should the enormous investment of capital into product and manufacture, now reaching (in last May,) five hundred millions of dollars, prove remunerative by an adequate return of the crude material, it would, of course, vastly increase the nation's wealth.

Homer represents that upon his hero's shield were pictured heavenly things and heavenly movements, hemmed around, and embellished by earthly objects and pursuits, sublime things invested in the drapery of sublime things invested in the drapery of homely things. It was a fine conception, the counterpart and realization of which we find in these events beneath the sun—the heavenly enveloped in the earthly.

If there be one deep phi'osophic fact, it is this: the entire history of the world has relation to Christ and the advancement of his glory through the church. It is, in other words, that Calvary is the clue to history—Here we read the otherwise inexplicable cypher. Lay down your world's history, and then lay along beside it the history of redemption, and you can read your world's history, otherwise you cannot. * * The order of the universe, says Bancroft, is a celestial poem; a nice and well adjusted and perfect harmony; gathering music from the varied chords of time, as the artist gathers music from the harp of strings. All is one whole: men, systems, nations, all march in accordance with God's glorious plan. And if we did but lister reverently, we should hear the receding centuries as they roll into the dim distances of departed time, each one chiming the praises of God. Encouraging thought! Around the Son of God men and things take their places. Him they must serve whether they will or not. A destiny, work, errand, has each; and that errand, work, destiny, is one and the same with them all—elevating Christ; by helping the Church. It will be seen hereafter that all the currents of events of the world will ultimately lose itself in the history of the church. The two will be seen to be one.

Pottsville Triert-there Years Ago.—
The following extracts are from the Ariel,
a Philadelphia weekly paper, of July 9,
1832. The statement of the pecuniary condition of our people at that time, which is from the pen of the editor, wears rather a blue appearance. We have picked up since then. The superscription of a foreign letter is quite amusing:

A friend passing through Pottsville, writes us that the condition of things in that town is truly deplorable. The bubble has burst-the coal fever which we spoke of and extracts are from the pen of the extract has treat has treat has treat and carry conviction to anadience, which will nod and deze, or sit restless, under a long, and consequently often heavy discourse. The power greatly increased by attention to these suggestions. town;

Mr. threaten to carry off the remainder. claimed against last year, has carried off many patients, and poverty and the sheriff threaten to carry off the remainder. Mr. Shoemaker's large hotel, built at the expense of nearly twenty-five thousand dollars, and which last year rented for three thousand dollars, can now find no tenant who is willing to give even three hundred. A very worthy man who occupies a large public house just above the town; and who is permitted to live there rent free (this season at least) declares to give even three hundred. A very wormy man who occupies a large public house just above the town; and who is permitted to live there rent free (this season at least) declares that he must abandon the premises unless the landlord can afford them on better terms! More than one hundred houses are to let, and the season at least of the contract of th the landlord can afford them on better terms!
More than one hundred houses are to let, and thirty or forty unfinished ones are suspended. Every body is getting away as fast as he possibly can, for there is nothing to do, and provision is extravantly dear—fifty cents for a meal, and a dollar for a bushel of oats. The laborers can get no money, though six months wages is due them, because their emilioners cannot find a market for their coal at of mingled mercy and instice." ployers cannot find a market for their coal at even its present reduced price. Boat loads of adventurers are to be seen every day at the Fair Mount locks, returning from Pottsville with their families and baggage. In fact the two years ago, when sound men became crazy n locate in Pottsville, and dip their fingers into a coal pit-where most who did so have been horribly scorched. The money of the place has disappeared, having been carried off by eastern speculators—the birds of passage—who tarried just long enough to make a handsome fortune and had wit enough to be off the moment they had done so.

But though ruin seems almost ready to stalk in and take undisputed possession of the town, it is scarcely probable that a fate so hopeless will yet descend on Potswille — Time will cure the evil—and time only. The glut of the market, which now causes every thing to stagnate, will pass away, and money again flow in among her citizens. If the inordinate appetite for entering into wild and absurd speculations has caused some to leave absurd speculations has caused some to leave the NELEE pennyless, the town and the peo-ple, who witness, and perhaps feel the ruin-ous effects of this mad career, will be gainers by the example. Business will settle quietly down to the level of a sure and moderate profit, and people in Pottsville will find it best to content themselves with a gain about equal to what any other business would afford. If the town is now suffering severely from the panic which a sudden and astound ing glut of the market has occasioned it can-not suffer to any great extent, or for any length of time. Trade will fall back into its
