Miners' Journal. POTTSVILLE, PA. SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1866.

THE ELECTIONS. The patriotic heart of the nation rejoices over the signal victories of the week. The people have rendered a verdict against the policy of the President, while Congress is nobly sustained. Notwithstanding the desertion of the men whom it had trusted, the cl. Bayers, it is reported, even at these re-Union Republican party stands firmer and duced figures, are very scarce. stronger to-day than ever. In spite of patronage which has been used against the party by the President, it has carried every Northern State, the great proportion of them by overwhelming majorities. New Jersey is fully redeemed. She has now a clear majority in her Legislature on joint ballot and will elect a Union Republican Senator to take the place of Mr. Wright, deceased. Out of five members of Congress chosen she has elected four. Although Delaware has gone against us, yet the Copperhead majority has been reduced so much, that it is deemed quite probable that in another canvass the little State will be redcemed. Except that State and Maryland all of the States that voted on Tuesday last went Republican and rebuked the traitorous ac!s of Andrew Johnson in unmistakable terms. The complexion of the next Congress will be of such a character that no Presidential plot of setting up a bogus Congress by the aid of the members of ten rebellious States who cannot gain admission into the true Congress, and with the aid of Copperheads and weak-kneed Republicans, can succeed. It is satisfactory to know that the wicked machinations of the man who occupies the Presidential chair, will be of no avail to him or his friends, the rebels, for through the remainder of his administration he will be confronted by just such a Congress as the present one. It will be of little moment to the people in the future what he does or leaves undone. They have lost all confidence in him and will never trust him The result in Maryland and in Delaware, shows what a hold the old slave-driving prejudice has yet upon the people. They seem to have the name of Union as intensely as ever. It is plain that these people will not learn. It is also manifest that there will be no protection for Union men in the South until Impartial Suffrage is established. We believe that is the only safe guarantee for good conduct after admission, and that it hould be made a condition on the rebellious the attention of the next Congress. As the place Impartial Suffrage on its banners, nor tormed much, but faltering at the last step of its progress. Let the historian be able to point to that party and say, it was the firm,

In the elections which took-place on Tuesday last the loss and gain in Congress will about balance each other. In New York we Missouri we gained one and lost two. The next Congress as far the elections have been held, will stand as follows: 1866. 1864. Vermont.... Pennsylvania.

In the next Congress the United States Senate will stand 40 to 12, and if Nebraska and Colorada are admitted, 44 to 12. That will do. Louis Napoleon became famous and Em-store to power the men who had attempted to carry Maryland into the Southern Confederacy. And he has done it very effectually, for at the late election under his advice and that of Reverdy Johnson, a "liberal construction" was put upon the State constitutional amendment disfranchising rebels, and the consequence was that the mass of them committed perjury and voted. In Baltimore thousands were added to the lists of qualified voters who have served in the armies of the Praking Rights and braking rough the car on top of him, crash includence and other thousands were added to the lists of qualified voters who have served in the armies of the Praking Rights and braking rights. As we stated in our last, Swann removed the loyal Police Commissioners, but very properly they refused to yield to the decission of the Governor. They determined to appeal to the courts and continue the discharge of their duties. On Saturday last an attempt was made by the Commissioners appointed by the Governor to set up their authority, and having been qualified by the Sheriff they proceeded to give their orders and expointed their subordinates. They were arrested to fine the morning mail train between the sheriff they proceeded to give their orders and exposite their orders. They were arrested while arming themselves for violent proceedings.

The question arises, should not this matter, the Reading Reading Road.—The Sheriff train had passed over it. shed on Baltimore. We think that the law demands that they be indicted. As an illustration of how little these copperheads, rebels, and rebel sympathizers care for the people or for true democratic princisioners of Baltimore were undergoing a mock trial before Governor Swann, they expressed through their counsel a willingness to appoint a minority of election officers belonging to the Conservative party to assist in presiding over the election held on Tuesday; and they throughout declared their readinessito obey any judgment of their title o office which was rendered by a competent legal tribunal. On this basis substantially, a position to adjust the whole difficulty was made on Monday last with the assent of Union generals, in which the Union menreadily acquiesced, but the friends of Swann subsequently insisted upon the novel and unauthorized condition that every judge of election should possess $10,000 worth of real estate! What a very select set of election judges these copperheads would have throughout the country, if they were to carry that requisite out. How many in this County would be able to serve? Truly, if these copperheads and rebels are in favor of a democratic form of government, they have a peculiar way of showing it. DECLINE IN PRICES.-The New York papers announce the breaking up of various peculating movements in the necessaries of gratifying decline in prices. Pork has fallen four dollars a barrel, wheat from five to eight cents a bushel, and corn eight cents a bush-EDITOR'S TABLE.

New Powder Mill.—The introduction of manufacturing operations into this Region is a matter we have always agreement and the principle local. In the 2d inst. a returned soldier of the Fiftieth Pennsylvania Regiment, was accidentally shot by a companion, while hunting deer in the upper part of Dauphin County, near the line of Schuylkill County. The following day as Emanuel Dieter of Hegins, was starting to hunt in the and a half above Schuylkill Haven, and which has been in operation about two months. The proprietors are Messrs. A. G. W. & A. J. Smith. The buildings were commenced in December of last year, and completed at the close of the past Summer. The ground occupied is about eight acres. The buildings which contain all of the latest improved machinery for making powder, comprise a grist mill for grinding saltpetre, the machinery of which is run by a Hicks' engine, ten horse power; a store-house, barrel-mill, composition-cylinders, press house, corning mill, glazing house and clisrcoal furnace, all complete in their appointments, and apparently, capable of same mountain range, his gun accidentally discharged, shattering his left arm. It was thought that amputation would be necessary.

The Iremont Union appears again after a suspension of two weeks, brighter and livelier than ever. Mr. Sanders has been out canvassing for subscribers and with good success he states. A young lady we perceive, is so much in favor of the Union, that she offers herself as a matrimonial prize to the young man who will get up the largest club over fifty new subscribers, to Mr. S. e paper. The editor knows the lady and says that he can speak many good words in her behalf. A patriotic young lady, and a fortunate editor to be able to offer so valuable a prize. A Night School.—The Board of School Directors of this Borough have in contemplation the ostablishment of a night school to be kept open during the Winter months. The idea is good and should be put into practical operation. There are many youths between fourteen and twentyone years of age who are employed during the day-time, who would gladly avail themselves of the opportunity thus offered to complete their education, and they would be kept out of drinking houses in the evening. That is worth considering. If the Board resolves to establish the school, we will give further particulars of the movement.

On the same day men were arrested while arming themselves for violent proceedings.
The question arises, should not this matter be followed up by the indictment of Governor Swann, Montgomery Blair, and their friends who were caught loading fire-arms, for conspiracy? There is abundant proof that these men were preparing to re-enact the bloody scenes of New Orleans, and that if it had not been for the wise action of Judge Bond that intimidated them, the conspirators would have precipitated a scene of blood shed on Baltimore. ASHLAND, NOV. 5th, 1866.

Editors Miners' Journal:—Gentlemen:—Your paper has so steadily and constantly advocated the true doctrine of Republicanism; and you have so many able writers continually shedding a halo of wisdom on all political subjects around your readers, that it appears folly for me to expect you to publish an article from a correspondent unknown to you, although an ardent admirer of your enforts and success in the cause of right and justice.

The leading topic of discussion now appears to be in regard to the justness and propriety of admitting the States lately in rebellion against the authority of the United States to their former privileges, and on what condition they should again enjoy their former rights. I cannot agree with many of our leading statesmen that these States were ever out of the Union. Had they succeeded in conquering our army and navy and established their government on their promulgated system, and been acknowledged by our government as an independent power, then indeed would they have been out of the Inion and separated from us forever, or at least until we had again united them to us by whetsoever means. Yet this clearly they never succeeded in accomplishing. The Commissioners of Schuylkill County might pass a resolution of secession from Pennsylvania, raise an army, put a navy on the Tumbiling Run Dam, and even fight the joint powers of the Federal Government and the Commonwealth, but those armies being defeated, and her navy destroyed, would that give to Schuylkill County the right to demand from Pennsylvania a free pardion of all those in rebellion, and to cry aloud against the oppression for forcing her citizens to recall her acts of secession, renounce the payment of her debta incurred by the attempt at separation, and do such other acts as in the wisdom of her conquerors were just and necessary for her to do? Certainly not. Yet the States in rebellion bear very little greater proportion to the whole Union than Schuylkill County does to Pennsylvania.

"Third. That the evidence deducible from the analysis is that the waters of Mill Creek are improver rather than deteriorated by the colliery, because they become private and runks from the point where the colliery water enters the Greek."

This seems strange, if true. But let us look at it.—And we would first state the fact that the present opening of the New Boston Colliery has been but recently commenced, and it is well known that the water in the first opening of a while ask colliery is comparatively, rune, and therefore, would not for a time be deleterious, or in any way greatly affect such a volume of water as has passed down Mill Creek the last three months. But as the work progresses in depth, breasts opened and gangways driven preparatory to mining large quantities of coal, (as it is doubtless the intention of this manmoth company to do.) the mine water becomes more and more impregnated with the most deleterious properties—so much so in fact, that the simple dropping of the mine water on railroad iron will eat through an inch bar in a fortnight, and in some mines a still shorter time.

We would therefore, ask it any one can suppose for a terious properties—so much so in fact, that the simple dropping of the mine water on railroid from will eat through an lach bar in a fortnight, and in some mines it still shorter time.

We would therefore, ask if any one can suppose for a single moment that a taker quartity of such water running into a stream used in the supply of water for domestic, purposes in any town or city, can possibly improve the quality of that water?

There is also another point we wish to notice. It is well known to all of us alving in this region and accustomed to observe the great difference in our mountain streams when the water is low and when they are unnabled in the water is low and when they are unnabled in the water is low and when they are unnabled in the water is low and when they are unnabled in the water is low and when they are unnabled in the water is low and when they are unnabled in the water is low and when they are unnabled in the water is low and singrish. If you will take the touble to vish any of the streams in the vicinity of the numerous coal operations, you will see the water black as the coal itself, the appearance of which alone is revoliting, and would be much more so if we supposed for a moment it was to be our daily drink.

Hence it is that in a time of low water, which generally occurs in the bottest weather, and when a cup of cool, pure and sparkling water is the most grateful thing that can be imagined, you can readily see our prospective condition next summer with the New Boston mines in full operation; for if we unferstand the locality of the Water Company's pipes, they must depend mainly for a supply of water pumped from the New Boston mines, when Mill Creek is as low as we have often seen it. If such should be the case, we doubt not but the suffering humanity of Poltsville and all the consumers of water now liberally supplied, and of unquestioned purity by the Company, will exclaim "we prefer the water as it was before the attempted improvement by the introduction of mine water and coal dirt."

But jesting aside: the subject, really, is too serious to

This principle will be applied to everything in use upon this road, so as to reduce the amount of stores of all kinds, and simplify the work of construction and repairs.
The following are some of the main features of operation: Trains will be made up in the coal region and taken through to tide-water at uniform times of starting and speeds of running, all of which will be so regulated as to create no contusion. Every engine and car will be carefully inspected before starting to insure, in connection with the low speed of six or eight miles an hour, a safe arrival on time. No serious "break downs" can occur under these conditions, and if a car gives out it can readily be placed to one side and the train resume its way; but the great point will be to prevent all causes of detention. The stoppages incident to ordinary operations will be dispensed with entirely upon this line, but it is not necessary here to explain how this will be done. It needs no argument to show that a road constructed, equipped and operated on such a plan, can be kept in running order with a smaller per centage of current expenses than any other operated in the ordinary way. The value of it as a permanent investment is greatly enhanced by the fact that the durability of the road would be at least five times that of one bullt and operated in the ordinary way; and the life time of its equipment would be nearly twice that of the equipment of other roads.

The proposition to build such lines of road, for the purposes named, has been carefully considered and approved by some of the most experienced engineers and managers of railroads in the country. It has the sympathy, and will have the cooperation of the most important lines east and west of the coal fields; and capitals in New York and Philadelphia as well as abroad, are waiting the action of business men here in the preliminary work, to subscribe to the stock and negotiate the bonds of the company.
