Wit and Kumor. A. WARD AT SHAKSPEARE'S TOMB. MR. PINCH. -MY DEAR SIR: I've been lingerin by the tomb of the lamented Shaks-

It is a success. I do not hes tate to pronounce it as such. You may make any use of this opinion that you see fit. If you think its publication will subswerve the cause of litteratoor, you may I told my wife Bersey when I left home that publicate it. I should go to the birth place of "Otheller" and other Plays. She said as long as I kept out of Newgate she don't care where I went. "But," I said, "don't you know he was the greatest Poit that ever lived? Not one of those common poits, like that young idyit who writes verses to our daughter, about the Roses as growses, and the breezes as Blowses, but a Boss Poit—also a philosopher, also a man who knew a great deal about every-

She was packing my things all the time, and the only answer she made me was to ask me if I was going to carry both of my red flannel night caps.
Yes. I've been to Stratford onto the Avon, the birthplace of Shakspeare. Mr. S. is now no more. He's been dead over three hundred (300) years. The people of his native town are justly proud of him. They cherish his mem'ry, and them as sell picturs of his birthplace, &c., make it proftible cherishin it. Almost everybody buys a pictur to put into their Albiom. As I stood gazing on the spot were Shaks-peare is a posed to have fell down on the ice and hurt hisself when a boy (this spot cannot be bought—the town authorities say it shall never been taken from Stratford,) I wondered if three hundred years hence picture of MY birthplace will be in demand? . Will the peple of my native town be proud of me in three hundred years? I guess they won't short of that time, because they say the fat man weighin 1000 pounds which I exhibited therewas stuffed out with pillers and cushions, which he said one very hot day in July, "Oh bother, I can't stand this," and commenced pullin the pillers out from under his weskit, and heavin 'em at the audience. I never saw a man lose flesh so fast in my life. The audience said I was a pretty man to come chisclen my own townsmen in that way. I said, "Do not be angry, feller-citizens. I exhibited him simply as a work of art. I simply wished to show you that a man could grow fat without the aid of cod-liver oil." But they wouldn't listen to me. They are a low and groveling set of peple, who excite a emotions and original idees have a bidin I stopped at Leamington a few minits on my way to Stratford onto the Avon, and a very beautiful town it is. I went into a shoeshop to make a purchis, and as I entered I saw over the door those dear familiar words, "By Appointment: H. R. H.;" and I said to the man, "Squire, excuse me, but this is too much. I have seen in London four hundred boot and shoe shops by Appointment: H. R. H.: and now you're at it. It is simply onpossible that the Prince can wear 400 pairs of boots." "Don't tell me," I said, in a voice choked with emotion-'Oh, do not tell me that you also make boots for him.slippers—say that you mend a boot now and then for him; but do not tell me that you make 'em reg lar for him." The man smilt, and said I didn't under stand these things. He said I perhaps had not noticed in London that dealers in all sorts , of articles was by Appointment. I said, "Oh, namer I?" Then a sudden thought "flasht over me. "I have it!" I said. "When 'he Prince walks through a street, he no doubt looks at the shop windows." The man said, "No doubt."

"And the enterprising tradesman," I continued, "the moment the Prince gets out of sight, rushes frantically, and has a tin sign painted; By Appintment, H. R. II! It is a beautiful, a great idee!" I then bought a pair of shoe strings, and wringin the shonman's honest hand. I started for the Tomb of Shakspeare in a hired fly. It lookt, however, more like a spider.

church-yard at Stratford, beside a tomb stone, "this marks the spot, where lies William W. Shakspeare. Alars! and this is the spot "You've got the wrong grave," said a man -a worthy villager; Shakspeare is buried inside the church.'

"Oh," I said, "a boy told me this was it." The boy larfed and put the shillin I d given him into his left eye in a inglorous manner and commenced movin backward toward the I pursood and captered him, and after alkin to him a spell in a skarcastic stile, I let him went.

The old church was damp and chill. It was rainin. The only persons there when I intered was a fine bluff old gentleman, who vas talkin in a excited manner to a fashnibly dressed young man. "No, Ernest Montreser," the old gentleman said, "it is idle to pursoo this subject no further. You can never marry my daughter. You were seen ast Monday in Piccadilly without a umbreler. I said then, as I say now, any young. nan as venturs out in a uncertain climit like.

I his without a umbreller, lacks foresight, laution of mind, and stability, and he is not he proper person to intrust a daughter's I slapt the old gentleman on the shoulder, nd I said, "You're right! You're one of hose kind of men-you are-" He wheeled suddenly round, and in a inignant voice said, "Go way-go way! This ha privit intervoo." I didnt stop to enrich the old gentleman's hind with my conversation. I sort of inferled that 'en pas'nt inclined to listen to me, Ind so I went on. " was right about the mbreller. I'm really denglited with this rand old country, Mr. Pusce, but you must imit that it does rain rather numerously lere. Whether this is owing to a monerkal brm of gov'ment or not, I leave all candid ad onprejudiced persons to say. William Shakspeare was born in Stratford

, 1 1564. All the commentators, Shaksperian holars, etsetry, are agreed on this, which is bout the only thing they are agreed on in egard to him, except that his mantle hasn't llen onto any poet or dramatist hard enough hurt said poet or dramatist MCCH. And ere is no doubt if these commentators and ersons continuer investigatin Shakspeare's areer, we shall not, in doo time, know any ling about it at all. When a mere lad little "f "illiam attended the Grammar School, be-Luse, as he said, the Grammar School couldn't attend him. This remarkable re-Jark, comin from one so young and inexpe enced, set peple to thinking there might n somthing in this lad. He subsequentwrote "Hamlet" and "George Barn-CIL." When his kind teacher went to Lonan to a position in the offices of the Metro-

. WITH PROTOXIDE OF IRON, Which has become so favorably known as a TONIC AND RESTORA TIVE by Physicians and Invalids in all parts of the country.

The new preparation: "Sarsaparilla in Combination with Iodide of Line," presents one of the most prompt alterative agents, in a form capable of exerting full action upon the system, and this in interactive, resolvent, or tonic effects of Iodide, are exerted most decidedly when associated with other alteratives, in combination; and the Sarsaparilla seems to fulfill perfectly all the favorable requisitions.

The first effect usually observed when "Saraparint La wirn loute or Lame" is taken, is an increase of appetite, showing that it has tonic properties of a marked character. Its alterative effects are manifest in its ready combination with the blood and tissues.—Pale, scrotulous women and children improve rapidly under its use, and the vital functions assume a healthy condition. ondition.

It is admirably adapted to a large number of chronic or acute affections peculiar to children. It is suited to them, both by the mildness and efficiency of medicinal effect and the pleasant, attractive form of the remedy; It may be given for a long period where constitutional influences are desired, and no repugnance, or disinctination to take, the syrup, encountered. In. White Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, and Distortions of the Spine, it should be given persistently, in moderate doses, until relief is obtained.

In the Spring of the Year, and during the Warm Weather, the accumulation of morbid matters in the system seems to become manifest and very troublesome. Lastinde, Headache, Bolls, Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Pains in the Joints Indigestion, etc., are very common. Nothing ever devised is better adapted to exterminate othing ever devised is better adapted to exterminate r drive off these affections than this new combination f Sabsaparlla with lopids of Lims.

No preparation like it, or which approximates to it.

Alterntive, or Blood Purifier, ployed.

The opinion of medical men concerning it, the description of its chemical character, therapeutic value, manner of use, etc., are given in a circular, which can be had at the store of any and all dist-class Druggists. Sold in Pottsville by F. Sanderson, Henry Saylor, J. G. Browfrand Son, and all Druggists.

SNOW POWQER

Patented May 29, 1866. This is an article for washing without rubbing, except in very dirty places, which will require a very slight rub, and unlike other preparations offered for a like purpose, will not rot the clothes, but will leave them much whiter than ordinary methods, without the Mem much whiter than ordinary methods, without the usual wear and teat.

It removes grease spots as if by magic, and softens the dirt by soaking, so that rinsing will in ordinary cases entirely remove it.

This powder is prepared in accordance with chemical science, and upon a process peculiar to itself, which is secured by letters patent. It has been in use for more than a year, and has proved itself an universal favorite wherever it has been used. Among the advantages claimed are the following, viz:

It saves all the expense of soap usually used on cotton and linen goods. on and linen goods. It saves most of the labor of rubbing, and wear and tear.

Also, for cleaning windows it is unsurpassed. With one quarter the time and labor usually required it imparts a beautiful gloss and lustre, much superior to any other mode. No water required except to afoisten the ions with each package.

Directions with each package.

And can be readily appreciated by a single tital.—
The cost of washing for a family of five or six persons will not exceed there certs.

The manufacturers of this powder are aware that many useless compounds have been introduced to the public which have rotted the cloth, or failed in removant that the known in the intrinsic excellence of ving the dirt, but knowing the intrinsic excellence of this article, they confidently proclaim it as being adapted to meet a demand which has long existed, and which has heretofore remained unsupplied.

FALL MANAGEMENT OF SHEEP The advice of a farmer of long and success. al experience on a stock farm, to give your sheep a good run in the summer, get them in good condition during that season of the year when they gather their own food, is so simple and self-evident that its repetition would almost imply that the readers of this depart. ment were regarded as deficient in good sense. The importance of increased care and attention through the months of autumn, usually, visited by frequent storms of rain and snow when the scarcity of herbage reduces the vigor and power of resistance to cold is equally apparent. Yet the too frequent neelect of the flock at this season, by many who are conscious of their loss, must be the only anology here, as in many other instances, for urging the flock master to do what he cannot fail to know is demanded of him by age. gard for his own interests, as well as the evils are escaped, the extra consumption of food to sustain the animal heat, is a positive and a considerable loss. Do not leave them to seek shelter in the woods. Bring them to the barn in every cold storm. Give them a little hay. The cost of a few bushels of grain and a few hours' time at this season will be repaid four:

They are very sensitive to cold and wet. The evident discomfort with which they submit to soaking rains, even in the warm days of summer time, shows that it is. to some extent, injurious. The falling rain is usually cooler than the atmosphere. The evaporation of water retained by the fleece.

There is a wide difference in the custems of breeders, as to the time that lambs shall come, ranging all the way from January until the last of May and June. An early lamb, dropped the last of March or the first of April, is best. It is large enough to make a part of its living on grass when first turned out. It is sufficiently developed in size and strengh to endure the hardships of fall and winter. Its growth is more regular and healthful. It makes a better sheep. It is weaned early enough to allow the dam to recruit in the early fall. There is little gained in having them com-

Cut it into four quarters, and, subsequently into strips, and place them on a hair sive or a clean, dry cloth, and sprinkle with salt. Let them remain for three days to allow the brine to drain off. After they are thoroughly drained, put them into a clean jar. Take as much vinegar as will cover them, and let it simmer over a slow fire, with allspice, whole black pepper, coarse brown ginger, and a little pimento. When the vinegar is sufficienty flavored let it cool and pour it over the cabbage in the jar which must be stopped down for use, and kept for three months. How to Fix the Clock. - When the clock stops, don't take it to the repair shop till you have tried as follows : Take off the pointers and the face; take off the pendulum and its wire. Remove the rachet from the rick wheel and the clock will run down with great velocity. Let it go. The increased speed wears away the gum and dust irom the pinions—the clock cleans itself. If you have . any pure sperm oil, put the least bit on the axles. Put the machine together, and nine times in ten it will run just as well as if it had been taken to the shop.
