M. W. BALDWIN & Co., Engineers Movel of the Model of the attention of Railroad Managers, and those interested in Railroad Managers, and those interested in Railroad Property, to their system of Locamotive Engines, in which they are adapted to the particular business for which they may be required; by the use of one, two, three or four pair of driving wheels; and the use of the whole, or so much of the weight as may be desirable for adhesion; and in accommodating them to the grades, curves, strength of superstruction, and rail and work to be done. By these means the maximum useful effect of the power is secured with the least expense for attendance, cost of fuel, and repairs to Road and Engine. With those objects in view, and as the result of twenty-three years practical experience in the business by our senior partner, we manufacture five different kinds of Engines, and several classes of sizes of each kind.—Particular attention paid to the strength of the machine in the plan and workmanship, of all the details. Our long experience and opportunities of obtaining information, enables us to offer these engines with the assurance that in efficiency, economy and durability, they will compare favorably with those of any other kind in use. We also farnish to order, wheels, axless bowling or low moor tire (to fit centres without boring,) composition castings for bearings of every description of Copper, Sheet from and Boller Works; and every article appertaining to the repair or renewal of Locamotive Engines.

cleanses over sewer of the human body, hard-ens the flesh and purifies the blood. In consequence of the above facts, I have this day reluced the price, so as to leave no barrier in the way of the diseased. The package consists of three bottles, one used for the Eyes, one for the Ears, and one for the Scalp. These three work in conjunction passing into the system by absorption, thus killing the very root of disease, which is in a specific locality in the head. My Metaphysical Discovery is packed in a neat wooden case, and will be despatched to any part of the world on receipt of the price, which will be from this 25th day of November, sold at $4 per pkg., or three pkgs., $10. HEYL'S PECTOBALIS for the one of COUGHS, COLDS and SORENESS OF THE CHEST, pronounced by those who have used it to be the best remedy for the cure of colds ever offered to the public, Head the following testimonial:

Porreville May 18th. 1868.

Louis C. Heyl. Eqq. Dear Sir: 1t affords me pleasure to bear testimony to the efficacy of your "Pertoralls," in removing Coughs and Bronchial Affections, having found immediate and permanent relief from the use of one bottle, after having tried many other remedies for a very severe cold and cough with which I suffered for some six weeks during the past winter. Respectfully yours.

FATHER, TAKE MY HAND. The way is dark, my Father! Cloud on cloud Is gathering quickly o'er my head, and loud The thunders roar above me. See, I stand Like one bewildered! Father, take my hand And through the gloom Lead safely home
Thy child. The day goes fast, my Father! And my soul is drawing darkly down. My faithless sight Sees ghostly visions. Fears a spectral band. Encompass me. O. Father, take my hand, And from the night Lead up to light Lead up to light

The way is long, my Father! And my soul Longs for the rest and quiet of the goal; While yet I journey through the weary land Keep me from wandering. Father, take my hand Quickly and straight Lead to Heaven's gate

Thy child.

The path is rough, my Father! Many a thorn Has pierced me; and my weary feet all torn And bleeding, mark the way. Yet Thy comma Bids me press forward: Father take my hand.

Then, safe and blest,
Lead up to rest
Thy child.

The throng is great, my Father! Many a doubt
And Icar, and danger cum as me about,
And loes oppress me so. I cannot stand
Or go slone. O, Father! take my hand,
And through the throng
I Lead safe along
Lead safe along Thy child. The cross is heavy, Father ! I have borne
It long, and still do kear it. Let my worn
And fainting spirit rise to that blest land,
Where crowns are given. Father, take my hand,
And teaching down,
Lead to the crown.

The Assassination of Abraham Lincoln. LETTERS FROM MEN WHO WERE

CHARGED WITH IT. new friend, in 1865. As complicity in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln is reported to be one of the grounds for the impeachment of Andrew ohnson, the following extracts from letters. written by rebels who are now friends of the is there one, of all that multitude of prison latter will be of interest. The old proverb ers of both sexes—the refinement of whose latter will be of interest. The old proverb tortures are made the theme of glowing reci-will recur to the reader, that when thieves tal in the Northern journals—who could hope tall out honest men get their due : EXTRACT FROM JACOB THOMPSON'S LETTER. I know there is not haif the ground to suspect me that there is to suspect President ohnson himself. First. There was an absence of all motive on my part. To have removed Lincoln at the time it was done, was most unfortunate both for me and for the people of the South. This I have believed, and have often so exe (Booth) does not wish to trouble hin certain that if it had been sent by any other man, at any other time, to any other official except the one most deeply interested in the event about to happen, it would have implied previous intimacy and intercourse, and a wish o have an interview without witnesses, which THIRD. President Johnson goes to bed, on the night of the assassination, at the unusual our, for Washington, of nine o'clock, and is asleep, of course, when an anxious gentleman leaves the side of the dying President to in-form the new incumbent of his great good fortune, which filled him with unutterable Now, mark me; I do not say that al! this creates a suspicion in my mind of the com-plicity of President Johnson in the foul work. That if such circumstances could be so well taken against the Hon. B. G. Harris, of Maryland, Ben Wood, of New York, or Mr. Vallandigham, of Ohio, they would have been received in the Bureau of Military Justice as testimony as strong as proofs from Holy Writ.

These facts may possibly suggest to President Johnson, and those who owe their offlcial position and personal consequence to the breath of his nostrils, a good and sufficient reason why the excited public mind of the people of the United States, which has been lashed into fury by well-concerted manipula-tions, and now demands a victim, should be lieve that there was evidence in the "Bureau of Military Justice" to convict Southern men - 'rebels and traitors' of having 'incited, concerted and procured' the assassination of President Lincoln. But, at all events, these facts ought to teach President Johnson a les-son of moderation and charity to all those suspected. I feel confident no fact, suscepti-ble of being tortured by the shrewdest ingenuity into a coloring so unfavorable, can be shown in truth against President Davis or myself, nor do I believe against any one of the gentlemen named in the proclamation. EXTRACT FROM BEVERLY TUCKER'S LETTER. He, at least, who charges me with such a crime must expect to be dealt with as a man, not a potentate—an individual, not the chief not a potentate—an individual, not the chief magistrate of a once great and Christian country.

* He shall not escape me by a dastardly attempt to throw the responsibility on the subtle tools, the venial minions, in his employ. I intended to strike at the head, not at the tail, and if God spares my life, Andrew Johnson, and not I, shall go down to a dishonored grave.

* Fearing to mete out the punishment of what he falsely names the treason of (Jeff. Davis) a true patriot and statesman. Andrew Johnson is the only solitary individual of the wise to obstruct the course of justice by a packed military court. He proclaims to interest or benefit from the perpetration of the box account for the mysterious and thou account on the whole of the box account for the mysterious and toncealed manner in which the whole of the judicial examination is conducted, for the mysterious and concealed manner in which the whole of the judicial examination is conducted, for the mysterious and concealed manner in which the whole of the judicial examination is conducted, for the mysterious and concealed manner in which the whole of the judicial examination is conducted for the judicial examination i otherwise to obstruct the course of justice by a packed military court. He proclaims to the world that Jefferson Davis is the instigation of the death of Abraham Lincoln, and offers from his bankrupt coffers the sum of one hundred thousand dollars for his head. But let us now look to the proof, or rather the want of it.

What object, then—when the motive for want of it.

What object, then—when the motive for conspiracy, for his death, when Andrew Johnson was to be his inevitable successor?

Where is the record of his humanity, magnanimity and mercy? Does any part of his cerning Andrew Toward Con-

What object, then—when the motive for conspiracy, for his death, when Andrew Johnson was to be his inevitable successor? Where is the record of his humanity, magnanimity and mercy? Does any part of his public career point to the Christian virtues of charity, forgiveness or temperance? Let the hearths of Tennessee, made desolate by his relentless cruelty, answer! Was his character such as to commend him to the good opinion of any respeciable man North or South? Let the degrading spectacle, recently, exhibited on the floor of the Senate chamber answer! Nay, nay, citizens of the United States, the people of the South had no interest in the death of Abraham Lincoln. They, of all others in the length and breadth of this Western continent, would have been the last to desire or promote such an event. And Mr. Seward—what public man in the Senate of the policy which he inaugurated, and on account of the Western continent, would have been the last to desire or promote such an event. And Mr. Seward—what public man in the Senate of the policy which he inaugurated, and on account of the Western continent, would have been the last to desire or promote such an event. And Mr. Seward—what public man in the Senate of the policy which he inaugurated, and on account of the weight which his opinions carry with them some strength doubtless. the last to desire or promote such an event.

And Mr. Seward—what public man in the South did not believe him to be the only conservative adviser of President Lincoln, and of whom it is said to day he repudiates the atroclous proclamation, and that, but for his illness, he would have overruled the bloodthirsty lust of his chief. Think you, he too was a fit victim for the Southern blade?

The last to desire or promote such an event.

And Mr. Seward—what public man in the accrued to the Johnson party from those who believed its assertions in regard to this matter. Just now there are two men high in position who were officially associated with Mr. Lincoln, and both of whom are very prominently before the public. Andrew Johnson and Secretary Stanton fill a large place in the national thought.

The two incidents which follow occurred But let us now glance at the proof, or rather conviction of the parties embraced in the proclamation of the President. J. Wilkes within a week of Mr. Lincoln's death. They conviction of the President. J. Wilkes Booth has paid the penalty, with his life, of having been the perpetrator of the death of Mr. Lincoln. The recognition of him by so many, to whom his appearance was familiar, the manner of his death and his dying declaration, fully attest this fact. We are, therefore, charged with complicity only. In the absence or suppression of all evidence to implicate us, we are forced to confine our inquiry to the private or public motive in the heart of any man in the South, or connected with her interests, at such a crisis, to put an end to the life of Abraham Lincoln.

instructions, and if not, why have they so promptly received the plaudit, "Well done, good and faithful servants?" Would it have proved inconvenient to any one to have taken him with the power to speak? Alas! we can never know all that died with this daring, yet misguided young man, and we are left to grope our way among the motives of the living, to fix complicity in this fearful tragedy. I have shown, in the only way open to us at present, that this charge cannot be against the South, or any of her right thinking and intelligent people; and surely the lamenta intelligent people; and surely the lamenta orders to admit no one upon any pretence till intelligent people; and surely the lamenta-tion that has gone up throughout the North, from the Kennebec to the Pacific, at the pre-mature demise of their beloved chief, acquits orders to admit no one upon any pretence that after a certain hour. In vain did the officer urge the importance of his errand; the usher would not take in his name, and he was about turning away the President ayoungest. the people of that section of complicity in son came down stairs, bade the officer good morning, and, on hearing he had been refused admission, said that his father would certainly see the Major. Still the usher was not to be moved, till the son went back himself and returned with the message that the It follows, then, from this course of reasoning, that there could have been no wide-spread conspiracy i that the plan and perpe-tration were confined to a few individuals, and to no particular section of the country. elf, and returned with the message that the Did Booth commit this fearful deed with no President would see him.

Mr. Lincoln was reclining on a lounge as the officer entered, looking over a pile of papers. He appeared a little annoyed at the interruption, but stopped at once to hear his visitor's mission. The despatch was shown him and the action more it stated frankly and other motive than that which inspired the youthful Frostratus to fire the temple of Diana, at Ephesus? If so, why did he call upon Mr. Johnson eight hours before the time fixed for his fell purpose. Did he call upon him with the design of assassinating him, as has been attempted to be shown by the newspa-

But the illusion was short-lived, for the public and private criticisms pervading all classes upon that most disgraceful scene of March 4th, was well calculated to dampen his hopes of the realization of his long-cherished aspirations, and remove farther, if not forever, from his grasp the glittering prize. The crimsoned blush of indignation and shape mantled the cheeks of ambassadors, Senators justices and the lesser dignataries that witnessed the disgusting scene, while the saddest countenance in all that throng was that of Abraham Lincoln, who, it is said, on the evening of the same day, at the inauguration ball, declined to recognize him.
