For restoring hair upon bald heads (from whatever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face; it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smoothest face in from two to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant practitioners have asserted that there is nothing that will force or hasten the growth of the hair or beard. Their assertions are I false, as thousands of living, witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say, how are way to distinguish the genuine from the spurious?—It certainly is difficult: has then tenths of the different preparations advertised for the hair and beard are anticly, worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase. EDITOR'S TABLE. - We have received from he enterprising house of A. S. Barnes & Co., 111 and 113 Williams street, New York, "The Bible Reader," by William B. Fowle. It is a selection of reading lessons from the Holy scriptures, intended for the use of schools and families. From rather a careful examination of the work we feel justified in heartily recommending it to teachers. From the same house we have also received the Illustrated Educational Bulletin. It is issued quarterly, at 10 cents per annum, in advance. It contains much valuable matter.

The Pennsylvania School Journal comes to us as usual, with its pages filled with intersassing medicinal properties superior to any other wine in use, and an excellent article for all weak and debilitated persons, and the aged and infirm, improving the appetite, and benefiting ladies and children.

Mr. Editor:—I notice in your last issue the following: "How can teachers secure the co operation of parents?" I would ask per mission through your column of making a few suggestions. I think the best way of se dow of shame], every Western state is encuring the aid of parents is by calling to see them, and informing them how their children are getting along. It may not be a part of the teacher's duty to do so; but I candidly think no one ought to attempt to take charge of a school who is not willing to visit the parents. It may require some sacrifice of each rents. It may require some sacrifice of ease. But is not the true teacher like the minister But is not the true teacher like the minister of the gospel—called on constantly to make sacrifices? Again, we know some teachers enjoy themselves very much in visiting the patrons, and exercise a very good influence upon the home circle. Some teachers urge that they may not be cordially received.—

Now, I can scarcely believe that there is a parent in Schuylkiil County who would not release the following experience that the scalar of his children independent, we make the following experience of his children in the sacrification of the Mississippi rebuke the monthly oath had been taken by the Collection, and then paid it over by checks or other men who live East. Such a legislature as has just voted disgrace upon Ohio could not possibly have been elected in Iowa or Min-parent in Schuylkiil County who would not independent, we make the following exgladly welcome the teacher of his children. Speaking for myself, I really enjoy a visit from my children's teacher. Will not some of the parents respond? Teachers and parents, let us hear from you. Don't allow such questions to pass over in silence. Pedagogue's Farewell Address to his Constituents. I take for granted these things: that all of as heneve that a parent's love for this child is nothing to laugh at; that money and trouble expended on the elevation of his sons and daughters is a safe investment, sure to return as the years pass, bigger and bigger dividends. For when we see a pippin and a crab apple, clusters worth fifty cents a pound and wild grapes that only foxes can eat; or when we have a vagabond and statesman; we can see what the world is worth with ed ucation, and what it is worth without. ucation, and what it is worth without.

The word "Education," grew up on the shores of the Mediterrenesn sea, about twenty-five hundred years ago, and until it was so hackneyed that it became insignificant, signified a leading forth. Many have turned this word upside down, and make it mean a putting in instead of a drawing out; deeming the teacher a sort of a syphon, made of some cheap metal for pouring diluted things into the young mind, as molasses into a keg. One hates to compare a youthful soul to a keg; rather to a flower, (naming education, development) and the teacher to education, development) and the teacher to the superintendent of a botanical garden, as healthful, moisture, dryness, sunshine and There are two sorts of schools, public and private; no more opposing each other than the sun and moot are rivals in their shining. Private schools a child may have; public schools a community must have. To be sure; some communities do without them. The Apaches, I have heard, "do without" public schools, and in the Fejee I lands, where they fricassee one another, they "do without" public schools; yet be it likewise observed, that these eccentric people contrive to do without stit me, or I shall vote against them at the next election. One who should let a farm to a bad tenant, and coming and seeing the property going to waste, should say, "the fellow is so bad a tenant that I'll abandon the farm," no doubt would be a fool, whose fit residence is Stockton. Suppose-Mr. A's children, next month after my successor has been installed, shall go home, crying that the new teacher is awful; that he can't read; that he cut off Uriah Bilk's head, and roasted poor Mary Gummidge in the stove! Shall Mr. A forsake his possessions in the school, or shall he dismiss this ferocious teacher? This is a decisive advantage; if you get a bad teacher, you can get rid of him; but no teacher of a private school stipulates to go off in three months, if such is the public will. More likely he is to lie, a ponderous incubus on the general stomach, until starvation drives them elsewhere.

It has seemed unaccountable to me, that the school house is not the finest building in the school bouse is not the finest building in the school bouse is not the finest building in the school bouse is not the finest building in the school bouse is not the finest building in the school bouse is not the finest building in the school of the school of the finest building in the school of the finest buildin

It is amusing how near sighted some men It is amusing how near sighted some men are. A man who has one thousand dollars, and will not give forty to a school, will give one hundred for a horse. A man who holds up his hands at the idea of mybod's giving four per cent. for the education of his children, is all the time buying new vineyards or increasing the old. Now such an one may be a man, but not a shrewd one. He is putting in a heavy crop of mustard; so to speak, and hereafter will wonder why it doesn't come up grain; he has not his eyes open, to distinguish the first best from the second best. If a first rate public school was creeted in this

And if a mind has been misguided as long, it is for him too late; ignorance has got him; it only remains to carve more once that dreadful epitaph: Better not to have been born at all!" A sad spectacle in this world is an ignorant, vicious old man, whom, by retrogression of seasons, we see a happy human creature, going about unaware of the low lived future on its way to meet him.

My last word shall be of the youngsters. They are good ones! My motto with them

He also declared that the evidence showed its citizens. Mr. Tilton says that the next that while Mr. Smythe took an oath every report that comes from the Northwest will be of the expunging of the word "white" from half a dozen state constitutions. In half a dozen state constitutions. In forwardness of radical sentiment, the men monthly oath had been taken by the Collecttract:

The Thirty-ninth Congress—after the inevitable soilure produced by two years' residence in Washington, even at the distance of a full mile from the White House—did not dare dismiss itself and return to the people without first cleansing its tarnished record of delay by giving to the nation a reconstruction bill which, sweeping with victorious msjesty through both houses, striking down the President's negative with a counter-veto, now I take for granted these things: that all of sident's negative with a counter-veto, now more than once, and the soft words there us believe that a child is worth more than an holds over the misbehavior of the South the spoken to her. It was in proof that she was an imple that a child is poken to her. It was in proof that she was sword of a military government, to reconquer | to have shared one third of the profits of the the rebellion, to re establish loyalty, and to reconquer general order business, and one of the witnesses had told him, after he left the stand, that Mrs. Perry had a written agreement to greater had it compelled the immediate orthe effect, and that the President of the Uni-

Nevertheless, the military plan is so much better than the most sanguine had reason to expect a month ago, that the day of its passage over the President's veto was a day to make the blood merry in a radical man's pulse. I happened to be in company with my friend Frederick Douglass in Chicago, on the announcement of the good news; where-proof he immediately lifted his hands and the announcement of the good news; whereupon he immediately lifted his hands and

To the new Congress the nation looks with new hope.

Its first great duty is the impeachment of the President.

Be it spoken as the will of the loyal North that the Fertilath Congress is characteristics. Be it spoken as the will of the loyal North that the Fortieth Congress is charged with the selemn duty of removing a traitor from the chief magistracy of the Republic. Nothing on the docket ought to take precedence of this business. The chief mischief maker of this business. The chief mischief maker of the nation must be cut short in his career of crime. Andrew Johnson is now a greater obstacle to the reconstruction of the Union than either Robert E Lee or Jefferson Davis. These men are rebels out of office; but Andrew Johnson is a rebel in the highest of offices. Daily is he executing the will of these these eccentric people contrive to do without colleges also.

Now a public school belongs to every citizen. He can say: "I own horses, acres of ground, and personal property; and I own an interest in the public school. THE NEW YORK CUSTOM HOUSE

THE STARTLING FRAUDS

In the House on the 15th inst., the matter of the New York Custom House frauds came up, when Mr. HULBURD (Rep. N. Y) offered a resolution requesting the Speaker to appoint guish the first best from the second best. If a first rate public school was crected in this valley, loaferish temptations would skulk away before it as creatures of the night before day-break. Every man who wanted to sell an estate, would sell it, in that event more sell an estate, would sell it, in that event more far above all this selfish arithmetic of profit and loss—for the value of human lives cannot be measured by potato hills or square feet of loam—the children would be blessed by it, more than anybody can imagine. For a young person cannot always be instructed if he would. A time comes when he is too old for that. If a tree on one of your mountains yonder, has been wedged between boulders, for sixteen years, what wonder if it be distorted? And if a mind has been misguided
