POST OFFIS, CONFEDENT X ROADS, (Wich is in the Stait of Kentucky.) February 20, 1867. The Instituct is, I may say, a success. Contributions flow in slowly, but shoorly-fast enuff indeed to give each of the Board & new suit of close, and we, speahelly, who hev the first handlin ny the money, sevral other comforts. But that corner-stan troubles us. Sam hundreds uv people saw that bottle uv likker and a greenback deposited under it, and regierly every nite its bin overturned by persons in search uv them relics. At great expense we built onto it a section uv wall, but makin our account uv our expensitoor, they overturned; we then histed a sign-board bearin this legend. "The whisky is gone and the greenback also," signed by the Board, but onehalf uv the citizens uv that lokality dont read and tother didnt hev the nessary confidence in the truthfulness of the Board to prevent em from going for the artikles, the very knowledge uv us which brought about this state uv disbelief, shood, one wood supposed, hev taught em that the greenback and likker coodnt possibly be ther after so long a period ez hed enscod. So ez a last rescri we stuck two posts in the ground and drawd an iron chain over it. That got em. Porce is about the only thing uv any account in this country.

The Beard met last nite at the Post Office wich, ontil we git the Instituot built, will be the headquarters uv the Trustees, to consider the propriety uv publishin a series uv skool-books adaptid aspecially to the Southern intelleck and calculated partikelerly to keep alive in the minds uv the addin yootha uv the Confedracy, wich is unfortnitly deceest, a lively opinion ny themselves and a correspondin hatred uv Noo England and the North generally. We hev hed serious doubts whether proper ideas cood be instilled into a Bascom remarked that long before the book appears in print, he wood be able to furnish the anser to that little problem. Joe Bigler, the drunken Confedrit soller happened in, and heard the last two examples, and remarkt that he cood furnish us any number us examples at site. When the time for worship arrived, John was set to watch the team, while the wagoner went in with the crowd. The preacher had hardly announced the subject before the old man fell saleep. He ast against the partition in the centre of the body-elip, while alongside of him, senarated only by the very low partition, sat a fleshy lady, who seemed all absorbed in the sermon. She struggled hard with her feelings until, un able to control them any longer, she burst out with a lond scream, and shouted at the top of her Volce, rousing the old man half awake, who thrust his arm around her waist, and cried yeary spoth-

It was all the work of a moment, but the sister forgot to shout, the preacher lost the thread of his discourse, and the meeting came premature ly to an end, while deeply mortified, the old man skulked away, determined not to go to meeting again until he could manage to keep his sense by remaining awake. RUFUS CROATE once asked a witness what his occupation was. The sanctimonious individual "I am a minister of the gospel, sir-a cand of the lord." "Of what denomination, sir ?"

This new Steam Generator combines essential ad vantages in ABSOLUTE SAFRTY FROM DESTRUCT IVE EXPLOSION, in first cost and cost of repairs, do rability, economy of fuel, facility of cleaning and trans portation, not possessed by any other boiler.

It is formed of a combination of cast fron hollow spheres, each eight inches in external diameter, and three-eighths of an inch thick, connected by curved necks. These spheres are held together by wrought iron bolts with caps at the ends. The form is the strongest known; its strength to resist internal pressure very great—nureakened as it is by punching or riveting, which lessens the strength of the wrought iron boiler plate about 40 per cent. Every boiler is tested by hydraniic pressure at 80e pounds to the square inch. IT CANNOT RE BURST UNDER ANY FRACTICABLE STEAM PRISSURE.

Under pressure which might cause rupture in ordinary boilers, every joint in this becomes a safety valve. No other steam generator possesses this property of relief, under extreme pressure without injury to itself, and thus preventing disaster:

About two hundred of these bollers are now in operation in some of the best establishments in the counters.

The secret of beautifying the skin being known only to Mesers Jarcel & Rene, they honorably state that it differs from all other preparations. It gives to the most havan and freckled skin both the texture and color of pollabed ivory, removing all discolorations whether appearing as freckles, sam, morphes, moth, or blackworm specks, and is especially successful in smoothing out the marks left by Small Pox.

NIGHT SOIL AS A MANURE. The use of night soil as a fertilizer has frequently been advocated in these columns. and we have endeavored to show how a gen. erally wasted article might be turned to account. Recently we have had sent to us, by several correspondents, an article that erig. inally appeared in the Springfield Republic can, which we quote: "Very severe prohibitions have been issued in France, England and Germany, against the use of poudrette, imperfectly prepared, it having been proven by careful experiments that the feecal matter of sinks cannot be converted with safety into garden manure under five years' careful preparation. Pestilential and other diseases are propagated by vegtta. bles grown in soil thus manured. Yet, it is stated that these death-dispensing deposits novel diseases which now afflict many Amer-

are absolutely used in the market gardens around our large American cities in their pat. ural state, and many of the fruits and vege. tables so grown can be told by the nostrils or the taste before they are cooked, and in the process of cooking. It is the opinion of skillful medical observers, that nearly all the ican cities, owe their origin to the organic diseased matter taken up by vegetables and fruits grown in soil dressed by the forces matter of the sinks, and transferred to the stomach. Galloping consumption in persons whose families have never been subject to this terrible disease have been traced to the use of vegetables grown by poudrette." These are serious charges, which if true would warrant the denunciation contained in the article, and our readers need not be told that if there were the least foundation for such an alarming report we should not only not advocate the use of night soil, but be among the first to condemn it. Let us look a little at the alleged facts in the above statement -Are there any "prohibitions" in France, England and Germany? As to the just named country, we cannot speak so positive. ly, but in England, the use of city sewage has been attended with such profitable results, that one of the important problems of the day is, to increase its employment, and prevent a fearful waste. In olden times, 1789, there was a prohibition in France, but the restriction was long ago removed, and we are quite certain that it has not been renewed, as the most recent French work on gardening, only a few weeks old, speaks of the use of night soil. The work of M. Gressent, 1865, gives plans of some of the celebrated market gardens, in which are tanks for holding liquid manure, made from this "death dispensing deposit." Joigneaux, in the most recent and most elaborate work on gardening yet published in France, says that the exclusive use of feecal matters may give a bad flavor to vegetables, but advises their use when composted with other matters. It is very probable that a plant, especially an edible root, if grown in ground containing a large quantity of recent night soil, would have an unpleasant flavor. Yet we have eaten vegetables from a garden where this manner was need exclusively for a series of nure was used exclusively for a series of years, and though our prejudices kept us ou the lookout for something unpleasant in their flavor, we failed to detect it. In China and Japan their success in garlening—for their agriculture is almost all gardening—has for centuries depended upon the use of this manure, as they have scarcely any As to the medical view of the case, no names being given to the "medical observers" we attach no weight to their "opinion." As far as negative testimony to this point goes, we have consulted with two of the most eminent physicians—men who are profession—and they have never heard of, or read of, any disease being attributed to the use of vegetables treated with this ma-In all cases we have advised the composting and deordorizing of the night seil, and we believe that when prepared thus, it may be used with as much safety as any other fertilizer. We regret that a paper so generally correct as the Springfield Republican should have given what seems to us an unfounded and needless alarm.

Recipes. Line.—In many parts of England they estimate the value of their land in proportion to the nearness of access to the limekilas, on . account of its valuable properties when used for dressing. Farmers should give more (their attention to this subject, and use lime

PREVENTION OF THE RUSTING OF NAILS -The rusting [and consequently loosening] of talls, employed to fasten the branches of frait trees to walls, can be prevented, in s great measure, by driving into the walls, at the same time with the nail, and in contact with it, a small piece of zinc. Nails were recently shown to the Agricultural Society, Gheat, Belgium, which had been eight years in walls, in contact with zinc, and which were not at all rusty. MAKING BUTTER WITHOUT CHURNING. -D: Sylvester stated at a late meeting of the American Institute Farmers' Club, that he had tried the experiment of making butter by burying the cream in the ground. He put the cream in a linen bag, and that in another bag to keep it clean, which he buried about eighteen inches deep, and after twenty-four hours took it up and found the cream 83 thoroughly converted into butter as it is by churning. It was just in the condition that butter is in when it has "come" without being gathered by the dasher. It was worked in the usual way, and made as good butter is ever was churned. To MAKE CIDER VINEGAR.—Almost every family in the country have the material for manufacturing pure cider vinegar, if they will only use them. Common dried apples is a you need to make the best cider vinegar.
