An immense Soldiers' meeting was held in Philadelphia, at National Hall, on Saturday night last. There was a large torch-light procession, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. It is estimated that over fifteen thousand soldiers were present, to express their sentiments on the situation, and to welcome Gen. Louis Wagner presided, and made a patriolic speech, charging the leaders of the Democratic party with being men, who in RESILVED. That the bright promise of solid peace—restored Union—perfect harmony and positive property, was biasted by the issessination of Abraham Lincoln and the subsequent treachery of William H. Seward and perfdy of Adrew Johnson. Resolved. That Andrew Johnson, the elected Vice President, and acting President, has proved himself to be the worst enemy the Republic has ever had. He has from the first cajoled and deceived the people into a belief in his honesty and patriotism, and beguiled them to his support and elevation:

He has deluded an entire race into the belief that he was their friend and champion, and has then reviled, spurned and oppressed them:

He has abused as a perverted the functions of his high position by granting, pardons, preferments, and rewards to unrepentant rebels, by obstructing the reorganization of succety at the South, and the reconstruction of the disloyal States on the equitable terms that Congress had provided, in order that the emancionated slaves and other loyal, people should; be protected in their rights:

slaves and other loyal people should be protected in their rights:

He has done these things by daily consultations with notorious rebels and their infamous and cowardly allies of the North: the corrupt but able prominent and influential leaders who pereuaded President Ruchanan to declare that the Federal Government had his power to coerce seceding States. Into obedience, and thereby nursed rebellion into life and energy; by vetoling the bill for the continuance of the Fredmen's Harcau and the Civil Hights bill, and by divers other nets. Resolven, That he has cruelly violated the plainest laws of order and humanity by permitting if indeed he did not instigate, a savage mob to perpetrate the most barbárous outrages and marders at New Orleans in RESOLVED. That he has assumed and enforced powers not known to the Constitution and the laws; but it derocation of both by resisting Congress; by granting amnesty to hundreds of thou-ands under the ban c law; by inciting and encouraging disaffection at the South, and advising resistance to the laws of Congress and by other acts calculates to bring Congress into contempt and precipitate the people into another civil war, for these reasons. RESOLVED. That we urge the House of Representatives, when it shall assemble in November next, to for muly impect the said Andrew Johnson of high crime and misd meanors.

Rissolven. That we have unbounded confidence in Congress, and that we lender to it our thanks and our sympathies; and that as evidence of our accord with the attitude in which it stands to the nation, we shall vote the whole Republican ticket, and do now determine that our city and our State shall, by increased majorities, show to the nation how they abhor the miserable treachery of the successor of our martyred President. dent.

RESOLVED, That now, as in 1861, we are prepared for an uprising of the American people: we are ready to quit the workshop, the factory, the desk, the firm—to cast aside domestic ties and arm and fight for our country and the freedom and rights of all her loyal children: that mindful of the past, we will never suffer rebels to rule patriots; our glorious leaders to be reviled, or our Congress to be resisted by a traiturous President, backed by a guitty band of conspirators and powerful but miscuided party. powerful but misguided party. Patriotic Bratter.—Captain Ralph S Petretz deceased, late of San Francisco, left $20.000 in trust, to be applied toward canceling the National debt. The executors express the hope that this "legacy may be but the forerunner of numerous similar exhibitions of patriotism to be made by other men."

Mr. Fretz was formerly of Bucks County, this State:

The rebel organ came as near the truth as it does in most matters, when it stated in its last that Berjamin Snyder and Daniel Hill, Judge and Inspector of Elections in the South east Ward, Pottsville, had been pardoned by Governor Geary for the alleged crime of refusing the votes of deserters. The South east Ward, Pottsville, has no election offlicer so named.

Gen Grant's Pather.—The Sham Democratic papers are making a fuss over the fact that the father of General Grant spoke at a Democratic meeting in Cincinnati last week but they furgot to publish what he said.—Recollecting that Richard Smith, Eq., is the Republican nominee for Congress, the reader is introduced to the following, which we find in a Cincinnati paper:

quently caused all conversation to cease in the coaches, and passengers very naturally looked at each other rather imploringly, as if anxious to be informed what was coming next. I felt very much like the Emperor Nicho'ns of Russia, who was desirons to know the speed of the first locomotive built in Russia by the American machinists, whom he invited there for that purpose. On being informed by the engineer that he could safely run her sixty miles in an horr, if the track was kept clear, the Emperor replied that it could be done, and he had guards static distances on the whole line. He also stated that on his ion of safety, he would accompany him. With watch in hand, the Emperor took his sent-the trip was accomplished within the time, and the Emperor handed the watch to the engineer, and requested him to accept it as a memento of the ride, remarking "you have fulfilled what you promised: I am satisfied; but don't cere about trying it again." These expresses generally run to the half-minute; and when they lose a little the speed becomes almost terrific to make it up. Throughout England, with but few exceptions, the country presents the same beautiful, green and pictures que aspect, and in all those districts where coal and from ore abound, it is thickly studded with extensive manufacturing towns. Newcastle upon Tyne is one of the oldest towns i England. It was located by the Romans before the birth of our Savior. The old castle which covered about three acres, built in the reign of Henry II, from 1772 to 1780, is in good state of preservation, and is partly occupied by the Newcastle Society of Antiquariaus, consisting principally, of Roman antiquities; which abound in this neighborhood. The nomintion of New castle and Gateshead; on the opposite side of the Tyne, le about 150,000, of which, say 35,000 is in Gateshee Many of the buildings in the old town near the Tyne are very old and singular in appearance, leaning apparently over narrow streets, almost shutting out the light of day. The newer portions of the town are built very massively in large blocks, &c., to which the town is principally indebted to the enterprise and pub hic spirit of a Mr. Grainger, who has done for Newcas e what the Emperor Napoleon is doing for Paris, &c. It is a manufacturing town as well as commercial, and consequently, the houses are all blackened with smoke. The stone used in building is of a light cas' but blackened in the course of a year or two. The new buildings built of the same materials, present quite a contrast with the older ones. We arrived on Saturday towards evening, and found the streets filled with miners and workmen from the ollieries in the vicinity, reminding us of the streets of Pottsville on a fine Saturday evening, and so simiwere they in appearance to our miners, that we really thought we recognized many of those we met Ve supposed that the country in this call district was untainous, but with the exception of the steep ascent from the valley of the Tyne to the ppper part of he town, which is spanned by a railroad bridge from dateshead to the higher ground in Newcastle, which s above the tops of the houses, the whole extent of country leading into Scotland, is almost as level as our prairies, and all in a high state of cultivation. After leaving Newcastle a short distance, as far as the eye can reach, you observe collieries, stacks, thickly dotted over the landscape, from which issue large volumes of smoke. As this coal is all bituminous, you see no nachinery outside, except the hoisting and pumping engines, and a platform on which the coal is received from the shaft, and immediately discharged from a schute into the railroad cars which run on the eldes of the colliery. The coal is sold as coarse, fine and the run of the mine, and of course, but little machinery is pitch but little, no refuse that can be left in the mins taken out, and as all the fine coal is sold, but little refuse accumulates at the mines. It will take years to cover a space of only a few hundred feet, and the refuse s either carted away to fill up other places, or is some times burnt as far as it will burn, and is thus disposed of, so that but few piles of black dirt accumulate to block up the collieries and blacken the landscape. which is quite as beautiful here as, in other parts of England. We have every reason to deprecate 23d year of his reign, December 1st, at Westminister, his elevation to the bench of the Supreme upon the supplication of the good men of Newcastle, Court as a public calamity, inasmuch as every "thought fit to give them license to dig coals and stones in the common soil of that town, without the walls

In aid of their said fee-farm rent of a £100 per annum, and the same as often as it should seem good unto them, the same to endure during his pleasure." The deepest shaft in this coal district is the Monki carmouth, which is 1800 feet deep. There is one oth r shaft in another district, which is nearly 2000 feet deep. Their deep shafts require two lifts to raise the coal, and of course, one of the engines is located mid way in the shaft. The new Scaton colliery owned by Mr. Foster, of Newcastle, a few miles from town, is considered one of the most complete in the vicinity.
We paid a visit to this colliery, but unfortunately, our time was so limited, that we could not descend the shaft to see the workings below, but we learned tha that the pumping engine is at the bottom of the shaft and the writer is forced up 12-lach tubes. This shaft is 672 feet deep, 16 feet square, and the mine is ventilate and the water is forced up the same shaft through concourse, who frequently interrupted him which the coal is hoisted. The cage is two stories or with appliause. He spoke as follows:

double, and at each lift contains four tibes or small cars, with wheels, each containing about 1100 pounds, or i all two tons at each lift. In testing the capacity of this shaft, fifteen hund ed tons a day have been raised, bu the usual regular working quantity is about 1300 tons this rate the quantity raised for 250 working days, say be done, because we timed the moving of the cage, and t only took three-fourths of a minute to raise it 672 feet, usual working time, and about a quarter of a min ute to change the care, and as they work two shifts of 14 hours, it would give upwards of 1600 tons a day at the usual working time. This would make ample allowance for little detentions, as it gives about one-fourth of the time. There is nothing unusual in the rrangement of this colliery, except the perfect adapta bility of the machinery to the work. The cage is o he usual kind, sliding in grooves, and it is not encumbered with any safety apparatus, but everything is strong and durable, which they consider the greatest ecurity that can be given. The signals are also perfect. The hoisting engine is about 280 horse power ried, but they never work it up to its full capacity,

The pumping or forcing engine, as we stated before, is at the bottom of the shaft, and forces the water up This engine has a 48 inch cylinder, 4 feet stroke and 10 inch steam pipe. All the boilers for both engines are on the surface, eleven in number, about forty feet long and about six feet in diameter. The steam to drive the engine below is carried down the shaft. They use the flat mine rope for hoisting purposes. The outside structure of course, is not large, only requiring a building to cover the engine, the shaft and a platform sufficiently large to move the tubs or cars to discharge hem over small shutes into the railroad cars. All these fixtures are, however, of iron, so as to preven the possibility of being burned down. The platform is may become necessary, it is eased in iron. Accidents strength of the machinery used and the perfect arrange ent of all the signals At this colliery the men work seven-hour shifts, or wo shifts in twenty-four hours. The men are paid every two weeks, but there is always a week's wages left standing. When men are employed it is agreed that each party is to give a month's notice either t discharge or quit. If this notice is not given by the mployee he forfeits the wages in hand, and if he is discharged without the notice on the part of the em ployer, he can recover the month's wages. This arrangement is faithfully adhered to by both parties, an the consequence is that but few strikes take place here. The miners bouses are built of brick and stone, and are very clean and comfortable. The number of rooms lepends on the number in family, and consequently, the houses are of different sizes. Everything is kep neat and clean about these houses, and the conse-quence is that they have collected at this coiliery aloorn and died here, and their places are occupied by heir sons. As Mr. Forster was absent from home, we could not accertain the royalty paid for coal in the ground, but we learned that it varies considerably, according to denth, location, and the character of the veins. Mr. Forster owns or controls the road leading from his colliery to the Tyne, which is only a few miles | To free trade, the breaking down of Ameridistant from the shipping port.

Congress is losing ground by its refusal to cet the emergency. Far-seeing men here frequently quire how long Johnson has yet to serve, knowing t these difficulties must continue so long as he is a he head of the Government. All the writers for the ake advantage of and exaggerate these difficulties for ir own purposes, and the effect is very bad. It is only from private sources that correct informatio from the United States can be obtained here. Nothing s copied from the newspapers of the United States in the English papers; it is only through the paid correscondents of these papers in New York and Washing on that anything is published, and every one of these espondents as far as I have observed perverts every act of the Republican party, and favors Johnson and the about ten days ago, and a fair article in a Scotch paper from a correspondent. These are the only two favorable articles I have seen since I have been in Europe.—

MAJOR JAMES H. CAMPBELL. - It is conce led that one of our most popular and able Ministers at any foreign court, was our former fellow-townsman and representative in Congress, Major Campbell. His removal by Johnson and the nomination of an incompe tent and brainless tondy like Maquiries equally show the reckless character of the resent unfortunate man at the head of this nation. At home and abroad his influence s pernicious and fatal to the best interests o the country. The observations and experiences of suc an intelligent and philosophic mind, as that of Major Campbell, amid such a people and such a Government, amid a land of such startling novelties, such natural scenes of unrivaled beauty and grandeur, such amazing and giant wonders, could be thrown into a series of popular lectures, which, under the influence of an intellect so broad and comprehensive in its range, a taste so refined, and an elecution so attractive and popular, would prove not only deeply interesting, but extremely useful. They would at once take their rank among the most popular and fascinating lectures of the day. In Pottsville and everywhere else, they would draw overflowing houses. We might state that Major Campbell is tendering valuable service in this campaign in the cause of the Union. He has been peaking at many points in the State with effect and to large and enthusiastic audiences. On Thursday night last he spoke at, Lebanon, last night at Germantown, and tonight he will speak in front of the Union League house in Philadelphia. FRIENDS of Peace and speedy Reconstruc-ion, vote for Judge Williams! THE NASHVILLE ELECTION.—The Nashville election, concerning which apprehensions of trouble were entertained, has passed off as quietly as a Quaker meeting. The voters came forward peaceably, deposited their ballots, and withdrew; and, although a large military force was stationed conveniently to the polls, there was no use for it. The Republican ticket was elected by 1500 majority. General Thomas, who is in command in that district, has been very successful in his endeavors to maintain the peace, which has been frequently menaced, but as frequently preserved. His administrative abilities are of the finest order, and in no place could he more usefully demonstrate his prudence and capacity than in Tennessee. HON. CHARLES W. PITMAN. It has been circulated throughout this County by the Democratic candidate for Associate Judge, that Charles W. Pitman is not candidate. This is a Lie, and those who circulate it know it. The offence of lying is not prohibited by Act of Assembly, but truth should be an attribute of judicial positions. Hon. Chas. W. Pirman is a candidate and.

New York, Oct. 3, 1867.

Entrops Journal:—The coal market has improved since the last Scranton sale. A slight advance on some of the sizes gave a better tone to the market, and prices have a tendency-upwards. But at the prices that the large companies are selling a retail, the retail men can pay but a very small advance above the price that they are paying at present, as there is a limit beyond which they cannot go without getting above the prices of the large companies that have retail yards, and they very near reach that maximum at present. Although if the demand for this and the coming month springs up snd increases beyond the present inquiries at retail, then the market will admit of a considerable advance, as there will then be a surplus that the large companies cannot supply at retail; and this will naturally gravitate toward; the small dealera. By their demands increasing it will place them in a position to advance beyond the maximum accorded to the buyers and selers of other coals. If the demand should not increase so as to throw a surplus at retail outside of the large companies, the prices will admace but yerly little before the close of navigation, but the market will be firm and the prices uniform.

The market will not admit yet of any great quantity of coal being sent to market; and a regular unifors supply according to the demand will keep the market in a healthy state for the balance of the season. It is suicidal to send more coal to the market, and often sold for less than its actual cost; and a regular unifors supply according to the demand will keep the market in a healthy state for the balance of the season. It is suicidal to send more coal to the market than the demand requires. THE LATEST NEWS. Saturday, October 5, 1867. indy at Work-Startling Disclosure-The President is slowly but quietly remov-ing assistant assessors and other tovernment officials throughout the State, with the view of influencing the approaching election.

Once before Andrew Jourson attempted to buy this great Commonwealth with his pal-try patronages and petry bribes, and received his answer in a crushing defeat at the ballot-box. The same insult will be similarly re-sented this year.

The evidences of mismanagement or fraud in the application of the Antietam Cemetery Conductor of Saring that the Corporate of fund are so glaring that the Governors of New York and Pennsylvania are withholding the appropriations until further investi-gations can be made. The insult to the loyal Governors at the recent celebration appears to have been associated with the division of monies dedicated to a sacred purpose. The Union prospects brighten as the event-ful Tuesday approaches. A people thor-oughly aroused—a party with an unbroken front—the destinies of the nation confessedly in our keeping—is it any wonder that we strengthen and grow bold and confident as the contest deepens?

SKILLFUL FEATS.-We lately read an anecdote three soldiers, an Englishman, a Frenchman nd an American, who were officers in the Turksh army. It seems that one day they became nvolved in a friendly dispute with each other in he presence of a Pacha of high rank as to their pective dexterify in the use of the aword, such dalming superior skill. The Pacha, after hearing the discussion, gravely informed them that wished to put their pretentions to the test, and that as there were three criminals to be beheaded. on the following morning, in pursuance of a sentence of the court, he would request that each of the officers should demonstrate what he could do . with his sword, by beheading one of the conlemned. Accordingly on the morrow at an early hour they repaired to the place of execution, where they found the Pacha and his staff waiting for them. The first criminal was brought forward with his arms pinioned and made to kneel. The Englishman was notified that it was time to dis play his skill. He advanced, draw his sabre, and with an exhibition of great strength cut off the head of the victim. The Pacha duly commending the Englishman's feat, ordered the second riminal to be brought out in the same manner. and informed the Frenchman that there was his man. The Frenchman first went to the kneeling culprit and tied around his bare neck a narrow blue ribbon, then stepping back and bowing gracefully to the Pacha and his suite he drew his sword, and after sundry elegant flourishes in the air, executed a most beautiful cut, severing the head from the victim and splitting the ribbon precisely in the middle. The delighted Pacha, afer complimenting the superior grace and dexterity of the Frenchman, ordered the third criminal o be brought out, and motioned to the American to proceed. The American, after requesting that the culprit might be allowed to stand on his feet, stepped forward, and making a single quick butapparently careless cut, returned his sabre to the scabbard, and turning about resumed his place, leaying his victim apparently unharmed. Ob serving, however, that his competitors and even the dignified Moslems were laughing at his supposed failure, he remarked in a quiet tone to the enlprit: "Spit, if you please." And when the criminal leaned forward to comply with his request, his head tumbled off. This is certainly, a and his suite.
