The MINERS' JOURNAL is now one fourth larger than any other paper published in the State, and contains more reading matter than any other paper exceut one, published in the United States. This gives the reader some idea of the amount of matter contained in a single number of the JOURNAL, furnished for six cents, we have made an estimate, and found that it contains more than is embraced in a $2 book issued from the city publishing houses. And yet 52 such numbers will be furnished during a year for $2 75 in advance, or 5¼ cents per week.
The prosperity of the JOURNAL has been great and gratifying to us. It possesses now outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the largest circulation of any paper published in Pennsylvania, and is steadily on the increase. As an advertising medium in this section of the State, it is not equalled.
