Interesting To Soldiers.

The House of Representatives last week passed two measures of considerable importance to ex-soldiers of the rebellion. One was a "bill to provide for payment of bouuties to certain officers of volunteers." The bill provides that each and, every commissioned officer who entered the army as an enlisted man after April 19, 1861, for a period of not less than three years, and was promoted from a private or non-commissioned officer to the rank of a commissioned officer, and was afterward, while holding the same rank to which he was promoted, honorably discharge on account of wounds received in the line of duty, and whose pay and allowances for the period he served as a commissioned officer were less than the amount he would have received as pay and bounty for the same period, had he continned to serve as a private or non-commissioned officer, shall be entitled to received such sum or bounty as will, together with the amount he received as pay and allowances as a commissioned officer, equal the amount he would have received as pay and bounty had he continued to serve as a private or non-commissioned officer as aforesaid. This bill is of the nature of an smendatory law to the act for the equalization of bounties, and make provision for many deserving

The following resolution, also passed by the House, provides for the return of discharges by Government accounting officers to the owners thereof, and a matter in which every honorably discharged soldier is interested.

Be it resolved, dec., That in all cases has become necessary for any officer or enlisted man of the army to file his evidence of honorable discharge from the military service of the United States to secure the settlement of his accounts, the accounting officer with whom it has been filed shall, upon application by said officer or enlisted man, deliver to him such evidence of honorable discharge, providing his accounts shall have been duly settled; and provided that the fact, date, and amount of such settlement shall first be clearly written across the face of such evidence of honorable discharge, and attested by the signature of the accounting officer.

THE McFARLAD TRIAL .- We take the followig comment from Forny's Press. It is about the sentiment expressed throughout the country:

After retireing long enough to give their verdict the weight of deliberation. the jury in the McEarland case returned a verdict of acquittal. From a sense of propriety we have refrained from expressing any opinion on this esse during the pendency of the trial, but of its issue we have had all along little doubt. Is part of of the unwritten law of this land that any man who tampers with the wife of another must take the consequences, be they what they may, and no American jury has yet been found to question the right of an outraged husband to inflict any punishment he may deem fit.

Without wading through the somewhat prurient details of the evidence in this unpleasant case, enough is known to safely assert that Mrs. McFarland violated her marriage vows, and that Richardson was her comrade in crime. Owiong to the peculiar circumstances of American society women are allowed a freedom that in other countries can hardly be understood, but the man who takes advantage of it must abide the penalty. Our homes are open, but the same power which opens themoustom-guards them.

THE OLDEST INHABITANT GONE. - Miss Jelf,"the oldest inhabitent" of New Jersey, died at her residence in Elizabeth, on Saturday, April 23, in her 105th year. She was born in that city March 27, 1766. The father of Miss Jelf, who was an English merchant, died while she was young, and although having lost much of his property by the depredations of the Hessians and depreciation of the currency, he left her in comfortable circumstances. Het memory did not desert her until a few days before her death, when she became wholly unconscious. Up to that time she was cheerful and contented. She resided many years with her niece, Miss Mary Ohetwood, who, with the exception of an old and attached domestic, was the only other inmate of the house in which she had lived nearly sixty years. She could read with ease ordinary newspaper type. She remembered distinctly the breaking out of the Revolution of '76' and loved to tell of her conversation with George Washington and General Lafayette, and the banquet she attended-given in their honor-on their visit to Elizabeth at the head of the American army during the great Jersey campaign. She clearly recollected the burning of a portion of Ehzabeth by the Hessians. She had not been out of the house for nearly fifteen years, and had never seen a locomotive, or in the 75th year of his age .- Clearfield even ridden in a horse-car-try forty-six years, the largest specimen of the species over imported into this country or Europe, will be interested in the final disposal of his bones, which, we undersrand, are to be added to the Zoological curiosities of Mew York Central Park.

Hannibal died at Centreville, Md., in about the ninetieth year of his age, in May 1866. The complete skeleton of an elephant being very difficult to obtain, the bones are correspondingly valuable, and great precautions were, in consequence, taken to preserve those of Hannibal, and under the charge of Albert Townsend, the carcass was dragged to a field about a mile from the village, and a large strong mausoleum of masonry creeted over it. There it was suffered to remained until the flesh had wasted away sufficient to permit of the removal of the bones. So great was the mass that not untill a few days since was it thought advisable to open the tomb.

To Mr. Hyatt Frost, director of the menagerie, is due the conception of the idea of making the unique and valuable present to the city of New York. Within a few weeks the massive bones will have been cleansed, transported to the Central Park, and set up in the zoological department, visitors until the tooth of time causes them to crumble to dust.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT .- John Hoover, residing within three miles of this place lost his life on Wednesday last while at work on Goodfellow's Sawmill under the following circumstances: He went to the mill about nine o'clock, and not coming to dinner some one repaired to the mill, about one o'clock, and there found him corded on the bullwheel, dead and mangled in the most horrible manner. It appeared from the surroundings that the first thing he done after he went on the mill, was to draw a log out of the pond; and in attempting to prevent the rope from 'piling up' on the wheel, he was evidently caught by the hand and drawn upon the wheel, and the rope wrapped around him. His legs head and arms were all pounded into jelly, caused by striking the timbers while revolving around with the wheel. The rope had broke, but he was still held tight to the wheel when found. Mr. Hoover was a single man about 35 years of age. It is not long since a death was caused at Messrs. Bigler's Mill, near this place through similar carelessness. - Cearfield Republican.

Terrible Hail Storm.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8 .- This afternoon the most destructive hail srorm ever known southeast. For nearly 30 minutes there was a continuous fall of hail stones from the size of a pea to six and seven inches in circumference. The damage done greatly excods the great storm in September, 1868. The greatest force of the storm was along Broad street and the southern section of the city, on the south side of Chestaut street above Eighth, and hardly a pain of glass was left on Broad street. Many churches had stainee glass windows destroyed. The windows in front of the Contenental Hall were destroyed. The loss is thousands of dollars. The reports from outskirts state the destruction of fruit trees which are just in blossom. At nine o'clock to-night the hail still remained in piles in the street .-Erie Gazette.

A Horrible Crime.

NEW YORK, May, 5 .- The only case before the court of session to-day, was that of People vs. John D. Currie, who was placed on taial charge with committing an outrage upon his own daughter, Emma, on 3d of June, 1867. Emma was only thirteen years old. On going on the stand she related the whole circumstance of the disgusting assault in a clear and distinct manner, and also testified that he had on two previous occasions attempted the same offense The jury has not yet rendered a verdet.

(Mich.) Enterprise.

> FORT SUMPTOR .- The Engineer Department will shortly commence work in rebuilding Fort Sumptor, which yet remains in the condition in which it was left at the close of the rebellion. It is proposed to use it as a battery rather than as a fort, and consequently the works will not be rebuilt in the original dimentions, but of less height and greater thickness, and better fitted to withstand the effects of a contined bombardment. Much of the original material is available, and the expence of rebuilding will not be exorbitant. It appears fit and proper that the Government should again establish this defense, not only on account of its value in time of war. but for reasons of a national character.

PAYING THE FREIGHT .- The min ers in the new territories are victimized without than ten miles wide, and seems to have mercy by the Jew traders that they are there to remain an object of interest to the compelled to buy supplies of. An English miner who went to buy a darning-needle, selected one, stuck it in the lappel of his coat and asked the price.

"Four bits, (half a dollar,) my teah." ' Four bits! four devils," said the miner; why, where I come from you can buy a dozen for one bit."

"Vere you come from?" said the trader. "Birmingham, England."

"Yans, dat ish so, but this is America, you

"Suppose it is, what difference does that make?" said the sooty worker of ores. "Ah! you forget the freight, my teah, said the peddler, with a deprecatory shrug.

They used 30 pounds of powder and 150 pounds of shot and killed 375 doz. pigeons. A party of Indians have camped there and are living high. Mr. O. says he don't like their style of cooking pigeons: They boil them in a 'ten pail kettle,' tossing them in 'feathers and all;' after boiling awile the feathers come off and raise to the surface when they are skimmed off, leaving all the delicious flavor with the birds. This might appear dirty to some people, but the Indians relish the dish, besides it is a labor-saving mode of cooking. We understand that Mr. H. B., has concluded to purchase a piece of land in this pigeon district, take to himself a wife, settle down and clear up a farm. We wish him and the whole party auccess.
