THE Brookville Republican places the name of Col. A. I. Wilcox, of Elk county, at the head of its ticket, as candidate for Assembly. The district is composed of Jefferson, Elk and Cameron counties. A grand rally by the Republicans will elect their candidate. We hope they will make a big effort to win.—[Venango Citizen.]

THE great cause of so many young people being gray headed is on account of their having used the vile compounds which have flooded the market so long. Nature's Hair Restorative is a sure remedy for this. Clear as crystal; no poison; perfectly sweet, clean and reliable. All druggists sell it. See advertisement.

A GREAT OFFER.—Peter's Musical Monthly for October is to hand, containing fifteen beautiful pieces of music, printed from full size music plates. It can be had for thirty cents. The Publisher also offers to send, post-paid, for one dollar, six back numbers, containing from ninety to one hundred pieces of choice new music, worth at least $30. Send your order to the Publisher, J. L. Peters, 599 Broadway, New York.

Lewis, Publisher, Chicago, Ill.

FROM the report of the Bureau of Statistics it appears that last year petroleum was the fourth article of export from the United States, and exceeded only by breadstuffs, cotton and corn. The total value of the petroleum exported amounted to nearly thirty-six millions of dollars. Our grand old Commonwealth is again ahead. Cotton is one of our national kings, with the South for its kingdom, and Pennsylvania is the home of three—breadstuffs, corn, and petroleum.—[Forney's Press.]

NEW CENSUS AND PATENT LAWS.

We are indebted to Munn & Co., publishers of the Scientific American, New York, for a neat little bound volume of 129 pages, entitled as above. It contains the complete Census of 1870, showing the Population, by Counties, of all the States and Territories, with their Areas, and the population of the Principal Cities. Also, the new Patent Laws in full, with Forms, Official Rules, Directions how to obtain Patents, Copyrights, Regulations for Trade-Marks, Assignments, How to Sell Patents, etc. Also, a large variety of valuable information relating to Water-Wheels, Steam-Engines, and other mechanism, with many useful tables and recipes, 175 diagrams of Mechanical Movements, etc. Price, 25 cents. A more valuable compendium, for so small a price, has rarely been published.

DANGEROUS COUNTERFEITS.

Within a week past, says the New York Bulletin, a number of exceedingly dangerous counterfeits have made their appearance. How large the number may be cannot be discovered, for the counterfeit is so nearly faultless, that it can with the utmost difficulty be distinguished from the genuine. The spurious bill is a twenty dollar greenback, and the only weak points in the execution seems to be the central figure, the engraving of which is rather coarse. When presented in a package, however, this figure is not seen in the counting, and the bill is apt to be passed with the others. The other parts of the bill are excellent, and will stand the closest scrutiny; several banks have been deceived with them, and they are indeed the most dangerous counterfeits afloat. Business men would do well to look out for them.

THE GAME LAWS.—We believe the following covers the game laws of this State: All persons are forbidden hunting pheasants from the 1st of August to the 20th of December. Squirrels and rabbits from the 1st of August to the 1st of January. All pens, snares or blinds for pheasants and turkeys are prohibited. Penalties $5 in each case for the above. It is unlawful at any time to kill a night hawk, whippoorwill, flicker, thrush, lark, sparrow, wren, martin, swallow, woodpecker, (which includes the flicker and sap-sucker,) dove, bobolink, robin, and starling, or any insectivorous bird, or destroying the nests of any wild birds whatever, under a penalty of $5. Sunday hunting is prohibited under a penalty of $5 to $22, and imprisonment from ten to twenty-five days.

It is said that in Mifflin, Juniata and Snyder counties, this State, are large numbers of a singular set called Omish. These people somewhat resemble the Dunkers in their religious beliefs, but their customs include many peculiarities characteristic of themselves alone. They exceed the Quakers in their efforts to attain simplicity of dress. The men fasten their attire with hooks and eyes, and look upon buttons as an abomination in the sight of the godly. The Omish girls wear a blue cotton dress, the waist of which comes just below the armpits, while their heads are covered with close-fitting skull caps, which give their faces a ghastly appearance. They have no poor; scoffers say that it is because when one of their number becomes poor they turn him out of the society; but that is a slander, for they are not only thrifty but charitable never refusing to entertain a stranger without money and without price. They forsake all things that partake of worldly vanity, practice the right of baptism, immersion, and celebrate the Last Supper in mutton broth.

SOME of the Boston papers, the Herald among them, make a good deal of an over General Butler, who wears at the memory of his father in various of his political speeches. The Herald reminds them of one of Artemus Ward's stories, which was never in print before. Artemus had just lost his father, and one day, at the store in his native village, he met a veteran drunkard, some 90 years of age, who had been constantly "corned" on new rum for about forty years. "Wal, Charles," said the veteran, "so you've lost your father?" Charles assented. "Wal, continued the veteran, "I've neither father nor mother." "And the old cuss," Artemus used to say, "leaned up against a barrel of number 2 mackerel and wept because he was an orphan!"

Consin Norma is responsible for the following concerning Jim Smith and Johnny Green, who after having a grand bout one night, concluded to go home. Arriving at Smith's house, which they knew by some peculiarity that even a drunken man couldn't mistake, they commenced to shout: "Missus Sum—hic—mith! Ho, Missus-mith!" "What do you want, you drunken brutes!" shouted Mrs. Smith from the window. "Ern yourn Miss Mith?" "Yes I am. Who are you and what do you want?" "Er yer Missus Sum—hic—ith, come here and pick out Missus Smith, for Johnny Green wants to go-om."

BURLINGTON.

Leaving the East and arriving at Chicago or Indianapolis, how shall we reach the West? The best Line is acknowledged to be the C. B. & Q., joined together with the B. & M. Railroad by the Iron Bridge at Burlington, and called the Burlington Route.

The Main line of the Route running to Omaha, connects with the great Pacific Roads, and forms to-day the leading route to California. The Middle Branch, entering Nebraska at Plattsmouth, passes through Lincoln, the State Capital, and will this year be finished to Fort Kearney, forming the shortest route across the Continent by over 100 miles.

Another branch of the B. M., diverging at Red Oak, falls into a line running down the Missouri through St Joe to Kansas City, and all Kansas.

Passengers by this route to Kansas, see Illinois, Southern Iowa, and Missouri, and, by a slight divergence, can see Nebraska also.

Lovers of fine views should remember the Burlington Route, for its towns "high gleaming from afar"—its tree-fringed streams—its rough bluffs and quarries—its corn-oceans stretching over the prairies further than the eye can reach.

Laud-buyers will be sure to remember it, for they have friends among the two thousand who have already bought farms from Geo. S. Harris, the Land Commissioner of the B. & M. R. R. at Burlington, Iowa, or among the four thousand home-steaders and pre-emptors who last year filed claims in the Lincoln land office, where "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm."
