

ABOLITION OF THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.—A prominent official in Washington has made an estimate of the cost of abolishing the franking privilege on the 1st of next month, which demonstrates the fact that between seven hundred thousand and a million dollars will be expended in supplying Federal officials with seals on which to weigh their mail matter, and for printing circulars of instruction, and engraving, printing and forwarding, postage stamps, &c., to officers at distant points. It is calculated that at most the abuse of the franking privilege involved an expenditure by the Government of not exceeding three hundred thousand dollars per year, and that, after supplying the wants of the various Federal departments and such individuals as may be entitled to postage stamps at Government expense, it will be found that there will be no saving to the Government by the abolition of the privilege. On the other hand, there will be a loss, especially during the first year, of from four hundred thousand to seven hundred thousand dollars. Great stress will be laid upon the above facts at the next session of Congress, when an effort to revive the franking privilege is to be made.

GENERAL NOTES.

The pleasure seekers complain of a backward season. North Carolina papers complain of a scarcity of hands to work their crops. A complete set of Burglar's tools cost about $1,000. A Detroit girl was found dead, kneeling at her bedside, in the attitude of prayer. A wife in Sigourney, Iowa, who was sold for an old gun and a small sum in cash, is seeking for a divorce. Out of 683 children received into a foundlings hospital in Montreal, last year, 642 died. The city of Wilmington, Delaware, has just paid $80,000 for land for a free public park. The first half of this year will show 150,000 foreign emigrants arrived at New York. By the abolition of the common schools of Texas, over 127,000 children are turned out to attend dog fights. The City Council of Boston has appropriated three thousand dollars for open air concerts. The Boston brick market is overstocked, though they have had two fires, and have got a prohibitory liquor law. The Shah of Persia has sent his wives home. They clamored to go to balls and theatres like European ladies. The corner-stone of Bunker Hill monument was laid forty-eight years ago, and Lafayette assisted on the occasion. Thirty book agents called on a St. Louis merchant in one afternoon, and he met the last one with a snail and a kind word. A large vein of sulphate of lime, the gypsum of commerce, and valuable as a fertilizer, has been discovered near Lincoln, N. C. It is stated that there are twenty-seven steamers in China waters waiting to bring Chinese to the number of 29,000 to California. Farmers are beginning to harvest crops in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties, Cal., and report the yield to be fully up to the average. Stokes, they say, has already commenced writing his lecture, and hopes he will be able to make engagements for next season. A widow in Maine has lately worked out her tax on the highway, and the surveyor said she did her work better than any man in the town. A Peoria, Ill., man has a nice looking library, made up entirely of patent office reports, with the backs neatly labelled with the names of the great authors and their works. An Indiana lady recently gave a brilliant party in honor of the success of her application for divorce. The guests at leaving wished her many happy returns of the occasion. A steam wagon is to be built very soon to run on the turnpike between Nashville and Palaski, Tenn. It will weigh about three thousand pounds, and be able to carry ten thousand pounds, or fifty or sixty passengers with ease. An exquisite lady inquired at a dry goods store in Lewistown, Maine, for a piece of goods of the "slumbering shad." The clerk replied that he had none in the store, but he believed there were several pieces snoring at the depot. The wood of some tools will last longer than the metal as in spades hoes and plows. In other tools the wood is first gone, as in wagons, wheelbarrows, and machines. Such wood should be painted or oiled; the paint only looks well and petroleum oil is as good as any other kind. John Franklio, a farmer of New York, deliberately threw a valuable plowshare into the river on account of his wife's incessant scolding. Mr. Franklio, it might be well to add, was attached to the weight by a rope; consequently Mrs. F. has lost a husband, a plowshare, and three feet of good rope, just through a chronic propensity to wag her tongue.

PLEASANT FOR TEA TIPPLERS.—It may be of interest to those addicted to the use of tea, to know that poisonous adulteration of the article are becoming common, and care should be exercised in purchasing the herb. Some samples, lately examined, showed a presence of 40 to 43 per cent. of iron filings and 19 per cent. silica. The sand had been added to the leaves before curling for the purpose of increasing the weight. The leaves, on close inspection, were also found to be coated with green pigment, and altogether the article was found to be little less than deadly poison. It has also been discovered that copers are freely used to give the article that peculiar flavor which regular tea-drinkers so much relish.

CHEAP DISINFECTANTS.—One pound of green copers, costing seven cents, dissolved in one quart of water, and poured down a water closet will effectually destroy the foulest smell. About hotels and other places, there is nothing so nice to purify the air. Simple green copers dissolved under the bed in anything that will hold water will render a place for the sick, free from unpleasant smells. For butcher's stalls, slaughter houses, sinks, and wherever there are offensive putrid gases, dissolve copers and sprinkle it about, and in a few days the smell will pass away. If a cat, rat or mouse dies about the house and sends forth an offensive gas, place some dissolved copers in an open vessel near the place where the nuisance is, and it will soon purify the atmosphere.

REMEDY FOR THE CABBAGE WORM.—A correspondent of the New York Times, replies to a man who wants to know how to free his cabbage from the cabbage worm. "Thirty year's experience enables me to tell him. Get what is called here ship-stuff, or shorts such as we feed to stock; wheat bran will do as good as shorts; examine the cabbage before they head; if you see the web of a caterpillar, or holes in the leaves of the bud, put a tablespoonful of the shorts in the head. If heavy rains follow, you may have to repeat. The cure is effectual. The worms become mired in the shorts made wet with the dew. The worms seldom attack the cabbage after they are headed.

FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR NORTH POINT.—A young man named Warren Green, in the employ of Messrs. Mensch & Lowenstein, lumbermen, at North Point, was so seriously injured while engaged coupling cars, on last Tuesday week, that he died on the following morning. Messrs. Mensch & Lowenstein, in order to facilitate their business, have built a narrow gauge railway some three miles in length from their mill into the mountains, which they use for hauling saw-logs. As usual and previous to this sad accident, the logs were placed on the cars, and preparations made to couple them together, but not observing the length which the logs extended over the cars the unfortunate man's head was caught between them as they came together, and crushed and injured so horribly that death soon ensued. We understand that he was a resident of Beech Creek, where he has a wife now living.—[Renovo Record, 19th inst.
