

Governor's Message.

We have received a copy of the message of His Excellency, Governor Hartranft, of which the following is an abstract:

In introducing the message the Governor says the hope of the American people that the dawn of the year 1875 would discover the country released from the distrust and effects of the financial panic of 1873, has not been realized, as is evident from the prostration of the industries of the Great State of Pennsylvania.

It is expected therefore that the authorities of the State shall practice the most rigid economy. Following on this idea, the Governor says: "Let us confirm these expectations by unusual diligence in the dispatch of the public business, a constant study of the general welfare, and the application of every means in our power to reduce the burdens of the people, and with this view I recommend the closest scrutiny of every item of the appropriation bill. In this season of distress no outlay of money should be made except what is absolutely required for the ordinary expenses of the government, and to make provisions for the maintenance of those reformatory and charitable institutions with whose management the State is charged."

FINANCE. Debt redeemed during the fiscal year 1874. Receipts, &c. Balance in Treasury, Nov. 30, 1872. Total. Disbursements during fiscal year ending November 30, 1874. Ordinary expenses. Loans redeemed. Interest paid on loans. Total. Balance in Treasury November 30 1874. Public debt. Unfunded debt. Bonds in Sinking Fund. Pennsylvania R. R. Co. A. V. R. R. The diminution of $1,204,754 93 in the receipts for 1874 as compared to 1873, was occasioned by the repeal, in 1873, of the tax on gross receipts of railroads, net earnings of industrial and other corporations, and the tax on cattle and farming implements. It is worthy of remark that the relief afforded by the repeal of these taxes was mainly in the interest of corporations employing the greatest number of workmen. With this reduction of the revenue, and with an increased expenditure of perhaps $50,000,000 made necessary by the new Constitution in the additional outlay for schools, Legislature and judiciary, it is manifest that the severe economy may be observed in all the departments of the government, and the appropriations considerably and wisely made, or the State will be unable to meet its obligations under the existing tax laws.

By the Constitution, the proceeds of the sale of public works, and by act of last session, approved May 9, 1874, the tax on the capital stock of all corporations were assigned to the Sinking Fund, which can only be applied to the payment of loans redeemed and interest on the public debt. The receipts from other sources belong to the general revenue fund, and as all the expenditures of the Government are payable therefrom, it will be clearly the duty of the Legislature to limit the appropriation to the amount of this fund.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION. The Governor then referred to the necessity for industrial schools in Pennsylvania, and suggests that in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and other large manufacturing cities, where the means of requiring information of this kind are so ample, schools might be established without great cost, and where provision is made therefore by the local school boards, the State should be pledged to give them proper assistance.

His Excellency suggests a draughting room, and a complete workshop to be provided over by a Professor, who should train the boys in a practical way to the end that the country may secure good mechanics, and that our own American boys may know how to develop and use the immense wealth of our Commonwealth. His Excellency thinks the Legislature should make provision for industrial schools.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION. The Governor thinks the State not only owes it to a child, but to herself where parents neglect the education of that child, to compel its attendance at school, and it cannot be argued as despotic. The lesson of the common school is love of country and obedience to authority. Can the time and attention of those entrusted with government be employed upon a subject more vital to the interests of society than to secure the education of every child within the operation of its laws, and he sincerely trusts that from the wisdom of the Legislature will be developed some plan that will at least guard the neglected children of the Commonwealth into institutions where, jointly with the contributions of charitable people, she can provide for their maintenance and instruction.

NAVAL SCHOOL. The Legislature is invited to consider the act of Congress of June, 1874, for the establishment of a naval school at Philadelphia. The importance of a school of this kind cannot be over estimated, especially to a commercial city like Philadelphia, and the liberal offer of the National Government will enable the instruction to be given in a practical way under a competent superintendent.

SOLDIERS ORPHANS. Under this head the Governor says: "The education and maintenance of the soldiers orphans will continue to elicit your sympathy and aid. No object should be made a more successful appeal to our consideration, than the condition of these unfortunate children, whose future will be shaped and usefulness largely determined by the instruction they receive from the State. A number of these orphans, distinguished by good conduct and mental qualities that adapted them to the calling of teachers, have been transferred upon the expiration of their terms, from the Orphan to the Normal schools of the State, where they are being fitted for that useful occupation. What the State should do to obtain employment or a means of livelihood for the residue of their children who are in need of assistance, is a matter I feel assured you will not think unworthy of attention."

CENTENNIAL. The Centennial is referred to in glowing terms and the welcome accorded those who attend, the Governor says, will be in keeping with the traditional hospitality of the people of Pennsylvania, and we trust will reflect honor upon the whole nation.

INSURANCE. The necessity of an insurance department has been shown, the Governor says by the discovery of a number of unsafe and insolvent companies doing business in the State. In some cases the assets melted away into worthless securities, fraud. The protection of sound companies, the retention at home of the capital invested in insurance, the interests of the insured, and the honor of the State, alike demand the exposure of those fraudulent companies and the enactment of a general law so stringent in its regulations that it will be impossible for adventurers, under the cloak of an insurance company to rob the public.

NEW CONSTITUTION. The new Constitution is next referred to, and His Excellency is pleased to observe a more growing disposition on the part of those in favor of good government to see that its provisions are all carried into effect.

BANKS, SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANIES. We have in the State one hundred and ninety-nine National banks, whose capital is about $52,000,000; and one hundred and seventeen State banks and savings institutions, whose capital actually paid in as per Auditor General's report of 1874, was $8,370,168 85, in all three hundred and sixteen banks and savings institutions, with an aggregate capital of $60,000,000. He calls attention to the vicious practice that has grown up in the State of incorporating banks, savings and trust companies without fixing proper and definite limitations to their powers and privileges, and providing for their enforcement. In the enactment of a general law, whereby they can be organized without limit, it is of the highest importance to the business interests of the people, and their powers and privileges be clearly defined, and any violation thereof should subject them to proper penalties or the forfeiture of their charters.

The Auditor General's report shows that they had over $23,000,000 in deposits. Some of them are averaging $10, $20, $30, and $40, of deposits for each dollar of capital stock paid in; depending, in some instances, almost entirely upon their deposits for banking facilities. These are obtained by offering usually six per cent interest, and loaned back to the community in which they are borrowed at higher rates of interest.

MUNICIPAL INDEBTEDNESS AND TAXATION. The creation and increase of indebtedness by the municipalities of this Commonwealth the past few years, have justly excited the apprehension of taxpayers, and greatly augmented their burdens. So enormous has this evil become, that a provision was inserted in the new Constitution to check it, and at the last session I approved an act for that purpose. While the letter of the Constitution may be open to technical criticism, its spirit and intention is in my judgment clear, that no city whose indebtedness at the adoption of the Constitution, exceeded seven per cent, shall be permitted to increase the same, in the aggregate, to exceed three per cent. of the assessed value of the property therein. If additional legislation is necessary with the spirit of the Constitution and protection to over-burdened taxpayers, demand we should permit no evasion of its wise and beneficent provisions.

POLL TAX. He refers to the poll tax and says it is not in harmony with our institutions that citizens should be deprived of exercising their franchise by excessive taxation, or that the tax imposed therefor be unequal. This qualification tax of voters should be uniform, and I therefore suggest the repeal of all laws authorizing the levying of taxes upon trades, occupations, and professions, and that a county poll-tax be substituted therefor at a rate so reasonable as to be within the ability of all to pay.

THE NATIONAL GUARDS. He speaks in praise of the National Guards and says. The conduct of the several commands, on occasions of public parade, has been in general unexceptionably good, and when a sterner duty was required of them, the response was prompt and warranted the belief that they could be relied upon in any emergency. Officers are held to a strict accountability for arms and munitions of war in the custody of their commands, and it cannot be too rightly impressed upon the minds of the troops of the National Guard, that in no exigency can the arms of the State be used except in the hand of her uniformed and regularly controlled soldiers under the command of their proper officers, acting by the direction of competent authority.

THE MURDERED ROMANS. The Governor alludes to the murder of the Italian miners, and says: There is nothing to show any efficient interference on the part of the local authorities to check these unlawful proceedings, and there is no evidence that any regular or official investigation in relation to these troubles was had, until loss of life made it necessary. I feel confident that prompt action on the part of the authorities in the vicinity would have speedily terminated, if not entirely prevented the disturbances.

After referring to the State Arsenal at Capital Hill, and fish culture the BUREAU OF STATISTICS is considered, and the opinion expressed that "the usefulness of this bureau will depend upon its ability to obtain reliable statistics, and its investigations, therefore, should be conducted with great circumspection and caution, while citizens and corporations should open every avenue of intelligence connected with its official inquiries."

After dwelling on the importance of wise and humane legislation for the insane, the State Board of Charities is alluded to as follows. The disinterested labors of this board to alleviate the sufferings of the insane and other poor have been productive of most valuable results, and to its efforts we are under obligations for the marked improvement in the condition of our jails and almshouse, and for a more enlightened sentiment upon the whole important subject of public charity.

THE EXECUTION LAW. It is next alluded to as follows: It is to be regretted that the act to modify the execution law of 1849, so as to forbid a waiver of the exemption by the creditor was not passed finally at the last session of the Assembly. It encountered no serious opposition, and failed to become a law from inattention.

THE OHIO RIVER. Referring to this subject, the Governor says: The Commissioners of Pennsylvania have made a report to the Executive embodying a brief review of their labors and the suggestions they have offered in regard to this enterprise. They recommended that the Legislature of Pennsylvania pass a joint resolution asking Congress to appropriate sufficient money to commence this improvement, and I heartily concur in this recommendation.

One of the subjects of engrossing interest to the people of the west and north-west, and to which the east is immediately concerned is to obtain some means of conveyance, whereby their commodities can reach the markets, and they can receive in return what they need at cheaper than existing rates, and in addressing themselves to the consideration of this great transportation problem, the improvement of the Ohio river is believed to be the mode by which it can be solved with the least difficulty.

After referring to the death of Chief Justice Thompson, the message closes as follows: Being the first Representatives elected under the new Constitution, a grave responsibility rests upon the present Legislature, and the future prosperity of the Commonwealth will depend in a large measure upon the wisdom of the counsels that may prevail at the pending session. Additional legislation is needed to give full force and effect to the Constitution, and the importance of framing laws that will be uniform and general in their operation, cannot be urged upon the attention of your honorable bodies with too much earnestness. I feel convinced that you will approach the discharge of this duty with a becoming sense of the magnitude of the trust and an ardent desire to promote the public welfare, and with all efforts in this behalf, I pledge you my heartiest co-operation. My most cordial wishes attend you for an auspicious beginning and a happy close to your labors.
