ELK LODGE, A. Y. M.

The stated meetings of Elk Lodge, No. 879, are held at their hall, corner of Main and Depot streets, on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

The days are growing longer.

Snow still falls, and sleighing continues good.

Adjourned term of Court on April 2d.

Mail West was five hours late on Monday.

N. T. Cummings has commenced rafting in.

The Civil Rights Bill don't affect business in Ridgway very much.

Sheriff Scull has plenty of business on hand.

Plenty of ice here, several of our citizens were filling their ice houses on Monday.

Elmira Sunday-school teacher to his pupil: "Now my little man, can you explain to us the cause of Adam's fall?"

Little man (emphatically): "Yes sir; cause he hadn't any ashes to throw on the sidewalk."

The Clearfield Republican says:—The "oldest inhabitant" is putting on his spectacles and corroborating his records, to see how the present winter compares in point of severity with former years.

D. C. Oyster, has purchased B. F. Ely's property at the corner of Court and Centre streets, and intends making some improvements as soon as spring opens. We are glad that the ex-sheriff has decided to settle down in our village.

Our State Senate has passed a bill for the pay of Judges in the State. It provides that the chief justice shall receive $8,500, the associate judges $8,000 the judges of Philadelphia and Allegheny $5,000, the county judges (except the judge of the Danbury district, who is to receive $5,000) $5,000.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement on our fourth page headed "55 Cents." The N. Y. Saturday Journal, the Great Literary Weekly of America for one year, with $5 cash to every fifth subscriber, for the Regular Subscription Price $3. The Saturday Journal is a large eight-page paper, and well worth the subscription price, and then a chance to get five dollars besides, is something worth looking after.

The Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin tells this: On the evening of the 24th inst., Wm T. Edler and Joseph Mann, of Coggsa Station, caught an eagle that measured eight feet and one inch from tip to tip of its wings. It was caught in a field near that place floundering in the snow, on account of a wound in one of its legs. It is represented as a savage looking bird and attracts much attention. We have not learned what disposition its captors propose to make of it, but we would be glad to suggest that they should keep it for exhibition at the centennial, as a specimen of what we have in Lycoming county.

An exchange says: Chapped hands and skin cracks are entirely unnecessary even in the coldest weather if proper care is observed. Most of the so-called toilet soaps are caustic, or full of ley, and act very injuriously upon the skin. Genuine castile soap is almost wholly neutral and is the best for washing with.

By rinsing the hands entirely from every trace of soap, and wiping them thoroughly before going out chaps may be avoided; any that do appear can be cured by rubbing the affected parts with cold cream, or, what is the same thing, common lard, before retiring.

We learn from the Gazette, that St. Mary's has lost one of its oldest and most highly esteemed citizens in the person of Bernard Eckel. Mr. Eckel was a Bavarian, and came to this country in 1814, and in January last took a trip to Europe for the benefit of his health. He landed at Hamburg on the 28th, and wrote a letter to his family, dated on that day, that his trip proved very beneficial. How deceptive! A relative informs the friends that he died on the 30th, and was buried on the 31st. This was shocking news to the family at St. Mary's.

Out of 241,925 packages of stamps, etc., transmitted through the postoffice in the United States during the year 1874-75, only four packages, valued at $67.45, were lost, and of the 2,000,000 of regular registered letters, only 313 were actually lost or stolen.

APPLETON'S AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.—That the revised, and elegantly illustrated edition of this work, now being published, a volume of 800 pages once in two months, is the best Cyclopaedia in America, is certain. No library is complete without it. It is a complete one in itself. It only costs $3 a month to get it in leather binding. The best and cheapest library in the world. Address, C. K. Judson, Fredonia, N. Y.

The Civil Rights Bill. The Civil Rights Bill has finally passed both Houses of Congress, being signed by the President and thus become a law of the land. The following is a full text of the document:

Whereas, It is essential to just government that we recognize the equality of all men before the law, and hold that it is the duty of government, in its dealings with the people, to mete out equal and exact justice to all, of whatever nationality, race, color or persuasion religious or political; and it being the appropriate object of legislation to enact great fundamental principles into law, therefore, He it enacted, etc., That all persons within the jurisdiction of the U. S. shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, public conveyances on land or water, theaters and other places of public amusement, subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law, and applicable alike to citizens of every race and color, regardless of any previous condition or servitude.

Sec. 2. That any person who shall violate the foregoing section by denying to any citizen, except by law applicable to citizens of every race and color, and regardless of any previous condition or servitude, the full enjoyment of any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges in said section enumerated, or by aiding or inciting such denial, shall, for every such offense, forfeit and pay the sum of $500.00 to the person aggrieved thereby, to be recovered in an action of debt, with full costs; and shall also, for every such offense, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $500.00 nor more than $1,000.00, or shall be imprisoned not less than 30 days nor more than one year; provided that all persons may elect to sue for the penalty aforesaid or to proceed under their rights at common law, and by State Statutes; and having so elected to proceed in the one mode or the other, their right to proceed in other jurisdiction shall be barred. But this proviso shall not apply to criminal proceedings either under this act or the criminal law of any State. And provided further, that a judgment for the penalty in favor of the party aggrieved or a judgment upon an indictment, shall be a bar to other prosecution, respectively.

Sec. 3. The District and Circuit Courts of the U. S. shall have exclusive jurisdiction of the several State cognizance of all crimes and offenses against and violations of the provision of this act; and actions for the penalty given by the preceding section may be prosecuted in the Territorial, District or Circuit Courts of the U. S., wherever the defendant may be found, without regard to the other party. And the district attorneys, marshals and deputy marshals of the U. S., and commissioners appointed by the Circuit and Territorial Courts of the U. S., with powers of arresting and imprisoning or bailing offenders against the laws of the U. S., are hereby authorized and required to institute proceedings against every person who shall violate the provisions of this act, and cause him to be arrested and imprisoned or bailed, as the case may be, for trial before such court of the U. S., or Territorial Court, as by law has cognizance of the offense, except in respect of the right of action accruing to the person aggrieved; and such district attorneys shall cause such proceedings to be prosecuted to their termination as in other cases. Provided, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed to deny or defeat any right of civil action accruing to any person, whether by reason of this act or otherwise. And any district attorney who shall willfully fail to institute and prosecute the proceedings herein required shall for every such offense forfeit and pay the sum of $500.00 to the person aggrieved thereby, to be recovered by an action of debt, with full costs, and shall on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not less than $1,000.00 nor more than $5,000.00. And provided further, that a judgment for the penalty in favor of the party aggrieved against any such district attorney, or a judgment upon an indictment against any such district attorney, shall be a bar to either prosecution, respectively.

Sec. 4. That no citizen possessing all other qualifications which are or may be prescribed by law shall be disqualified for service as grand or petit juror in any court of the U. S. or of any State, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude; and any officer or other person charged with any duty in the selection or summoning of jurors who shall exclude or fail to summon any citizen aforesaid shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not more than $5,000.

Sec. 5. That all cases arising under the provisions of this act in the courts of the U. S., shall be reviewable by the Supreme Court of the U. S., without regard to the sum in controversy, under the same provisions and regulations as are now provided by law for the review of other cases in said court.

In the Ohio House of Representatives, Tuesday, a joint resolution requesting Congress to reduce the President's salary to $25,000 a year was adopted.

THE AMERICAN MIRROR.—We have received the first number of this new weekly paper. The publisher announces as its object "to supply the reading public with what is newest and of highest merit in the world's literature, in convenient, readable form, at the very minimum of cost." Its beginning and its promises look well. This week Miss Braddon, who by a large portion of the reading public is considered the most brilliant and fascinating writer among living lady authors, presents a large installment of her story "Hostages to Fortune." Next week a story by Wilkie Collins is announced to begin. Terms of the paper, two cents a week or one dollar a year. It will be sent five weeks on trial for ten cents. Inducements are offered to agents and clubs. Address THE AMERICAN MIRROR, P. O. Box 4521, New York City.

"Lights and Shadows of New York Life; or the Sights and Sensations of the Great City." A work descriptive of New York City in all its various phases. Its Splendors and Wretchedness; Its High and Low Life; Its Marble Palaces and Dark Dens, Its Attractions and Dangers; Its Rings and Frauds; Its Leading Men and Politicians; Its Adventurers; Its Mysteries and Crimes. By James D. McCabe, Jr. What Paris is to the Frenchman, or London to the Briton, New York is to the American. It is not only the Metropolis, but it is the chief attraction upon this continent, the great centre to which men and women resort for both business and pleasure, and as such is a source of never-failing interest. Of late years several attempts have been made to reproduce its varied attractions in book form. The most successful result of these efforts is the book now before us. The author has had unusual facilities to see every feature of the great city, and has written the work with an enthusiasm which is apparent in every page. He has not merely produced a sensational story, but has given us a record of actual facts, of which he is personally cognizant.

The book is as fascinating and absorbing as a novel, and were it not for the evidence he furnishes, we should be tempted to believe that he has carried us into the realm of fiction. He tells us the history of the great city which has grown to be the most remarkable in America, and relates its old traditions with zest and humor. He introduces us to all classes of people, and initiates us into their ways and manner of life. He brings us face to face with great merchants and bankers, actors, editors, working women, ballet girls, thieves, gamblers, sailors, quacks, firemen, and a host of others. He delights us with his sketches of the better and brighter side of city life, of the genius, enterprise, charity and humanity of the great city, and appals us with his thrilling accounts of the darker and more terrible side of the life he is delineating.

A truthful picture of New York life cannot be otherwise than deeply interesting. Our author has succeeded admirably in his task, and we predict for his book a large sale. It is brim full of useful information, brilliant and fascinating, and an emphatic warning against the vices of the city. It is pure and lofty in tone, and while it discloses fully many of the darker sides of city life, it does so with delicacy and candor. An interesting feature of the book is a powerfully written history of the Tammany Ring frauds, with sketches of the actors therein.

It is comprised in one large octavo volume of 550 pages, illustrated with nearly 200 fine engravings of noted places, life and scenes in New York, and published by the National Publishing Co., of Philadelphia.

The low price at which the work is issued, brings it within the reach of all, and no one who wants to know New York as it really is, should fail to buy this book.

It is sold by subscription only, and Mr. A. H. Head who is the authorized agent for this section, is now canvassing for it.

MISBEHAVIOR IN CHURCH.—The Altoona Record speaks as follows of a recent charge delivered to a jury by Judge Dean: "Judge Dean, in charging the jury in the case of a disturbance by a party of half grown young men, of a Lutheran protracted meeting, near Springfield, Ore mines, made some very sensible and pertinent remarks which ought to have been heard by many more boys and young men in this city. The court said substantially that while there was no established church in this country, there was a law to guarantee to every man or woman the right to worship as they saw proper, and furthermore, that to create such a disturbance of a congregation as our statutes contemplate it was not necessary that a riot be created; but that loud talking, loud laughing, unnecessary and unseasonable going into or out of church, or shuffling of feet during services, to the annoyance of the worshippers, was a disturbance and a misdemeanor in law. He further said that there was no law to compel anybody to go to church, but when in church all must act properly and decently. The charge was a sermon that many will do well to profit by, and those to whom it was specially directed long remember."

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of New York, Feb. 20th, John O'Toole who was on trial for killing Mrs. Teresa Hessler by striking her with a flatiron on the head, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree, and was sent to the State's Prison for ten years.

THE QUEEN OF ALL SEWING MACHINES.—In speaking of the merits of the Wilson Shuttle Sewing Machine, it is sufficient for us to say that we think the invention of this machine marks one of the most important eras in the history of this country; and when we consider the influence it has upon the social well-being of the masses, it is difficult to conceive of an invention of more importance. It has a beautiful, noiseless movement; it makes the genuine "lock-stitch" alike on both sides, and does to perfection all kinds of plain and fine sewing; it needs no commendation; its rapid sales, the increasing demand, and the many flattering testimonials from those who have used it, is sufficient proof of its merits. The want of a sewing machine is deeply felt in every household, and as the Wilson Shuttle Sewing Machine, on account of its extreme simplicity and low cost of manufacture, is sold at a much lower price than all other first-class machines, it is meeting with the extensive patronage that it so justly deserves. Machines will be delivered at any Railroad Station in this country, free of transportation charges, if ordered through the Company's Branch House at 327 & 329 Superior St., Cleveland, Ohio.

They send an elegant catalogue and chromo circular free on application. This Company want a few more good agents.

George Young has been arrested in New York charged with being one of the gang of counterfeiters who had their headquarters at Battleboro, Mass. On being brought to court he signified his willingness to go back to Massachusetts.

The Aldine for March (No 15 of the current series) is at hand, quite as heavily freighted with good things as usual (which is saying much), and with some peculiarities demanding special attention. Artistically, it has many features of the first excellence. The first engraving is "The New Doll,"—admirably well done, but one of those things which seem like a waste of fine labor, until one knows that it is a portrait of the daughter of the French writer, Edmond About, by John S. Davis; knowing which the picture assumes a marked interest.

"Evening, Pigee Cove, Mass.," by Kruseman van Elten, is a full page picture, with good feeling and execution. Two charming smaller pictures follow—"The Modern Adam and Eve" and "The Fisherman's Daughters," both telling their stories to perfection. Then we have another pair of companion pictures, "Confession," and "The Stillness of Death," both worth a world of study for their true conception and faithful execution. Then follow "Happy Hours of Childhood," scarcely equal to the high Aldine average, and another full-page picture by Mr. Davis, "Dews of Evening," which may be set down as one of the most graceful things in drawing, and one of the most splendid successes in wood-engraving, anywhere published within a long period. Three excellent views of Hereford Cathedral (west of England) conclude the art-contents of the number: a list of true elegance in illustration, and one appealing to all tastes in its singular variety.

Literarily, the number is a trifle less various, but no whit less meritorious; this number, like the two preceding, proving both determination and ability to make The Aldine a high-class magazine as well as a rich repository. It is especially rich in poetry—all the specimens fine, and one notably so, "Love and Sinking," by F. A. Blaisdell, somewhat long, tells a reasonable story very prettily. "Imprisoned," by Mrs. Elizabeth Akers Allen, is in that writer's best vein, but far too sad for any pleasant reading. "Sorrowful Work," by Kenyon Murray, is of the Bret Harto and John Hay order, and worthy of those masters. But the gem of the number, poetically, is "A Spar to Pegasus," by Bertha Wylie a name new to the literary world, but scarcely destined to remain so, this being taken as a test of power. It reads like an emanation from George Herbert or some other sweet English classic, and yet is instinct with the spirit of to-day. For its noble philosophy of heroism, it should go round the world. In prose, The Aldine has a somewhat long but very well-managed translation, "The Plute-Tortoise" of Raphael Menges, by A. B. Neilson; "Harry's Wall," a second story from the fresh and playful pen, with a dash of sadness beneath, of that new Norse writer, Elena Sjierne Jarner, which gave us the "Second Lorki" in the January number; "David Garrick," an interesting but discursive and badly grouped sketch of the great player, by Joseph Watson; and exciting continuation of the serial, "Lost Lillian Bracy," which apparently draws near to its end; (in the various editorial departments) on Hereford Cathedral, the Wagner Fever, Wood-Engraving, Late Books, etc.

We have an intimation that with the coming number, The Aldine intends to step to the front in the interests of the Centennial, by commencing the publication of a revolutionary story of rare power and with many startling revelations, claiming to have been kept back for the past forty years, after coming from the lips of the actors in that wondrous drama—as also by supplying illustrations of the great events of the conflict, in the first style of Aldine art. If this proves true, there is no hazard in saying that The Aldine will therein be opening a mine of increased popularity and prosperity, not easily measured or calculated; as materials for few new revolutionary stories can possibly exist, and who will enter the lists against this publication, in illustrating the leading occurrences of that forgotten "hundred years ago?"

The Aldine Company has determined to establish an Art Union, similar to the well-known Art Union in England, and distribute its works of art, both sculpture and paintings, which are constantly collecting, among its subscribers. Art premiums, valued at $2,500, will be distributed among each series of 5,000 subscribers. Subscription tickets, at $5 each, entitled the holder to The Aldine for a year, to the new chromo, and to a ticket in the distribution of art premiums. The Aldine Company, publishers, No. 58 Maiden Lane, New York City.

Mary Clemmer Ames' New Book. "TEN YEARS IN WASHINGTON." This fascinating and popular book is a striking instance of the success which is sure to be awarded to a really good work. The household sales have now reached the extraordinary number of upwards of twenty-six thousand copies, and this fact alone is worthy of notice—for a book which sells like this in these times must have something in it.

It is a book of National interest—a book for every one. It is actually overflowing with good things for every man, woman, and child—full of amusement and instruction for all. Mrs. Ames shows us the wonders and workings of the elaborate machinery of the Government, and tells us all about the men and women whose words and deeds are making up to-day's history of our country. She explains what they do and how they do it; and in a charming manner she gives the Ten Years Experience of a clever and wide-awake woman. She tells us every incident and fact which can interest, instruct, or amuse. Everywhere we witness wonders. At every step the Author pours forth a flood of information and anecdote, which is as charming as it is unexpected.

No other book ever published, has appealed to so large a constituency as does this one. It is a book for no one class, condition, sect, or party; it is a work for all it is indispensable to every wide awake and progressive person—everywhere. It is a book for American homes and hearthstones, and wherever there is an American family, there is a waiting customer for this charming work. In point of printing, binding, gilding, ornamentation, and above all, beautiful and costly illustrations, this work is unequalled; while the superb steel-plate portrait of Mary Clemmer Ames, engraved from a photograph taken expressly for that purpose, and the first and only portrait of any kind ever engraved of her, will be highly prized by the tens of thousands in all sections of our country who love and admire her genius.

Encouraged by the success which has attended this work, the publishers determined to make it still more worthy of the esteem in which it is so deservedly held. It has, therefore, been greatly improved and enlarged, and twenty-one first-class entirely new engravings have been added, over and above the numerous splendid illustrations which before embellished its pages. Brighter, better, more popular than ever, the price is still the same. It was cheap before—much cheaper, considering its excellence than any work of the kind that was ever in the market. It is by far the best work that Mrs. Ames has ever written, and thousands have hailed its appearance with the welcome accorded to a valued and beloved friend.

This work will be sold only to those who order of the Agent, who will introduce it to our citizens. We bespeak for it a most cordial reception—for it is worthy of it.

MRS. M. E. MALONE, agent.
