LOTION FOR FRECKLES. - Rectified spirits of wine, one onnee; water, eight ounces; half an ounce of orange flower water, or one ounce of rose water; di-Inted muriatic acid, a teaspoonful. Mix. To be used after washing.

Dyspersia.—A physician gives, in a recent work, the following advice: Do not, on any account, take meat teas, or allow any in your household to indulge in this pernicious practice. All authorities agree that tea, whatever virtues it may possess, interferes with the digestion of meat, and hence the meat-eater, if he suffers from dyspepsia, has only himself to thank.

KOUMISS FOR CONSUMPTIVE PATIENTS. -It has been remarked that certain Tartar tribes who drink freely of koumiss, or fermented mare's milk, are free from that distressing malady, pulmonary communition. This fact has led to trial of the experiment whether the disease could be cured by doses of koumiss artificially prepared; and with a satisfactory result. The artificial koumiss, composed of as 's milk and cow's milk, is a lively, sparkling beverage, not very palatable; but in three or four days the ontients tolerate it, "and then unequivocal signs of amelioration set in, the appetite returns, vomiting ceases, flesh is gained, and good sleep is enjoyed."

CRAMP.—When cramp occurs in the limbs, warm friction with the naked hand, or with the following stimulating liniment, will generally be found to succeed in removing it: Take of water of ammonia, or of spirit of hartshorn, one actly after the masculine style. ounce; olive oil, two ounces, them together till they unite. Where the stomach is affected, brandy, ether landanum, or tineture of ginger affords the speediest means of cure. The following draught may be taken with great advantage: Laudanum, forty or fifty drops; tineture of ginger, two drachms; syrup of poppies, one drachm; cinnamon in favor, or mint water, one ounce. Mix for a draught. To be repeated in an hour, if necessary. In severe cases, hot flan nels, moistened with compound camphor liniment and turpentine, or a bladder nearly filled with hot water, at one hundred deg, or one hundred and twenty deg., Fahr., should be applied to the pit of the stomach; bathing the feet in varm water, or applying a mustard poultice to them, is frequently of great ad vantage. The best preventatives, when the cause of cramp is constitutional, are warm tonics, such as the essence of ginger and camomile, Jamaica ginger in powder, etc., avoiding fermented liquors and green vegetables, especially for supper, and wearing flannel next the skin.

Assistance in Hatching Eggs.

Assistance is sometimes of great importance in hatching, especially in the case of the thick shells of the eggs of Asiatic fowls and of ducks. It is a good plan to sprinkle or dip the eggs in tepid water every day at noon for a week before hatching. The shell cracks more ditches by cunningly devised treps When the shell is chipped, if the bird does not come out in a few hours, it should have just a little help, and but a little. Break the shell a little each side of the chip, and tear the membrance where it is dried. Great care must be taken not to draw blood. Make only just room enough for the bill and head to get free. Having done this, put the eggs back again under the fluff of the hen, and watch the progress made in lives of a good many chickens and ducks are saved every season by a little timely aid while watching. Hints About Buking.

For biscuits the oven should be equally hot when they are put in, but should begin to cool a little before they are taken out; this makes them very light, but one has to watch to keep them from being scorched; eight minutes are enough to bake them; if baked with such a fire as that required for bread, they are heavy. For gems made of Graham flour and water, or for corn bread, the oven should be very hot; but the fire should have been built some time before they were put in, and begin to go down by the time they are light; for if the oven remains as hot as was necessary to make them rise, they will burn before they are thoroughly cooked through. Bread requires a much slower fire, but it should be even and steady from first to last.
