

From Steck's Phila R. R. Guide, Silver for Small Change.

The act of Congress of January 11 1875, to provide for the resumption of specie payment authorizes and requires the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, as rapidly as is practicable to cause to be coined at the Mints of the United States silver coins of the denominations of ten, twenty five and fifty cents, and to issue them in redemption of an equal number and amount of fractional currency of similar denominations. Dr. Linderman, director of the Mint Bureau, is engaged in perfecting measures for the coining of pieces to enable the Secretary to carry out the law. The total amount of fractional currency shown by the books of the Treasury Department at Washington to be now in circulation, is $40,773,575, and it is estimated that of this amount 12,000,000 ten cent notes, $1,500,000 in fifteen cent notes, $2,000,000 in five cent notes, $10,000,000 in twenty five cent notes and $15,000,000 in fifty cent notes. Hence it will require 120,000,000 dimes to retire the fractional currency notes of that denomination, and with the present operations of the Mints two years will be required to coin them alone unless the coining of all other pieces be suspended and the whole force be assigned to work upon them. Forty millions of quarters will be required to replace twenty five cent notes, and 30,000,000 of half dollars to replace the fifty cent notes. It is believed however that at least $5,000,000 of the fractional currency has long since been worn out while in circulation and will never be presented for redemption. At the Philadelphia Mint the principal work is on small silver coins; but at the San Francisco and Carson City Mints gold coinage is forwarded as rapidly as possible on account of the great demand for coin on the Pacific coast.
