A Freed Fox. Several days ago a party of young men and a dog started a fox, somewhere above Dickinson's orchard, and in a short time succeeded in treating the tree, which was a tall old hemlock and endeavored to capture his foxship but received for his trouble several severe scratches. The fox then jumped to the ground and was chased by the young men and dog until he was again freed, and shot by one of the party. He was a cross fox, and no wonder.

Don't fail to attend the circus.

Court Matters Omitted in our last Issue.

ROADS.

Petition for viewers to view and change a part of the Ridgway and Brookville public road, commencing near the house of James Reiley, in Ridgway township, and ending near Helen school house, in Horton township. Order to view issued; and G. W. Clinton, appointed surveyor, and N. M. Brockway, and John Meyers viewers.

Petition for public road from Anson Robinson's in Jay township, to a point near where Spring run crosses the township line between Jay and Benetate townships, which was granted March 30, 1877, was taken up, A. W. Gray appointed surveyor, and Albert Weis and John Barr viewers.

Petition of Ralph Bell for private road from his farm in Fox township to the private road leading from the house of Joseph Seiffried to the Milesburg and Smethport turnpike. Order to view issued, and E. E. Willard, appointed surveyor, and Geo. R. Woodward and William McCauley viewers.

Petition for public road from north end of bridge across Bennett's Branch, near Medix run, to Barr's Station, on Allegheny Valley railroad. Order to view issued, and A. W. Gray appointed surveyor, and John Johnston and Miles Dent viewers.

Order to view a road to lead from Water street, in Benetate, to the depot on the Allegheny Valley railroad, near Benetate. Confirmed nisi, and ordered to be opened fifty feet wide.

In the matter of a road in Ridgway township, from near W. H. Osterhout's house to the northern terminus of Broad street, the report of the viewers of which was the January term, confirmed nisi and the road ordered to be opened fifty feet wide, the following exceptions to said report were presented by George A. Rathbun, counsel of certain citizens of Ridgway township.

1st. That said report assesses damages, and it does not appear from the report that notice was given to the county commissioners, as required by the 28th rule of court.

2d. That said reviewers, having assessed damages to owners of lands through which the road passes, do not report whether in their opinion the damages should be paid by the petitioners or the county, as required by the 25th rule of court.

3d. That no proof of notice to the county commissioners, or their attorney, of the presentation of said report is filed therewith, as provided by the 22nd rule of court.

4th. That there are already two roads from the village of Ridgway—one from Mill street, and one from Depot street, to Osterhout's tannery and the latter immediately in front of said Osterhout's house, and at that point are only about fifty rods apart; that it appears, from the draft appended to said report, that said road crosses Elk creek, two mill races, two ditches, and some swamp land, in all 477 feet. That the termini of said road are about fifteen feet higher than the main part of said road, and that the said road, from said causes, will be very extensive to build and maintain. The exceptant further says that the township of Ridgway is largely in debt, and the building of said road, in view of the facts, is inexpedient, and will be burdensome to the people.

The court overruled the exceptions and confirmed the report absolute.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Petition of citizens of Spring Creek township was presented, setting forth that at the late election for municipal officers E. M. Rogers, W. A. Irwid and S. T. Dougherty were elected auditors; that the said Rogers and Irwid, by reason of being school directors, are ineligible; that said Dougherty has since removed from the township; that from these causes the office of auditor is vacant and therefore praying the court to appoint as said auditors Martin Perrin, L. B. Elliott and Galen Meddock. The prayer of the petitioners was granted, and said Perrin, Elliott and Meddock appointed.

Petition for county bridge across Bennett's Branch at or near the mouth of Dent's run. Order to view issued, and A. W. Gray appointed surveyor, and E. Lenz, B. F. Ely, A. E. Goff, John Barr and William M. Cauley viewers.

One day last week, while a small girl, eleven years old, was after her cow on one of our back roads, about a mile from town, she was followed and forcibly outraged by a young man about seventeen years of age. After getting away from the brute, she ran sobbing all the way home, and from the bodily injuries, fright, and fatigue of the race, was a good deal prostrated. The young man was promptly arrested and brought before Esquire Brown, who held him in $500 bail for his appearance at next term of court, in default of which he was committed to jail at Ridgway. There is another young man in this town if put in to keep him company no injustice would be done.

Circus! circus! all circus! one goes and another comes. Last Monday we had the New York, and next Monday we are to have the Great Pacific. The boys are happy. But middle aged people would not think of going only their children have never been and they are obliged to go and take care of them. Only one fight, nobody hurt but a showman.

They are going to have the walls of the Smethport jail papered and see if they can't keep the prisoners in.

The Dictionary as an Instructor.

We notice as a matter well worth mentioning that at the recent great publishers' trade sale in New York, the books that were most in demand and brought the best prices were Webster's Dictionaries, from the famous Quarto to the neat and handy pocket edition. This fact is a good indication of the almost universal popularity of these books, and of the growing public demand for them. It indicates also a fact of far greater importance, and that is the interest the people are taking in the study of their own language. This is encouraging as there is no branch of education that is now and has been so much neglected as the common branches of spelling and defining. It is often astonishing and grievous to see how grossly ignorant are children and youth, and even men and women, of the orthography, pronunciation and meaning of ordinary words and phrases. They cannot express their thoughts for the want of words, and often they express thoughts very different from what they intend, because they do not understand the words they employ. And very frequently, from the same cause, they take no idea, or wrong ideas, from what they read or hear.

The remedy for these evils is the proper training in the study of words, by the use of the Dictionary, and this training should begin as soon as the child can distinguish between one word and another, and continue indefinitely. The apparatus for this study should, of course, be the most complete and thorough to be had, and this is abundantly supplied in Webster's Dictionaries, which are justly recognized, wherever our language is spoken, as the standard authority in English. Parents and teachers can in no other way so effectually or so cheaply promote the educational interests of their children, when of suitable age, as by putting in their hands any one of Webster's School Dictionaries, for daily use in connection with the study of their lessons; and by placing on the family center table, or the teacher's desk as the authoritative guide and standard a copy of the Unabridged.

The unabridged contains 3,000 illustrations, over 114,000 words in its vocabularies, and 10,000 words and meanings not in any other Dictionary; the abridged editions comprise "The Primary," which has the largest sale, and which has some capital rules for spelling. "The Common School" is smaller, but larger, with tables of synonyms, &c. "The High School," still fuller, with many useful tables; "The Academic" and "Counting-house" for advanced schools and for general home and business use. The latter has some specially valuable commercial and financial tables. The little "Pocket" edition, with its bright gilt edges and morocco binding, is truly an invaluable pocket companion. It contains more than 18,000 words, rules for spelling, many abbreviations, words and phrases, proverbs, &c., ordinarily met with in the Greek, Latin and Modern languages. Whether it is convenient or not to have copies of any of the other books of the series, we certainly recommend that all should possess a copy of the Pocket, which, when not otherwise obtainable, may be had by mail, by inclosing $1.00 to the publishers, Messrs. Ivson, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., 138 and 140 Grand Street, New York.

Barossa is the name of a medicine that has cured more cases of inflammation of the kidneys, bladder and gravel than any known preparation extant. We have a great number of certificates from both males and females who have been cured, relieving almost instant relief, in cases of back-ache, strain or cold. It has no equal. It is prepared by E. K. Thompson, Titusville. Ask any respectable druggist, who will get it for you if he has not got it in his stock. Price $1.00 per bottle.

Boston, June 8.—Another case of child killing by a child has been discovered in the Charlestown district, the victim being a boy named Charles Fagerstrom, aged three years, and the slayer a boy named Welch, aged two years and six months. Whether the children were in the habit of quarreling does not appear, but a sister of Mrs. Welch instructed her daughter Lizzie to drive away young Fagerstrom whenever he came there. This display of hostility towards the Fagerstrom boy doubtless made a strong impression upon the Welch boy, and last Wednesday evening the latter picked up a fragment of brick having a sharp edge, and going up to the Fagerstrom boy struck him on the head with it just above the left eye, fracturing his skull from which he died. No inquest was held on account of the irresponsible age of young Welch.

The Norristown Herald says:—Two daughters of a farmer in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., desired to pay the debt on their homestead, but they preferred not to do it by hard work. They hit upon an idea that suited their purpose, and have made enough money to remove the debt. They had a large quantity of porous stones saved into small pieces and thoroughly soaked in an odorous preparation, which imparted to them a durable scent. These they have peddled throughout the State, at twenty-five cents each, representing that they were cut from the rock of a wonderfully perfumed cave in South America. The girls are so demure and pretty, and tell their lie with such an appearance of simplicity that the sales are very large. They have just put a fresh lot of stone in soak, preparatory to a Western tour.

Saturday, June 16, is the day to go and see, the Great Pacific Circus. Save your 50 cents until Saturday and then go and see the great show.

The Titusville Courier says if the "present rate continues 1,400,000 barrels of oil will be shipped from the Pennsylvania regions in June."

A Scranton man has been arrested for perjury. He swore that he had lost $1,500 by a recent fire, while the actual damage is said to have been only $250.

During the month of May 314 oil wells were drilled. Of these 60 were dry holes. Thus 254 producers are added, which on the whole, will more than counterbalance the falling off in production. There are now 273 rigs up and in process of erection.

An unknown Irishman was found dead in a car on the Allegheny Valley railroad on Friday. It is thought he was a moulder, as a number of moulder's tools were found in his possession. The deceased committed suicide by taking laudanum.

The Shenandoah Herald is endeavoring to create a sensation with the story that the Mouch Chunk jail is to be attacked with the purpose of liberating the condemned Mollies. The police force on duty at the jail has been doubled.

The people of Wayne county endeavored to procure an injunction to prevent the Commissioners from erecting a two hundred thousand dollar Court House by judges labor instead of contract, but Judge Dreber decided that the building might go on at the Commissioners' discretion.

At Petrosia on Friday Minnie Smalley, aged ten years, attempted to kindle a fire in a stove with kerosene oil, but holding the can too near the flame it exploded, burning her fatally, the skin being torn from her body and limbs. She died in a short time in great agony.

The Selingsgrove Times says: "Wm. H. Gibbons, who has been doing the tanning business for John M. Rine at McKee's Half Falls, Snyder county, disappeared several days ago, leaving Mr. Rine minus about $2,500. On Tuesday morning Mrs. Gibbons followed her defaulting husband but no one knows whether.

It is reported that an immense gas vein has just been struck in a well in McKean county, about five and a half miles south of Olean. The gas comes from a depth of 1,180 feet, from a sand rock about 25 feet thick and about 40 feet over the producing (third), sand of the Bradford oil region, and indicates a pressure of about sixty pounds to the square inch.

The Clarion Democrat says: "Never since 1865 has there been so much excitement about oil in Clarion as there has been this week. The well of McLaughlin, Law & Co., on the Samuel Sloan farm, about half a mile east of the borough, struck the third sand at a depth of 1,150 feet, last Monday night, and before noon on Tuesday there was between 300 and 400 feet of oil in the hole. The news spread rapidly and hundreds of our citizens have visited the well, and scores of operators, speculators and curiosity seekers have come from Elenburg and other points in the oil regions."

A preacher in a Pittsburgh church was charged with folly by his congregation of which he was pastor. He acknowledged the truth of thirty-two, among them the following: Sixteen for debt; eight for falsehood; two for engaging in immoral conversation while visiting, and one charge of writing a promissory note in church while a brother was praying. He had borrowed some money from one of the members, and while another of his flock was sending up a fervent petition to the throne of grace the pastor was engaged in making out a promissory note with a lead pencil and handed it to the right party while the prayer was still going on. The immoral conversation, charged against him, is for bringing up the subject of game chickens and their fighting propensities at houses where he would visit. The investigation was brought to an abrupt termination a few days ago, when the minister's friends rallied at the church in large force, refused to hear any evidence and excommunicated the minister.

The Laros Poisoning Case.

The supreme court yesterday morning rendered an opinion affirming the judgment of the Northampton county court in the case of Allen C. Laros, who poisoned his father, mother and five sisters and brothers, a grandchild and an aged man named Moses Schug, on March 31, 1875. The father and mother and Mr. Schug died from the effects of the poison, while the children all recovered. The case was argued on a writ of error before the supreme court at its last meeting in Philadelphia, during which a number of very delicate questions were presented for the consideration of that tribunal. Hence the protracted postponement of the decision. The poisoning of the Laros family created a great sensation at Easton and elsewhere at the time. The father and mother of Laros died the next day after the poison had been administered, and Schug on the second day. Laros, after suspicion pointed toward him as the perpetrator of the crime, directed the officers where to look for a sum of money—$500—he had taken from his father and Mr. Schug after the commission of the crime. Allen Laros was formerly a school teacher and had borne a good name. The plea of insanity was attempted to be established by his counsel, but the jury who tried him, brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree, and the supreme court to-day sustained the action of the lower court, and another will be added to the long list of executions already announced to take place.

How He Got Out of It.

The following candid statement is from the post master of North Clymer, N. Y.: After reading it will any one undertake to say that it would be possible to find language wherewith to express the value of a remedy possessed of capabilities for renovating the human system and benefiting the community? Yet in point of fact, this is only a representative expression of the grateful souls that day by day voluntarily add their testimony. Still there is a feeling that whatever may be advertised as a proprietary medicine must have more or less exaggeration attached to it, whereas the exact fact is that, generally speaking, there are no medicines in existence made with so much care and pains and with so little regard to expense in order to insure precision of action and general effectiveness.

North Clymer, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1875.

Dr. M. Fenner, Fredonia, N. Y.—Dear Sir:—About one year ago my health was so poor that I was hardly able to do business at all. Had no appetite, could not sleep nights, coughed a great deal, and had in fact, got into that state of decline when I began to contemplate the necessity of going to a different climate for my health. I had tried most everything recommended for such cases, but found no relief. At last I tried your Blood and Liver Remedy and Nervine Tonic. I thought the first half bottle stirred me up to feel worse, but before the first bottle was all gone I began to improve. I continued the remedy until I had used five (5) bottles during which time I gained twenty-five (25) pounds in weight and felt myself as sound as ever. I know there is no better remedy in existence for fixing up one's system than that out of rig than your Blood and Liver Remedy and Nervine Tonic.

Yours truly, J. H. NEWELL.

The Hillard and Hunting Circus which exhibits here on the 16th is the only exhibition traveling that has a legitimate claim to the title of circus. This establishment is a circus only, the proprietors claim nothing more, nothing less. Relying upon the attractive qualities of the arctic talent engaged, they attempt to make no outside display; they adopt no high sounding title as their nomenclature, they do not possess and therefore do not advertise cages of animals with jaw breaking names but they do claim to have a circus and the best on the road.
