A Personality.

(Reynoldsville Herald.) The little bald-headed misereant who presides over the columns of the Elk Democrat, last week venomously attacked us in his usual personal and Billingsgate style. Now we detest newspaper controversies, but if this unscrupulous and notorious little blackguard is determined to to malign the character of any one in this vicinity it will become our duty to treat him as his own malicious character dietates. He is conceited beyond measure, egotistical in the extreme and devoid of principle. As to his character it is such that the least said about it the better, yet nothing could be said that would add to its debauchery. He presides over the columns of the Democrat, if not fraudulently, mysteriously, and from this position His Fraudulent Highness has for years persistently defamed the characters of public and private citizens, without cause or provocation, but simply for the gratification of his own envious and ill-natured disposition. In conclusion we have but to say that if "Skippy" Miller is not satisfied, and is still determined to force the fight which he inaugurated without cause, let the ball continue to roll and we will guarantee him satisfaction should it even be "war to the knife, knife to the hilt." "Lay on Macduff, and damned be he who
