Personal Items.

Philo Christler has the mumps. Hon. Henry Souther was in town last week.

H. H. Wensel and wife have returned to this Borough. R. V. Kime was very sick last night with lung complaint.

Mrs. John Fannin, Sr., is very sick, and not expected to recover. Mrs. M. T. French was home last week for the first time in about five months.

Ed. J. Luther our senior devil, has been down with a severe cold for several days past.

Dr. Earley is home again after quite an extended absence. His broken limb is rapidly mending.

Judge Ross can just get around and that is about all, the result of a hard cold and the frosty shadows of old age.

A son of Mr. Ben. Stewart, who lives at Grant's tannery, died last Tuesday and was buried to-day. The child was about six years of age.

Prof. J. D. Rishell will review the life of Alfred the Great at the Reading Circle Saturday night. The circle begins at 7 o'clock sharp. All are invited.

This is St. Patrick's Day in the morning. Eight years ago to-day my editor and his wife were married. As a consequence we have been married eight years.

Ed. Bailey, while rolling leather at Osterhout's tannery had the forefinger of his right hand badly bruised on Tuesday of this week. Ed. says that it hurt.

M. E. Lesser who has been compelled to stay in the house for three or four days on account of a bad cold and sore throat is now able to be out, although he finds it necessary to keep his neck bundled up.

Capt. Fred Schoning has been in bed with the erysipelas for several days. His face swelled so that he could not see. The Captain's condition at present is much better, and his speedy recovery is assured.

M. T. French is confined to his bed, the result of a hard cold and over exertion digging graves. The above is a good luck, but Mr. French comes into the office just in time to change the sick-a-bed part of the local.

Doctor Bordwell has purchased Mrs. Houck's lots opposite the Bogert house and will put up a building 24x40 two stories high as soon as possible. Jacob Buttertuss will also put up a building near Doctor Bordwell's the same size.

Judge Gillis, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, our readers will be pained to learn is at present very low in health the result of old age and the great shock on his nervous system consequent on the untimely death of his son Charles.

W. B. Smith, of Kane, and his big brother Oscar, came to town Saturday, and returned Monday. We have not seen Oscar Smith for about eight years, but think he is standing the weather very well for his age. As for the Smith boys here's our hand for ninety-one days.

The reason that Senator David Davis rides two party horses at one time is doubtless due to the fact that 850 pounds is more load than one party horse can conveniently carry.

President Garfield has appointed Henry G. Pearson to be Postmaster at New York. He was born in 1842, is a native New Yorker, and has been since 1873 assistant to Postmaster James whose place he takes.

A great many words of praise, deservedly too, have been written in favor of the generally excellent appearance and good record of the Pennsylvania militia at the inauguration, New York State has loaded Pennsylvania with the veriest flattery in making the effort to organize her militia as near like ours as possible. All this is very well, but from personal observation we wish to bear witness to the fact that a large share of the honor for the complete and almost perfect militia system of the Keystone State belongs to Adjutant General James W. Latta, whose knowledge of military matters is extensive and whose labors in behalf of the welfare of the militia are untiring.

Educational Matters.

Persons who desire to be examined with a view to become licensed to teach should attend the public inspections. Private examinations are not legal and a special examination can be held only on the written request of at least three directors of the district where the teacher is an applicant.

The gentlemen elected to the directorship of the schools of Ridgway Borough are already talking over their coming duties. Under the Act of May 8th, 1852, they can form a temporary organization prior to the first Monday in June and do certain things concerning the school for the new year. The school interests of Ridgway Borough are in good hands and many improvements are expected. Board window shutters are suggested for the township school buildings.

The schools in Horton are very meagerly attended as there is so much sickness among the children.

James is about the only district in the county that has this winter escaped the ravages of measles, mumps and diphtheria. The schools of Jones are well attended and their success is gratifying.

It is reported that two traveling acrobats recently gave exhibitions of their skill in Dagucachonda, Whittetown and Rolfe school houses. These same acrobats evidently lied to get possession of the school buildings and in using them broke holes in the walls and despoiled things generally. It may be well under certain circumstances to open the school houses and allow the people of the immediate neighborhood to use them for other than school purposes, but great care should be exercised.

Let those persons who will form the school board in June next study their duties well and stand up zealously for educational progress. Vote for long school terms, good wages for teachers and by all means secure well qualified instructors. Do not say anything is good enough for the children or that any one can teach our school, the fact is very many people know too little and care too little about the education of the youth.

Summer school in general should be discouraged. Very few pupils can or will attend in July and August. There may be occasional instances in which these are necessary.

I have lately received from teachers some very fine manuscript work, done by the pupils at both monthly and final examinations. Let an abundance of this work be carried on. The student who can place his thoughts on paper accurately and rapidly possesses an invaluable aid for the successful performance of duties in life.

During the month of February I visited forty schools (many of them for the fourth time this year) and was accompanied in nearly every instance by school directors. To show that school visitation is on the increase I wish also to say I met at the schools, in all ninety-eight different patrons.

Geo. R. Dixon.

The inauguration ceremonies have passed off without a jar and without an accident. As a spectacle they were more than usually brilliant, though simple enough when the magnitude of Friday's transfer of power and responsibility is considered. The most significant features of the ceremonial were not, however, those of picture effect. The moral suggestiveness of the elevation of the Presidency of the United States of a man who has fought his way up from poverty and obscurity was heightened by the thoroughly democratic character of the crowd who witnessed his inauguration, and by the equally humble origin of many Senators and Representatives who occupied prominent places near the new President. In the crowd were former slaves jostling men who had formerly owned human chattels; leading the procession from the Senate Chamber was a man who had withered under the lash of the overseer's whip, and among the newly sworn in Senators of the United States was one who had stood as a page boy on the spot where he took the oath. And, to every mother's heart in the Nation, centre of the scene, was the proud, resolute old lady who had toiled and struggled to rear the boy whom she lives to accompany to the White House.—New York Times.

We have received from the Saal-field's music Store, 839 Broadway, New York, something in the way of a "Ten cent Library of Music," that fairly takes our breath away. It is a publication that this enterprising house has decided to issue every month, (Subscription price, $1.00 a year, single number 10 cts. each,) which is gotten up in the same style and shape as any other music, no matter how high priced, and yet containing sixteen pages of the most popular music for ten cents. It is certainly astonishing. The first number which has just come to hand contains Wald, tenor's immensely popular "Tres Jolie Waltzes," the beautiful little ballad, "In the gloaming," and two other pieces. Other numbers contain the popular Raquet Waltz, Miss Thursty's Tickenham Ferry, Boccaccio March, Lady Dab, whilst the last number issued is said to contain a complete Potpourri of "The Pirates of Penzance," which ordinarily retails for $1.00 alone whilst in this case it contains two other pieces besides.

JACK AND JILL.

Heavy Failure.

The Olean Democrat of last week says: Wednesday morning the failure of DeForest Weld, who has sometimes been denominated the "merchant prince of Western New York," was announced. To some people the failure may have been a surprise, but to the more cautious and observant part of the business public the crash had been expected for some time—in fact we have heard it predicted for more than a year past. At the time of the failure Weld was the ostensible owner of stores at Jamestown, Meadville, Titusville, Bradford and Warren, and was to use a vulgar expression, "just spreading himself." The Meadville and Titusville stores were recently purchased of W. A. Andrews, who in one way and another has been connected with Weld's enterprises. By the aid of a liberal display of printer's ink in the way of advertising and hand bills, and the running of excursion trains, and other enterprising devices, Weld has undoubtedly done a very large business, and secured more or less trade from almost every town in western New York. He pretended to sell very cheap, and in some lines did make very low prices, but it is generally understood that much the larger part of his stock consisted of cheap goods, several degrees removed from first-class. Some newspapers in this locality, notably the Olean Times has covered him with fulsome praise, and lauded him to the skies, at times going so far as to advise its own town people to patronize Weld in preference to local merchants, but the Democrat has always opposed this idea, and repeatedly told its readers that goods could be purchased as cheap, if not cheaper, at home than at any flash-in-the-pan merchant like Weld.

Weld's total liabilities are very large and will probably approach a quarter of a million of dollars. Judgments to the extent of nearly $200,000 were entered against him on Tuesday, and the squall had just commenced. Of this sum, it is said H. B. Claffin & Co., hold $67,000. Meadville, Titusville, Jamestown and Bradford banks are said to be quite heavily involved. Four Meadville banks will lose $10,000 each.

The Literary Revolution.

CHANGE OF BASE. This very remarkable enterprise continues to make such progress as to astonish its friends and astound its enemies. Its greatly increasing proportions have compelled the removal of its headquarters from the Tribune Building to the large and beautiful building, No. 764 Broadway, which is in the very midst of the "book district" New York City, and, therefore of the publishing enterprise of the nation. This building, though six stories in height, 25 feet front and 100 feet deep, is sufficient only for the offices and retail store of the Company. The manufacturing is carried on in several large buildings located in other parts of the city, though it is contemplated concentrating them soon in one immense factory to be erected.

Their list of recent and early forthcoming publications are extremely interesting to all who enjoy what is called literature. The Library Magazine is unique in both form and character and altogether delightful in the richness of its contents. Of the books announced, Green's larger "History of the English People," reduced from $10 to $1; Carlyle's "History of the French Revolution," reduced to 49 cts.; Carlyle's "heroes and hero worship," 25 cents, and the "Revised New Testament," which is promised to be manufactured with rapidity heretofore unheard of, will attract special attention. It is worth while for every one who has not already seen it, to send and get the illustrated pamphlet, "Book Making, and Type Setting by Steam," which will be sent free upon application. Address the American Book Exchange, 764 Broadway, New York.

The Surrendered Currency.

(Philadelphia Press.) The Government has decided against the petition of the national banks for the return of the currency deposited by them in the Treasury during the recent Funding Bill agitation. The total amount deposited after the passage of the Funding Bill by the Senate and its veto by the President was $18,864,434. Of this, $1,287,500, on which the security bonds had not been surrendered nor any redemptions made against the amount deposited, have been returned. So the contraction of the currency by this action of the banks is $17,576,934. As an offset to this the Treasury first paid out for bonds purchased about $6,500,000, and yesterday let loose $5,000,000 additional by another purchase. This would leave the net contraction about $6,000,000, but this has considerably more than made up by the payment in advance since the last inst. of $7,588,844 arrears of pensions.

The last payment being scattered in small amounts all over the country would not at once be felt in banking circles. On the first of April there will fall due more than $7,000,000 interest, so it will be seen there is little probability of even a temporary contraction of the currency. Of a permanent contraction there has never been any danger unless the banks should so elect. It has been within their discretion all along to return their bonds and receive on them the same amount of new circulating notes as they had before. They preferred, however, to recover their legal-tenders and avoid the delay and trouble of issuing new notes. This course would also have saved the Government the expense of printing new bills but as the bonds had been surrendered and redemption against the amounts deposited had been made, it suited the Government better to treat these surrenders as completed transactions which could not be reconsidered. The banks will doubtless now apply for new notes at once to an amount equal to that which was surrendered. The printing and signing of these notes ought not to involve a very long delay; some $4,000,000, indeed, are ready to be issued at once. The same bonds will be received again as security and the transient evil effect of the latest, and we trust, the last Democratic experiment at financial legislation will be effectually remedied.

On the afternoon of March 11th a boiler in the Phoenix Boiler Works Buffalo owned by Donaldson & Patterson, exploded, killing six men instantly and injuring several more.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 14.—A despatch from St. Paul to the Evening Journal says: "Governor Pillsbury this morning appointed General A. J. Edgerton United States Senator to succeed Mr. Windom. The new Senator left for Washington at noon."

The Emperor of Russia is dead since the 13th of March. One bomb was exploded under the Czar's carriage demolishing the back part. A second bomb thrown as the Czar was alighting struck close to his feet and exploded, shattering both legs. The Emperor expired in a few hours thereafter. An officer and two Cossacks were also killed. Two persons were concerned in the crime, one was immediately seized.

New York March 12.—The number of deaths in this city this week will be between 700 and 800. In the corresponding season in previous years it never was over 600. In the past few weeks the deaths have occurred at the rate of 35,712 a year. While diphtheria, scarlet fever, small pox and pneumonia are more prevalent than usual, they do not account for these figures, which are very extraordinary. A large number of fatal maladies have been engendered by filthy streets and foul exhalations. It is said that the streets never were so dirty as in the past few months.

St. Louis, March 11.—A despatch to the Republican from Clarksville, Mo., says: "B. G. Read, Superintendent of a paper mill at that place, went to the basement of the mill this afternoon to oil a shaft journal, when he was caught by a nut on a pulley wheel and carried around the shaft a number of times. Both his feet were beaten off by striking against the floor above. The engineer's attention was attracted by the noise and he shut off the steam. On going into the basement he found Read mangled and dead, his body hanging from the shaft. Deceased came from Pulaski, N. Y., last June and assisted in organizing the mill company, of which he was a member.

Indianapolis, March 14.—The vote on the Constitutional Amendment is very light but they have undoubtedly been carried by considerably larger majorities than before. The Republicans have voted solidly for them and many Democrats made judicious selections. The most opposition was manifested to the registration and fee and salary amendments. From the rural districts the reports were meagre, but they have probably received almost all the votes cast. Last April the majorities ran from 20,000 to 45,000. They probably reach 50,000 to 60,000 to-day.

We learn that there will be quite a stir in drilling the coming spring. Rumor has it that there will be five wells sunk in the neighborhood of Wilcox, one at Rathbun, and the well at Dagucachonda will be further tested. There is no further development in regard to the Seachonda well, neither will there be any until the owners decide to divulge. There is certainly show of oil there, but how much, it is impossible to ascertain.—St. Mary's Gazette.
