Afterthoughts.

Now that the unsympathizing figures of the official result are before us, all before election speculations are reduced to either realized guesses or unrealized expectation. Warm and beautiful as figures may appear on the slips of paper and old envelopes of the guessers, there nothing but the solemn array of stern fact in the carefully adjusted tables of the official canvassers. Yet after this fight the forces of the defeated hosts have the satisfaction of knowing that they fought a good fight in the cause of the right and although repulsed, the principal remains and the lesson will do its work. Not one word has been said against the candidates of the opposition as regards personal fitness or personal record. Nor has the fight been made on personal grounds.

Neither has this been a contest between Democrats and Republicans, for had it been Mr. Weidenboerner's majority would have been neck and neck with that of Noble's. It was not the Democratic nominee but the manner of the nomination. A protest from Democrats who are not owned or controlled by any one against the tyranny of a clique who rule with a high hand. Or in plain words the votes of the people against the will of the bosses. All day long the independent voter was abroad, and the result shows that in certain sections of Elk county many men think for themselves and vote regardless of party lash or threats of party overseers. There is a healthy and wholesome tone in the whole vote and a warning that the Democratic bosses and the Republican bosses will do well to heed. For personally and through the columns of THE ADVOCATE we shall oppose the little bosses and the big bosses, no matter what ticket they espouse nor under what colors they sail. And right here we will record -Dr. Warner's Celebrated Nursing | the fact that the triumph of one little boss in the Republican County Convention has wrought a damage which we contemplate with sadness. The own interest at stake, and in their haste to carry a point would ruin party, state, county, and municipality. Perhaps this may be a little hard, but we appeal to every candid reader to decide if it be not honest. The tide of a Noby styles, good goods in Hats and vigorous protest from a long suffering people will rise higher and higher until the last trace of the bosses and their work shall have been driven from the face of the earth.

The satisfaction to those who pretend to run the machine which may be derived from a plurality of 52 they are welcome to. But we can but regret the fact that at least 150 voters of Ridgway did not vote at all or almost three times the number of the plurality received by the successful candidate. Victory was within easy reach of the friends of equal division of the offices and of party resposibilities, but by neglecting the effort necessary to get out the vote we have lost. And a lesson which we should have know is again that alone they owe their victory

FOR THANKSGIVING DAY.

Washington, November 7.- The following proclamation was issued from the department of state to-day: By the president of the United States of America-A proclamation: It has long been the pious custom of our people, with the closing of the year, to look back upon the blessings brought to them in the changing course of the seasons, and to return solemn thanks to the All Giving Source from whom they flow. And although at this period when the falling leaf admonishes us that the time of our sacred duty is at hand, our nation still lies in the shadow of a great bereavement, and the mourning which has filled our hearts still finds its sorrowful expression toward the God before whom we but lately bowed made payable to the captains of the in grief and supplication. A SWINDLER'S SUCCESSFUL OPERA-TIONS IN WILLIAMSPORT. Williamsport, November 8 .- The particulars in regard to a successful forgery perpetrated in this city came out yesterday. The forger has been sojourning here at one of the leading notels for a month, under the name of Henry L. Williams, Ontario. He professed to be a mineralogist, who was seeking to purchase some sulphur lands for a company which he represented. He visited different parts of the county in company with gentlemen interested in mineral lands, and finally professed to have found what he was in quest of, and proposed to purchase. After having investigated titles he wished to obtain money from bank here to make a payment on his purchase, and presented two drafts for $950 and $480, respectively drawn on the First National Bank of New York. One or two banks where he presented his drafts declined to cash them. Some of his newly-found friends here proposed to aid him in getting the money by indorsing the drafts. This he at first declined, exhibiting a telegram apparently from the New York bank to the effect that his account was good for the amount of the drafts and more. After this he accepted the offer of a gentleman who boarded at the same hotel to indorse the drafts. He then received from one of the banks $700 in cash requesting to have the remainder placed to his credit. The early part of the evening following his receipt of the money he spent enjoying him self playing poker. At 11 o'clock he excused himself, having previously announced that he had an engagement with a lady friend at that hour. Shortly before midnight the porter of his hotel saw him at the depot, and inquired if he was going away, to which he repli ed in the negative, and said that he would be at the hotel in a few minutes. He has not been seen here since, though his baggage remains at the hotel. Despatches were received from the New York banks saying that the drafts were forgeries. So completely had the swindler beguiled those he met here that for some time after his departure they confidently expeated his return. They have now about lost their faith in the suave stranger.
