A Lecture.

Our well known fellow townsman C. R. Earley, M. D. has consented to deliver a lecture on the much neglected subject of Digestion.

The subject, being thus hygienic in its nature, or that which relates to the best mode of preserving health (a matter in which we are all deeply concerned), it is of the utmost importance that every one should understand it thoroughly; for as Shakespeare says, quaintly but truly: "Now good Digestion wait on appetite And health on both."

Proceeds for the benefit of Grace Church. The time, place, and admission will be given in small bills. Please look out for them.

Bones Certificates.

It is no vile drugged staff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, &c., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well known valuable remedies that furnishes its own certificates by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See another column.—Republican.

Joseph Jefferson the actor, wrote a Cincinnati gentleman that "My first appearance on the stage of H's took place in Philadelphia on the 29th of February, 1829. It would be quite impossible for me to give you a full list of all the parts I have played, but the following are some of the principal ones: Bob Acres, Doctor Pangloss, Asa Trenchard, Dr. Ollapod, Caleb Plummer, Tony Lumpkin, Newman Noggs, Dogberry, Mr. Gollightly, Touchstone, Feste, Lancelot Gobbo, Digory, &c. Oh! I forgot: Rip Van Winkle. I think I have played Rip Van Winkle about 2,500 times—and for which I may be forgiven in another and better world, where there will be no madhouses and no managers.

By the elections of 1880 the Republicans secured a clear majority of one of the Representatives of the Forty-Seventh Congress. The roll stood: Republicans, 147; Democrats, 134; Greenbacks, 9; Readjusters, 2, and the Independent—J. Hyatt Smith, of New York. The vacancies since made by death and resignation have all been filled except the one caused by the promotion of Nelson W. Aldrich to the Senate, but there is doubt about the election of Colonel Spooner the Republican candidate.

The defeat of Mr. Wm. W. Astor, who hoped to succeed Hon. Levi P. Morton from New York, cuts down the Republican strength to 146, or one less than a majority, and Mr. Flower's election lifts the Democrats to 135. Of the nine Greenbacks, six are classed as Republicans. J. Hyatt Smith has announced his intentions of voting for a Republican Speaker, and the Readjusters from Virginia are very likely to follow the lead of Mahone. Hence the Republican control of the next House seems to be reasonably secure.

The Clearfield Republican says: The John B. Shaffer steam saw mill in Brady township, about two and one-half miles southwest of Luthersburg, was totally destroyed by a fire at 8 o'clock on Monday morning. The watchman, Levi Heighes, at twelve and one-half o'clock A. M., fired up, and at 3 o'clock he went up to the oil room to draw some lubricating oil. He had just got the can full, and was turning to come out when his torch (which was setting on the floor) exploded and in an instant the whole room was ablaze, he having barely time to escape. He ran down to the engine room to blow the whistle and had only time to give it five or six "toots," when the whole building was in flames. By the time the men arrived it was too late to save anything, excepting a few shingles which were on the platform. Henry Weisgarber lost all his carpentering tools, his chest being in the mill. Loss on the mill, $2,000; no insurance. All the stock was sawed out, save about 100,000 feet.

The Wages of Sin.

DEATH OF ONE OF THE TRAIN ROBBERS IN THE ARKANSAS PENITENTIARY.

A very sad death occurred in the penitentiary yesterday. All deaths are sad, but of all deaths the death from a broken heart is the saddest. P. E. Sullivan, alias William Delaney, a young man of 23 years, one of the train robbers recently sentenced to 70 years in the Arkansas penitentiary, was the victim of a broken heart. Several days ago he became gloomy, and going to Dr. Lenow, prison physician, complained of being sick. Upon examination the physician discovered that the man was not suffering from any perceptible disease, but his pulse was 140. He was ordered to the hospital, where every possible care was given him. He revived after a time, but every one could see despair written on his countenance. He entered the prison cheerfully, and lightly spoke of the long term of his sentence, but after a while a letter came. When he read the lines his spirits sank. Tears told of a misery that ink could not express. He went again to his bed.

"The shadows are gathering fast and night is oppressing me with its darkness," he said yesterday to some one standing near. "One crime, and then death in a penitentiary. My old father, who has preached the Gospel for years, who many and many a time clasped his hands about my head and prayed, has been humbled in his old age. And my mother! if I could go up here her voice, but walls and law are between us. I am as one who is dead. She could come to me, but I cannot go to her." His thoughts wandered. At times he seemed to be at church, listening to his father preach; and then he seemed to be playing with his sister. He smiled and laughed softly. "Ah!" he would say, "your brother never forgets you." Suddenly his face grew dark, and, waving his hands wildly, he began to mutter broken sentences. "Seizing the bride rein, he sprang upon his antagonist's horse and dashed away."

"He's reading one of those wild books that we used to steal away and devour," said one of the dying man's companions in crime. "Halt!" he exclaimed, drawing a revolver and leveling it at the head of young Horace," continued the sufferer. "Slowly and sadly they left the church and walked along the well-worn path to the rude grave of Lawrence. Standing near the stone placed there by the Indian, Casper and his fair companion—" and he muttered incoherently the sentence dying away with a deep groan. Suddenly he raised himself, looked intently toward the door, and slowly sank back, dead.

Peterson's Magazine, for December, more than maintains its unrivalled character. There are two beautiful steel engravings: one of them a lovely title page, representing some children, singing a Christmas hymn; besides a superb steel fashion-plate, the latter exquisitely colored. In addition, there is a magnificent Stripe for a Chair, in cross-stitch embroidery, printed in colors, which, at retail, would cost fifty cents; this is presented to the subscribers of "Peterson" as a Christmas gift. A charming story, "My Cousin Maud," is as charmingly illustrated. The number contains a Supplement, with a full-size dress-pattern, alone worth more than the price of the number. Then there are some fifty other engravings, of fashions, worktable patterns, etc. The enormous circulation of "Peterson," the publisher says, enables him to give more for the money than any other. The very best stories are always to be found in "Peterson." Its regular contributors are: Ann S. Stephens, Jane G. Austin, Frank Lee Benedict, Rebecca Harding Davis, and that unrivalled humorist, the author of "Joshua Allen's wife," besides hosts of others. The price of the Magazine is but Two Dollars a year. To clubs, it is astonishingly low, viz: six copies for nine dollars, with an extra copy to the person getting up the club; or seven copies for ten dollars and a-half, with both an extra copy and a large-size premium engraving. "Hush, Don't Wake Them," or a Photograph Album, gilt, to the person getting up the club. Subscribe to no magazine till you have seen a copy of this. Specimens are sent, gratis, to persons wishing to get up a club. Address, CHAS. J. PETERSON, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

ESTRAY.

Came to the premises of P. W. Hays, in Fox Township, Elk Co., Pa. on or about the 4th day of October, 881, a black cow mixed with white, and supposed to be about 12 years old. The owner is requested to come forward and prove property, or she will be disposed of according to law. P. W. HAYS, Kersey, Nov. 9, 1881.

Assassination of Rulers.

Within a period of seventeen years two Presidents of the United States have fallen by the hands of assassins. The full significance of the fact will be more completely realized when it is remembered that, during the fourteen hundred years that have elapsed since the foundation of the French kingdom under Clovis, but two of her sovereigns have fallen by assassination, and that in England, from the time of Egbert, who was the first to bear the title of King of England (in 827), to the present, but one case of unmistakable, open assassination has occurred. Edward the Martyr was stabbed in the back while drinking a cup of mead on horseback. William Rufus, it will be remembered, was pierced by an arrow while hunting in the forest, but it is uncertain whether the arrow was discharged accidentally or intentionally. Even if we give the worst interpretation to the death of the latter, we have but two cases of assassination in a period of some thousand and fifty years. Others of the English sovereigns, however, fell by violence. Edward H. and Richard III, were secretly smothered after being deposed. Henry VI, died in the Tower after the assassination of Edward IV, but in what manner is not known. Young Edward V. was murdered in the Tower by order of Richard III., before, however, his reign fairly began. This record is bloody enough, and to it should be added, perhaps, the instance of Spencer Perceval, First Lord of the Treasury and Premier, who was shot down in the lobby of the House of Commons in 1812; but we find only four monarchs perishing from unlawful violence in more than a thousand years of English history, and two rightful rulers in the short period of seventeen years in our own history struck down by assassins! When it is remembered that English and French history covers many periods of great disorder, that there were numerous wars, rebellions, and contentions for the crown, and that the age of political violence is now commonly supposed to have gone by, the contrast between the two records is startling, and full of matter for reflection.—Appleton's Journal.

Henry W. Genet, a well-known politician of the Tweed regime, who was sentenced to Blackwell's Island for a term of eight months, and required to pay a fine of $9,004, has been released, his term having expired. His friends made up the amount of the fine, and he rejoined his family at his home in Lexington Avenue.

You should see the goods at the New York Store this season and compare prices with other Dealers in this County. We are in position to place orders direct with the manufacturers, using all our stock in original packages and paying Cash for the same. We can save all our customers at least 20 per cent, on all goods bought at our store. Yours Respt., COHEN, BRO. & BROWNSTEINE.

Forestville, Chautauqua county, may not be as large or lively as some other places, but it has managed to get up a first-class elopement case, the particulars of which are as follows: There is a law firm in the village by the name of Record & Hooker. Mr. Record has a handsome daughter, Nellie, who became engaged to the junior partner, Mr. Hooker, two years ago. The wedding was postponed once at the young lady's request, and Thursday last was named as the last day of grace. Invitations were out and preparations made. Nellie was not pleased with her prospective union, and frequently declared that she did not wish to marry Mr. Hooker. The night before the expected marriage she took one Dell Dye by the big right hand and together they went before the Rev. Mr. Look. Mr. Look in spite of his name, couldn't see it, and they then drove to Hamlet, where a clergyman tied the desired knot. Returning to Forestville, they took rooms at the Forest House, and remained over night.

The bride and groom are of about the same age, eighteen summers. Mr. Hooker has the sympathy of the community and is entitled to a certain amount of congratulation.

Fall and Winter Millinery. Miss M. McGloin would respectfully call the attention of the ladies of Ridgway and vicinity to her new and elegant assortment of hats and bonnets, trimmed and untrimmed. Call on Miss McGloin and examine this large assortment before making purchases.

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made under the Act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act to provide for the Incorporation and Regulation of certain corporations," approved April 29, 1874, and the Acts supplemental thereto, for the charter of an intended corporation to be called The New York and Pennsylvania Coal Company the character and object of which is to purchase and lease coal lands, to open mines therein and work the same, to mine, prepare for market, ship, transport and buy and sell coal, coke, coal dust and fuel manufactured therefrom, and for these purposes to have, possess and enjoy, all the rights, benefits and privileges conferred by the said Act of Assembly and the supplements thereto. READ & PETTIT, Solicitors, 518 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

MRS. E. CRAVSTON. In returning thanks for past favors respectfully begs to inform her friends and the public generally that she has just returned from New York where she purchased a large stock of Millinery and fancy goods of the latest styles, also a nice selection of ladies' Skirts, Plain and Fancy hosiery, Ladies' and Children's Parasols, Hair goods, fancy Chinaware, &c., which she intends to sell as cheap as the cheapest. Particular attention given to trimming and in a style that cannot be surpassed in this section. All are invited to call and inspect her goods before purchasing elsewhere. n10m3 Kersey, Nov. 9, 1881.

The Sun.

NEW YORK, 1882.

The Sun for 1882 will make its fifth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. THE SUN'S light is for mankind and woman-kind of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfot on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

THE SUN of 1882 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of THE SUN. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modelled after THE SUN. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of THE SUN'S example.

THE SUN of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with THE SUN. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of THE SUN'S political course.

THE WEEKLY SUN gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An Agricultural Department of unequalled merit, full market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific, and domestic intelligence complete THE WEEKLY SUN, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not read and like THE SUNDAY SUN, each number of which is a Golconda of interesting literature, with the best poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little?

If our idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for THE SUN.

Our terms are as follows: For the daily SUN, a four page sheet of twenty eight columns, the price by mail post paid, is 55 cents a month, or $5.50 a year; or including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents per month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid. The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of THE WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free.

Address L. W. ENGLAND, Publisher of THE SUN, New York City.
