DR. T. S. HARTLEY.

Thursday night at 10:20, Dec. 8, 1881, Dr. Theopilus Stewart Hartley, of this place, breathed his last in the 48d year of his life. He was born at Woolrich, Canada. He graduated in medicine at the University of Buffalo in 1871 took the degree of B. A. at Victoria College May 2, 1866; the degree of M. A. at the same college May 9, 1880. since 1870 he has practiced medicine in Ridgway and was known not only here but was extensively acquainted in adjoining counties. The Sunday before he died he sang at Mrs. Dan Reed's funeral, and was only confined to the house from Monday until his death. Deceased was a member of the Masonic order at this place, was a member and President of the Irish National Land League, and also a member and President of the Equitable Aid Union. The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. S. M. Clark, delivered the funeral sermon. The church was crowded while scores were unable to gain admission. The remains were followed to their last place by the largest number of people ever at a funeral in Ridgway. The exercises at the grave were by the Masonic fraternity.

What I Think About Temperance.

Temperance, and nothing but temperance do we hear of late, it is continually ringing in our ears. Blue ribbons are to be seen too on the collars of nearly every man and child we the cause. It is certainly good for christian virtues? Are these ministhose whose appetite is insatiable once they taste the soul-inspiring drug. I never heretofore thought there were so many of this class in Ridgway. I pledge. Too bad, there are so many ladies and gentlemen whose apactite for stimulating beverages is so unmanagable as to require the curb! We will henceforth, I am sure, have a sober town. No more drunken men and women. I believe temperance is also good for some young men who ments and urging and begging all to may be exposed to the danger of con join without proper deliberation. tracting the opposite vice. Our landlords also profit by it; the converted bummers now pay as they go for fear they may be exposed. But the question arises in my mind, are we all bound to be temperate? Does the Divine or human law oblige us to be Scriptures from cover to cover, from Genesis to the Apocalypse, and can find the moderate use of wine no. rising generation temperate, if not where condemned. On the contrary, St. Paul tells us, "a little wine is good for the stomsch." I have never found any obligation in the human or mockery to give a pledge, for he has Divine laws to be totally temperate.

Does science condemn the use of stimulant? Far from it, on the contrary, wine as a restorative, as a means struggle with days of trial and sorrow; as a means of correction and compensation where misproportion occurs in nutrition; and as a protection against transient organic disturbances, is surpassed by no product of nature or of art. Why then this continual begging and urging (bordering on compulsion in many cases) of all indiscriminately, young and old, to bind themselves by a 'pledge?' Many indeed know not the nature of the obligation they are about to contract, or have contracted. To many 1 heor have contracted. To many I be- each week. lieve a pledge should not be given for the simple reason that they are too weak-willed to persevere in its fulfilvery day at Morgester's. Customers ment. Peter O'Nella. the ptedge of late in Ridgway? While I admire the virtue and the motive (I believe they mean good) I must condemn the modus operandi of our late crusaders.

The though sometimes arises in my mind, having constantly heard nothing but temperance lately, that it is all that christlanity has to offer poor suffering humanity, that temperance is in fact christianity, body and soul, root and branch. Are there not other virtues that would make up as bright a gem in a mortal's crown as temperance? Are there not other vices as sinful and wicked as intemperance? Why not raise a crusade against blasphemy, infidelity, divorce, and immorality, which latter is for a well known fact, sapping the very life's known fact, sapping the very life's of the kind. Are always sure and reliable, blood of society and filling our lunatic and never fall to insure the best results asylums with inmates. I make this assertion above board, and without fear of contradiction, with great profit too, there might be a crusade raised against injustice, and probably we would not have so many bank robberies, &c., by which thousands of poor, industrious people, are swindled out of their hard-earned savings. A great erty and pay charges or it will be dis many of those who have defrauded the poor by downright robbery were high up in some good temperance christian union.

As long as a man is not deprived of As long as a man is not deprived of his memory, will or understanding he may drink all he pleases and never administration, C. T. A., have been other vices. The slightest act of debted to said estate are requested to or infidelity to marriage vows, &c., having claims against the same to many instances so grave that it cries to Heaven for vengeance. Why not raise a crusade against those vices. Witness the number of applications for divorce all over the country, on account of, in most cases, infidelity to marriage vows, and this too, by parties pretending to be christians, members of some good church, and probperdition for taking a glass of beer. This looks a little pharisaical to say the least. Towns and cities rotten to the core with other vices and no cru-sade against them. Intemperance, though a very wicked sin, has never brought a curse from God on the whole human family, but immorality has, as in the case of the destruction of the cities of Sodom and Gomorah. It often seems to me that this temperance move is gotten up for worldly tain cure is Peruna. Regulate your motives-because the vice interferes bowels with Manalin. with worldly happiness and not because it is offensive to God. Hope I am mistaken. But I generally hear of the misery brought on by intemperance, and seldom of the offense or injury done to God. If the motive be domestic happiness and not glory and -Col. It is a good thing no doubt to in our town that have been tried in be temperate. It is undoubtedly an the field and found faithful, that can excellent virtue, and I am in favor of preach temperance and all other ters not capable of teaching us our religious duties without importing a layman and a stranger. I find in the good book that no man can preach never thought the ladies of our town except properly and lawfully sent and needed the restraining influence of a that women especially were positively told by St. Paul to be silent in church.

But readers I do not wish to be misrepresented. I am in favor of temperance in many cases, as I have shown in the commencement of this article. I am strongly opposed, from a religious standpoint, to getting up excite-I would say in conclusion, that if we teach our children, and all others under our care or influence, the principles of morality and justice, &c.; if we teach them to have a conscience obliged to sign pledges? Must all be by instructing them in the belief of a future state of reward and punishment; in a word, if we teach them absolutely temperate? I have read the christianity as taught by the Savior and contained in the good book, we shall have little trouble in making our teetotalers, and in every sense virtuous. To a man having no falth or belief in the teaching of christianity, it is a no conscience, and therefore will not and patent cases. keep it. For these reasons I am opposed to these temperance movements. where pledges are indiscriminately administered to young and old, chrisof refreshment, where man has to tian and infidel, &c. Such a procedure is an injury and insult to religion and can therefore result in no good, as time will prove and experience has proved.
