He wants to get even with mo, because he thinks I am the man that removed anyway. He was an the man that with me, because he thinks I am the man that did it." Then after a Scriptural reference, the assassin continued: "I refer my nomination for the presidency to the Republican National convention of 1834. I will be there. I do not think that this jury is going into the hanging business in order to enable Mr. Porter to get $5,000. The American people do not want to have me hanged. They might as well try to was man for killing another during the war hang a man for killing another during the war as to hang me. My motive was patriotic, under Divine prissure, to save the nation from another war. But I am going to discuss that when we get to the Jury." The cross-examination of Dr. Kemister, of Wisconsin, who thought Guitea: was sane, was concluded, and Dr. John P. Gray, of Utica, medical supe intendent of the New York State Lunatic asylum, was then called as the last witness for the proswas then called as the last witness for the proecution. He was also of the opinion that Guiteau was sane. There was, during the day, a tilt between counsel on the question of hastening the end of the trial. Mr. Scoville said he would probably require all of next week to present his testimoney in surrobuttal. He also wanted to introduce some new witnesses, and would ask the court to allow him to do so on the ground of nextly discovered evidence. The counsel of newly-discovered evidence. The counsel for the prosecution said they would resist any attempt to reopen the case. Mr. Scoville complained that it was unfair for the prosecution to try to harry the case along at this stage. He said he had spent a month and a half encleavoring not merely to save the prisoner's life but to try the case so that it would not be a disgrace to the jurisprudence of this country, and he obseted to its being brought to an unseemly end The question of allowing the inverse to scuarate during New Year's was discussed, but Judge Cox was hardly prepared to take the responsibility of such a step. The foreman put an end to the discussion by amouncing that the jurors did not want to separate until the trial closed. On the thirty-seventh day Dr. Gray, of the On the thirty-seventh day Dr. Gray, of the Utica Asylum for the Insane, resumed his testimony. It was frequently objected to by Mr. Sceville, and centinually interrupted by Guiteau, who contradicted assertions of the witness in regard to the prisoner's utterances. The witness became confused and said he did not know where he was whereup Guitan. not know where he was, whereupon Guiteau remarked, "We'll have to send a small box to find you." Dr. Gray declared his positive conviction that Guiteau was sane, and had not been insane, and that he was playing a part in court. Mr. scoville tried to have the testimony court. Mr. Scotille tried to have the testimony stricken out, on the ground that it was based upon a belief that Guiteau was lying. The court overruled the objection, and Guiteau was going to settle the trial. In reply to the hypothetical questions of the prosecution the winess stated that, in his opinion, the prisoner was sane at the time of the shooting. While the questions were being read the prisoner continually interrupted with such expressions as "False," "That's false," "Absolutely false," "The substratum of that question is false," "One word in ten is true, the rest defense was developed by the cross-examination of witness.

Guiteau made his opening speech on the thirty-eighth day as follows: "I had a very lappy New Year's yesterday, and hope everybody clse did. I had lots of visitors, high-toned, middle-toned and low-toned. That takes them all in, I believe. They expressed their opinions treely, and none of them want me hung. They all, without dissent, expressed the opinion that I shall be acquitted." Dr. Gray's cross-examination by the defense was concluded. Witness said that he did not believe in any of the so-called moral insanities. lieve in any of the so-called moral insanities. Kleptomania, he said, is theft, dypsomania is drunkenness, and pyromania is incendiarism, When Dr. Gray left the stand the district attorney announced that the testimony for the government was concluded. Dr. S. P. Bowker of Kansas City, testified for the defense that Mrs. Dunmire, the assassin's diverced wife. Mrs. Dunmire, the assassin's divorced wife, told him, after the shooting of the President, that when she obtained her divorce from Goiteau she feared he might be mentally deranged. This was in contradiction of a portion of Mrs. Donmire's testimony at brother was called to testify concerning the letter the prisoner recently wrote to Don Cameron ssking for money, but the presecution objected, and admitted that Guiteau wrote and sent the letter, and so the witness was di-missed. Mr. Scoville wished to have the testi-mony of Clark Mills, the sculptor who took a cast of Guiteau's head, but it was ruled out by cast of Guiteau's head, but it was ruled out by the court. Mr. Scoville wanted to call some witnesses whom the prosecution had subpenased and not used, and, pending his preparation of an aflidavit to show what he wished to prove by new witnesses, the court adjourned. Guiteau was unusually quiet, and busied himself writing his name on cards handed up to him in the dock. He started to read a letter, which he said was from a friend of General Garfield, showing the drift of public opinion on his case. showing the drift of public opinion on his case. Judge Cox sternly ordered him to keep quiet, and the marshal directed his men to stop him, but Guiteau succeeded in informing the jury that according to the letter, the barsh feeling

The proceedings of the court on the thirty-ninth day were preceded by a remark from the prisoner to the effect that it was his usual tim to make a speech, but that he had promised the marshal he would not do so, and he would try to keep quiet. Mr. Scoville then read an affidavit to the court in support of a motion for leave to introduce additional evidence. The affidavit states that since the case for the defense was closed on December 15 he had learned of the existence of certain with sees material for the defense on the subject of insanity. They are H.D. Bragden, Marshal Green, Large, Bracks, Theoryas, Eathlean, Kati, James Brooks, Thomas Rathbone, Katie Collins, George W. McElfresh, M. A. Austin, Edward Austin and Dr. Andrew McFarland. By four of these witnesses he expected to prove that in the month of June they frequently ob-served the singular and strange conduct of the prisoner, and were then convinced of his insanity, and freely commented on the fact among themselves. He expected to prove by Rathbone and Brooks that they had an interview with the prisoner in the jail on the second or third of July, and that he then said that he and been forced to do the act by an inspiration from God. He expected to prove by McElfresh and M. A. Austin that they rode with the prisoner to the jail on the second of July, and that all his actions and words were indicative of an insane man. He expected to prove by Dr. McFarland, for thirty-seven years superintendent of the ineane asylum at Jacksonville, Iil. that he knew Luther W. Guiteau, the prisoner's father, and had an opportunity for scientific observation of his mental condition in 1864, and that e then came to the conclusion that Luther W. Guiteau was insane on the subject of religion veloped in evidence in the case thus far Dr. McFarland is of opinion that the prisoner is now insane. The affidavit further states that the affiant was misled by the properties. mow insane. The affidavit further states that the affiant was misled by the prosecution giving the name of McEifresh as one of its witnesses and then not calling him; otherwise he would have been called for the defense. The court decided against the application in general, permitting, however, the defense to attempt to show that, on the day of shooting President Garfield, the assasin had claimed to be inspired of God. J. J. Brooks, chief of the secret service of the treasury department, was called for this purpose, but he swore that Guiteau had not made such a claim to him. A letter written by the assassin's father in 1875, in which he pronounced his son a fit subject for a lunatic asylum, was read. The defense was then declared closed. The law points of the government were submitted to the court and an adjournment was had for three days to enable the defense to prepare its law points.

trouble him hong, as he for all such annoying affections. I asked what the remedy for all such annoying affections. I asked what the remedy was and he repited, "St. Javogs Oil." Mr. Pastor said that he considered the Great German Remedy an excellent preparation for the cure or relief of the unatism, and that it was the only thing used among professional people for that distressing complaint. He took bottles of it with him whenever he went traveing, and would not be without it, and knew that it was very psquiar with a number of members of his own company. The foregoing, from the Brooklyn (S. Y.) Eugle, recalls to our mind an iteu wherein the cilitor of the Cairo (Ill.) Evening Sun, in paying a tribute to the enterprise of the St. Louis Post biopatch, and expressing his sorrow at the loss by fire which the latter paper sustained, says: "The whole office was knocked into ten thousand pieces—all except the Sr. Jacons Oil. advertisement, which was merifully preserved." The closing remarks in the above and the following incident are a true index of the unexampled popularity the Great German Remedy enjoys everywhere: At a St. Louis theater recently whist the play was in progress, one of the lady performers met with a painful mishap, which quite disabled her. The hero of the piece, equal to the emergency, called out to one of the where to "bring a boulle of Sr. Jacons Oil, quickly." The thundering applaues throughout this entire house which promptly followed this happy suggestion was an unmistakable proof of the fact that the audience "had been there themselves," as the expression goes, and experienced the benefits of this wonderful ar icle.

Mr. Charles A. Whitney, advertising agent of Park Garden, Providence, R. I., writes: "For three years I had inflammatory rheumatism in my right hip and knee. I employed many noted physicians, and tried numerous remedies for the ailment, but found nothing to help me until I used the Great German Remedy, Sr. Jacons Oil, which cured meat once. I am now entirely well."

Mr. H. H. Stevens:

Dear Sir—About the 1st of November, 1875, I was attacked with what is termed Sciencia Rhemanium, commencing in the hip joint and extending to my arkies, which at times was very painful, causing lameness and preventing sleep at night, and at times preventing me from labor of any kind. After applying different remedies of almost every kind recommended. I could get no relief. I then commenced using your Venerisk about the 1st of March last, and have continued to use it until the present last, and have continued to use it until the present last, and have continued to use it until the present last, and have continued to use it until the present last, and have continued to use it until the present last, and have continued to use it until the present last, and have the complete a safty-five versa.
