-The glorious Fourth in Ridgway this year was somewhat of a failure. All day long from morning until night rain fell, not in regular torrents, though at times quite hard, but in a regular drizzle drozzle, something after the manner a certain man prayed for. The Catholic Temperance Society pienie was abandoned and instead a festival was held in Maginnis' Hail. The Methodist Society held an ice eream and strawberry festival under a temporary shell between the Ridgway bank and Rhines' billiard salcon. It is also reported that Mr. Gould desires the road as a connecting link between the Wabash-Pacific and Eastern roads in which he is interested. The capitalists who now appear in control of the road deny that any negotiations are pending for the transfer of that control, and that if efforts are being made to secure possession, they are being made in the market. The gross earnings for the first six months of 1882 were $135,978 as against $106,539 during the corresponding period of last year. The road made a connection with the Silver Lake road July 4. The Bradford extension will be completed within ten days.—Philadelphia Press.

Military Encampment.

The arrangements for the annual encampment of the National Guard of Mifflin county, and will continue from August 5 to 12. The grounds have been laid out, and the division and several brigade headquarters have been located. It is expected that about 8,000 troops will take part, under the command of Major-General Hartranft. Reviews of the several brigades, and battalion and brigade drills will take place daily, but the grand reviews by the Governor and Commander-in-Chief is set down for Friday, August fi Camping parties, to pitch the tents of the various regiments, will begin to arrive about Aug. 2. The encampment will be known as Camp Reynolds.

New Drug Store.

-A. C. Craig's New Drug Store is now in good working order, various new improvements have been made lately, a splended illuminated mortar hard work and self denial. Miss Flynn sign has been added to the attractions.

-Mr. J. R. Baird a gentleman well known to the people of Ridgway and surrounding country as a Druggest others to work for the prize, which is Pharmacist has been engaged as an assistant.

-The patrons of the "New Drug Store" can always have the satisfaction of being served by experienced compounders, which is a matter of great importance in a business requiring so much skill, experience and caution as the handling of medicines. No better Illustration is needed than the many deaths occuring yearly from the mistakes of careless, incompetent and unprincipled venders of drugs. With a fine assortment of fresh pure goods, at popular prices, the people may rest assured we will keep up with the times and be content with nothing less than | beef at Morgester's. being in the front rank of first class Frig Stores.

Death of Michael Laby.

This sad event which took place at July 13, 1882, startled the community tively," as Dr. Leonard Bacon calls it, with its suddenness, and caused a shade of sorrow to fall over his many friends in this Borough. He was mill, when a piece of 2x4 scantling flew back striking him at the shoulderand hurling him back with terrific force against the bull wheel. His neck was broken, his skull cracked, and four ribs broken. Death was almost instanttaucous, the unfortunate young man never attering a word after being struck. B. F. Ely came into the mill just before the accident and stood at ing, not seeming to heed the warning flew back with fatal consequences. -Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gatchell, Mr. Ely was knocked down by the force of the blow. Fourth, To hold a warvention under the low rules adopted by the republican convention of May 10.

The propositions were favored by General White, Judge Pettit, and Colonel Hastings. They were opposed by General Newley, of Pittsburg, and Mr. Gehr, of Franklin. On a vote being taken the propositions were agreed to almost unanimously, after which the convention adjourned. Among the stalwarts the opinion prevalls that if the Independents decline to accept any of the offers made, they will weaken their cause and drive back to the party a majority of those who have been leaning towards the independents. The latter antagonize the proposals, saying they will accept nothing but Beaver's complete renunciation. Mr. Wolfe says that should they agree to a new convention they would be left powerless, as it would undoubtedly result in Beaver's renomination, and they having given their word, could not oppose him. He did not know what the independents would do, as their committee was not full, but from the expressions of those with whom he had conversed, he knew they were against any compromise, except a complete withdrawal of Beaver.
