It is not a hazar lous saving to assert that the sympathies of a decided majority of the Republican party of the North, outside of Pennsylvania, are for the "Independents." This would not be the case did the public recognize that any supreme diversive questions now separated the great parties. * * * * The Pennsylvania break fure the organization throughout the themselves upon the Republican party will be, the Republicanism rendered midnight. purer and stronger thereby. The Morality of Bolting.

Boston Advertiser, Is is not difficult for us to discover sufficient reasons for the belief that the Cameron rule in Pennsylvania ought to be brought to the end at all hazards. * * * * Bolting is an operation of political surgery. The skillful surgeon does not deem it his duty always to cut off diseased members, nor does he fail to choose the time when the knife will do its work with the best prospects for the recovery of the patient. If he were to begin at the first appearance of bad symptoms and repeat the process whenever there was a recurrence of them he would be merely a butcher. But he would be no more the brutal enemy of his patient than would be he who made it a point to inflict a wound in order to averta worse result. So it is in politics. He who bolts wisely, also wisely determines on many an occasion that the circumstances require that al- day. At 2 P. M., the thermometer inthough to bolt is a duty, his higher duty is to refrain. The men who always bolt, and he who never bolts, are equally irrational and equally useless for political reform.

A Sad Accident.

Friday afternoon in Woodward township, says the Lock Haven Journal, resulting in the death of Warren Mo-Cluskey, grandson of Felix McCluskey. Esq., aged about 12 or 13 years. The harvest hands were in the field at work at 2 P M., and Warren was driving the reaper for his uncle, Henry Mc-Cluskey, who stood on the machine, raking. In an instant, while his uncle's eyes were turned from him, Warren tumbled off the machine from some unknown cause, and fell directly in front of the knives. Before the horses could be stopped the death-dealing knives had done their work, and the platform passed over him. His uncle Henry picked blm up, and the mangled boy asked if he was seriously hurt. He was carried to the house and bled profusely from the left arm until it was tightly bandaged. Dr. Watson and Armstrong were sent for, when'it was found that the unfortunate boy had received the following injuries: He sustained an extensive injury about the face; the rapid blade caught him under the chin and shaved off the flesh and part of the jaw bone. A singular part of this injury was that the knife divided a tooth right in the centre, leaving the remaining half perfeetly in the cavity. In the right check there was a large wound. There were two deep wounds in the right arm above the elbow, causing profuse in the Republican party will not in- bleeding. The left arm, at and below the elbow, was fearfully mangled by country. by the Census Reports.

The census bulletin of farms shows that Illinois has more farms than any other state, there being 255,741 of them. Ohio comes second, with 247,189 farms; New York third, having 241,058, Missouri is fourth, with 215,575, and Pennsylvania fifth, with 213,542. In every preceding decade New York has ranked first in the number of farms. California has but 35,934 farms, or about as many as Vermont, but the latter has only 97 farms containing more than 1,000 acres, while California has 2,531. Pennsylvania has 244 farms of over 1,000 acres; but in the southern states the size of the farms follows the California fashion without quite coming up to it. Of Pennsylvania farms, 168,220 are occupied by the owners 28 278 are rented for share of produce. The practice of renting farms on shares is much more prevalent in the west and south than in the east, but in all the states the proportion of farms not occupied by the owners is very small.

Census Rascality.

A terrible fatal accident occurred How the RETURNS FROM NEBRASKA WERE ALTERED.

Washington, July 26. - The Sub-Committee of the House Committee on the Judiciary, charged with the investigation of the circumstances connected with the presentation to that committee of the census roport of the State of Nebraska, for the year 1874 instead of that of 1872, upon which the members of the committee thought they were acting when they reported to the House in favor of admitting an additional representative from that State made an important discovery today. For some weeks past the subcommittee has been unable to obtain the original report which was forwarded by the Secretary of the State of Nebraska, but to-day this document was found on the files of the House. The printed copy of the original-pur porting to be the census of the State for 1872-which was referred to the committee made the aggregate population of nine counties of the State 18,405, as follows: Webster County, 2,250 ;Clay County, 3,622; Cheyenne County, 8,042; Cedar County, 1,817; Dixon County, 3,042; Staunton County, 1,135; Boon County, 798; Buffalo County, 2,206; Hamilton County, 8,186. Total 18,405. The sub-committee has received from the Secretary of the State a correct copy of the census for 1872 which gives an aggregate population of but 7,815 for the nine counties above mentioned.

The original census report which was obtained to-day is properly signed by John Gosper, as Secretary of State, and has attached to it the seal of the State. An examination of the report. however, developed the fact that there ticket which was made up many had been several erasures of the figure "4, and that the figures "2," had been the Harrisburg Convention, to represubstituted in order that the report would read "Census for 1872." All of them are inadequate to that end, for the reason that they af ford no gurantee that, being accepted, the principles upon which the Independent Republicans have taken their stand would be treated with respect or put into action. All of them contain the probability that an attempt to unite the Republicans of the State by their means would either result in reviv. ing and strengtening the political dictatorship which we condemn, or would permanently distract the Re-

The end, they thought, had come, so they reverently covered his face with a sheet, and went down stairs to console themselves. They found out his whisky and eigars, and sat down to make a night of it under the dead man's roof, when suddenly the door opened. There stood Benjamin Webster, in his winding sheet. POUNDS OF POWDER.

Chicago, July 28 .- There was a terrific explosion of giant powder shortly before 6 o'clock last evening at the stone quarry on the nothwestern outskirts of the city, about six miles away from the business centre. The shock of the concussion was plainly felt all over the city, and the detonation must have been heard many miles away. It was off the lines of communication and the most extravagant rumors were in circulation as to the damage and loss of life, and many telegrams were sent to other cities. The facts are: A workman went to the powder house, a wooden structure, containing $1,000 pounds of giant powder and 1,500 pounds blasting powder. He took out a twenty-five-pound can and left the door open, and setting it on the ground proceeded to open it with a cold-chisel. The result was a spark was struck, and the can exploded, throwing the workman, John S. O. Bell by name, about thirty feet and setting fire to his clothes. Sparks from this entered the powder house, where some of the cans stood open, and caused a second explosion, which tore the building into minute fragments, but the pieces did no damage so far as heard from. People were knocked down by the concussion many blocks away, and a large amount of window glass broken and plastering knocked of. Some houses several blocks away were unroofed. It is stated a pane of glass in a drug store at Twelfth street and Indiana avenue nearly seven miles away, was broken No one was killed. Bell, the workman, was burned about the face, breast and arms, but will probably recover-John Anderson, another workman, was thrown a considerable distance by the second explosion and had a shoulder crushed. Michael Bretten, a teamster, some distance away, was thrown to the ground and an arm broken. Mrs. Young and two children, four blocks away, were badly cut by broken glass. A large number of
