

A Peculiar Custom Among the Maoris.

Hon. G. W. Griffin, United States consul at Auckland, New Zealand, recently read a very interesting and valuable paper before the St. Louis Historical society in relation to one of the peculiar customs of the Maoris, or aboriginal inhabitants of New Zealand.

It is of interest, from the fact that it illustrated very forcibly a singular phase of savagery which is fast disappearing before the march of civilization, just as the early customs of the red men of America are now little more than traditions among the Indians themselves.

"The law of murr is so complicated in its nature, and subject to so many refinements and so varied in its applications, that it would be as difficult to tell what it is as to tell what it is not."

"The word murr, in its literal sense, means to rob or to plunder, and for this reason Europeans have come to regard the term as a sort of legalized system of robbery. This view of the subject is, however, very far from being a just one. The law of murr is so broad and general in its application that no human being, whatever may be his rank or condition in life, is exempt from its penalties or benefits."

But in order to understand the practical workings of the law, it must be borne in mind that the Maoris are communists, both in theory and practice. They do not think it right for one person to own more property than another. For instance, if a chief owns six pigs and another four, one must be taken from the former and given to the latter, that each may have the same number.

Indeed, property changes hands so often that a man can't tell a week or a month beforehand who will be the owner of his canoe, blanket or mat or even the house in which he lives. The great principle is to keep property in circulation. The oftener it changes hands the better. A man's relations have the first claim to it. His friends and neighbors come next. No one, however, would dare think of asserting a claim to the property of another, except in accordance with the strictest principles of the law of murr, which alone can determine the right of ownership.

Should a great misfortune overtake a man, such as the death of a favorite child, his relatives are allowed, according to the law of murr, to dispossess him of all his personal property, and if need be, of the house in which he lives. He must suffer for his misfortune, but strictly speaking he does not regard the loss of all his earthly possessions as a punishment. Indeed, on the contrary, he looks upon it as a great honor. He is blessed both by men and gods; the greater the loss the greater the honor. If everything he has in the world is taken from him, he is treated with the profoundest respect and he becomes a man of some importance in the community in which he lives.

If a man's child should be burnt to death and the accident prove to be unavoidable, the father is at once plundered to an extent highly gratifying. Everything is taken from him—his goods, clothing, spears, fishnets, mats, canvas, indeed, all his earthly possessions; and in order to favor him still further he is severely chastised besides. He is usually left upon the ground in a terribly bruised and bleeding condition. It is, however, against the law of murr to kill him. He is also duly warned of the process of the law. It would never do to take him by surprise. A messenger is dispatched to inform him of the near approach of the officers of the law. Sometimes he prepares to receive them and a great feast is given in honor of their arrival. He is always anxious to know whether it is a great or little murr. If he is told that it is a great murr he is beside himself with joy. He is expected to defend himself with a spear or club until he is overpowered, and it is against the law for him to strike the officers too hard. As soon as the first blood is drawn he must stop. Sometimes he makes a determined resistance, and is terribly injured.

New silver bracelets are made in exact imitation of the handcuffs worn by criminals. A pretty dress stuff for children's suits is a crumpled serge in broken Scottish plaids. Carnations, marsh-mallows, poppies and ox-eye daisies are the most fashionable flowers for trimming fall round hats of dark straw.

Handsome "Roman" and "Egyptian" pens, clasps, jeweled bands and buckles, made in the United States, are a prominent feature of millinery and clock garniture this season. The upper colors for elegant wrappers are cream white, pale blue, pale rose, shrimp pink, mauve, terra cotta, hussar blue, dark red, dark blue, gray and black. The trimmings should be embroidery, ribbons, velvet and lace.

The center parting of the hair is now made as inconspicuous as possible, and many ladies obliterate it altogether by cross partings taken above the forehead while the greater part of the chignon is combed back without any parting at all. Small caplets of white or tinted satin, completely covered with soft fluffy white ostrich tips, are worn. They are very pretty and becoming to youthful ladies. For their elders the same fashion in black, bronze, brown, garnet and dark green is much followed. The European custom of carrying infants on lace-trimmed pillows is adopted by American mothers; and the nurse wears an Alsace cap with a bow of ribbon a fourth of a yard wide, with ends that hang behind neatly to her feet. The nurse's dress is of the color used for lining the lace of the baby's pillow.

FOR THE LADIES.

Superstitions About Love. From the earliest times to event in human life has been associated with a more extensive folklore than marriage. Beginning with love-divinations, these are of every conceivable kind, the anxious maiden apparently having left no stone unturned in her anxiety to ascertain her lot in the marriage state. Some cut the common brake or fern just above the root to ascertain the initials of her future husband's name. Again, nuts and apples are very favorite love tests. The mode of procedure is for a girl to place on the bars of a grate a nut, repeating this incantation: If he loves me, pop and fly; If he hates me, live and die.

Great is the dismay if the anxious face of the inquirer gradually perceives the nut, instead of making the hopeful pop, die and make no sign. One means of divination is to throw a lady bird into the air, repeating meanwhile the subjoined couplet: Fly away east and fly away west, Show me where lives the one I like best. Should this little insect chance to fly in the direction of the house where the loved one resides, it is regarded as a favorable omen.

Another species of love-divination once observed consisted in obtaining five bay-leaves, four of which the anxious maiden pinned at the four corners of her pillow and the fifth in the middle. If she was fortunate enough to dream of her lover it was a sure sign that he would be married to her in the course of the year.

Friday has been held a good day of the week for love omens; and in Norfolk the following lines are repeated on three Friday nights successively, as on the first one it is believed that the young lady will dream of her future husband: To-night, to-night is Friday night, Lay me down in dirty white; Dream who my husband is to be, And I'm to live to be his bride.

In selecting the time for the marriage ceremony precautions of every kind have generally been taken to avoid an unlucky month and day for the knot to be tied. Indeed, the old Roman notion that May marriages are unlucky survives to this day in England. June is a highly popular month. Friday, on account of its being regarded as an inauspicious and evil day for the commencement of any kind of enterprise, is generally avoided.

In days gone by Sunday appears to have been a popular day for marriages. It is, above all things necessary that the sun should shine on the bride, and it is deemed absolutely necessary by very many that she should weep on her wedding day, if it be only a few tears; the omission of such an act being considered ominous of her future happiness.

In Sussex a bride on her return home from church is often robbed of all her pins about her dress by the single women present, from the belief that whoever possesses one of them will be married in the course of a year, and evil fortune will sooner or later inevitably overtake the bride who keeps even one pin used in the marriage toilet.

"Hanging the stockings" was an old marriage custom in England. The young men took the bride's stockings and the girls those of the bridegroom, each of whom, sitting at the foot of the bed, threw the stocking over their heads, endeavoring to make it fall upon that of the bride or her spouse. If the bridegroom's stockings, thrown by the girls, fell upon the bridegroom's head, it was a sign that they themselves would soon be married, and should a sock be derived from the falling of the bride's stockings, thrown by the young men, there is a superstition notion in some places that when the bride retires to rest on her wedding night her bridesmaids should lay her stockings across, as this act is supposed to guarantee her future prosperity in the marriage state.

FRANK JAMES, the notorious outlaw, brother of the late Jesse James, surrendered to Governor Crittenden, at Jefferson City, and was delivered to the Jackson county authorities at Kansas City. When Frank James surrendered to Governor Crittenden, he handed him his pistols and stated that he (the governor) was the only man except himself who had touched them for twenty years.

As Atlanta (Ga.) dispatch says that Mr. Stephens, the newly-elected governor, said to the governor for his resignation of the office of Congressman from the Eighth Georgia district. It was accepted, and an election to fill the vacancy was ordered for November 7. Gartrell, the defeated candidate for governor, will contest the election of Stephens, not with the hope of getting in, but to show alleged frauds and intimidations.

The following are Ohio's crop estimates, based on returns from all the counties of the State: Total number of bushels wheat, 45,779,811; rye, 406,131; corn, 18,435,779; barley, 1,287,389; oats, 87,000; 280,707 potatoes (probable), 89,000,000; 100 of an average crop—Sweet potatoes, 100; tobacco, 74; sorghum, 92; corn, 87; wheat, 10.7; rye, 15.8; oats, 29; barley, 19.9. At Lowell, Kansas, a Miss Rosecrance, a young lady of seventeen, tried to rescue her seven-year-old sister from their burning residence, when both lost their lives.

THE NEWS.

EASTERN AND MIDDLE STATES. At Utica, N. Y., Judges Wallace and Cox refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Benjamin Mason, imprisoned for shooting at Otis during the assassin's trial.

Hon. A. HANCOCK DENISON, nominated by the New York Republican State convention at Saratoga for Congressman at large, has written a letter declining the nomination.

Miss LaFon, who was betrothed to Lieutenant Clipp, of the Jesuitic expedition, died recently at Ocean Grove, N. J. When news came of the Jesuit's loss Miss LaForge fell ill and became a wreck physically and mentally. She was taken from her home on the Hudson river to the seashore, where she died.

At a meeting of the State committee of the New York Anti-Monopoly party held in Albany an address supporting the Democratic State ticket was adopted.

A PASSENGER train on the Mount Airy railroad ran over a cow about seven miles north of Chambersburg, Pa. One passenger car was thrown from the track, and nine passengers were injured, none fatally.

A WORKMAN who was making some repairs on electric light wires in New York allowed his hands to come in contact with both ends of the wires and received such a tremendous electrical shock that death ensued in a few minutes.

At the Connecticut Democratic State convention in Hartford Thomas M. Waller was nominated for governor, George C. Sumner for lieutenant-governor, D. Ward Northrop for secretary of state, Alfred R. Goodrich for treasurer and Thomas K. Sanford for comptroller.

The assignees of Wellington Brothers & Co., wholesale dry goods dealers of Boston, have sent a circular to creditors which shows the liabilities of the firm to be $281,624.02.

The Longfellow Memorial association of Boston has issued a circular to the "children of America" asking ten-cent subscriptions toward the erection of a memorial statue in front of the poet's late residence.

At Cortland, N. Y., two brothers—Robert and Luke Gerard—employed at the gas-works, quarreled. Robert struck Luke a murderous blow with a piece of gas-pipe, inflicting a fatal injury.

Mrs. MIMAS OSBORN, of Warner, N. H., widow of the founder of the Osbornite religious sect, died a few days ago at the ripe age of 103 years.

GENERAL BENJAMIN F. BUTLER has accepted the nomination of the Massachusetts Democrats and of the Massachusetts Greenback Labor party for governor.

GEORGE F. HUNTINGTON, his wife and four children, residents of Amesbury, Mass., were all drowned by the upsetting of a small boat in which they were crossing from Grape Island in Plum Island river to Amesbury.

A MERELED switch on a railroad near Hutchinson, Kansas, caused a collision between an express and a passenger train. Both engineers, the fireman, a baggage-man and another man were buried in the wreck, which took fire, and all six perished.

The Chicago Railway Age reports the construction of 1,200 miles of main track in the United States during September, and a total for nine months of the present year of 8,075 miles. It estimates the total construction for the entire year at 10,000 miles, an amount far greater than ever before built in one season.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS was elected governor of Georgia by a majority variously estimated at from 30,000 to 50,000. All the Democratic nominees for state offices were successful, and the general assembly is also largely Democratic.

John Brooks (colored), who had confessed to making a brutal assault upon a little girl, was taken from the sheriff at Jacksonville, Tenn., by a large crowd and hanged.

JOHN LATON and James Rigby, two farmers of Palmer, Ill., quarreled about the possession of some land and became involved in a lawsuit, from which Rigby came out victorious. The other afternoon Leigh's son approached Rigby, and pretending that he desired to effect a peaceable settlement, suddenly opened fire with a revolver, killing him.

FRANK JAMES, the notorious outlaw, brother of the late Jesse James, surrendered to Governor Crittenden, at Jefferson City, and was delivered to the Jackson county authorities at Kansas City. When Frank James surrendered to Governor Crittenden, he handed him his pistols and stated that he (the governor) was the only man except himself who had touched them for twenty years.

Great excitement was caused in Cincinnati by the brutal murder of A. W. Ross, a prominent citizen, treasurer of the Coal Exchange and one of the exposition commissioners. Mr. Ross was returning to his home in Glendale, a suburb of Cincinnati, late at night, when he was set upon, his head crushed in and his pocketbook and watch stolen. A large reward for the apprehension of the murderers was offered.

FROM WASHINGTON. The last national debt statement shows the decrease of the public debt during September to be $14,705,943.83.

The metropolitan board of works in London controls an area of 122 square miles, covered by a population of nearly 4,000,000. The royal parks occupy 1,742 acres and other open spaces 1,676 acres.

The Boston Pilot says: St. Jacobs Oil stands without an equal. Ninety-nine locomotives and 11,697 car wheels were exported from the United States last year. During the same period 1,742 tons of iron rails, 2,164,618 pounds of iron rails.

As stages are lined up with the completion of railroads, so the long, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. This quantity was not only sufficient to cause death to any human being had it been swallowed, but, owing probably to ignorance, was so largely in excess of a fatal dose that the patient who received the pills would have been defeated by emetics. Mr. Cochill says that he is trying to discover who poisoned the flowers, and then, if the person can be discovered, he will be held to answer the charge.

A STATEMENT prepared at the postoffice department shows that the amount of money orders issued during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1893, was $119,935,632.09, an increase of more than ten millions over the previous year. The amount of orders paid amounted to $115,938,758.63. On this amount of business the gross revenue amounted to $1,103,854.85, which, after deducting all expenses, leaves a net revenue of about $290,000.

The naval board appointed to investigate the loss of the Jeannette met and organized. The total cost of the free-delivery service of the postoffice department for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1893, was $2,623,229, an increase over last year of $123,348.

The signal service estimates that at least thirteen million dollars of property and many persons remained safely in port on account of warning from the department prior to the recent cyclone.

LEAF GOSWORTHY, Prince has notified the Indians whose support is not provided for by treaty stipulations that they will be expected to labor for a livelihood.

FOREIGN NEWS. Ten men have been arrested near Crossmaglen, Ireland, for treason felony and committed for trial.

A TELEGRAM from Granada, Spain, reports a great outbreak of fire in the suburb of Zocodora. Nine persons have been injured and a large amount of property destroyed.
