It is wholly unnecessary to expatiate on the advantage to American readers, that this edition possesses, over every imported edition of any system of Geography extant. The addit tion of maps of the several testas, procured a very great expense, and from the best materials that are attainable, speaks such full conviction on this subject, that it would be difrespect to the reador's understanding to suppose it requisite to enter into a detail of arguments to prove its superiority. In no similar work have such maps been ever introduced.

The emendations and additions which are made in this work, are innumerable, and occur in every page. The public are referred to the preface for a flight sketch of a sew of them. The publisher takes the present opportunity of returning his most fincere thanks to those respectable characters who have favored him with documents for improving the maps of several of the states. He tress. Charlotte, by the artifice of a teacher, recommended to a school, from homa nity rather than a conviction of her inte ntty rather than a conviction of her integrity, or the regularity of her former conduct, is enticed from her governers, and accompanies a young officer to America.

The marriage ceremony, if not forgotten, is perponed, and Charlotte dies a marryr to the inconfrancy of the over, and treachery of his friend.—The fituations are articles and afficiency the accompanies and afficiency the accompanies and afficiency that accompanies are articles and afficiency that accompanies are articles and afficiency that accompanies are articles and afficiency that accompanies are accompanies. lefs and affecting—the descriptions natural and pathetic; we should feel for Charlotte if such a person ever existed, who for one error scarcely, perhaps, deserved to severe a punishment. If it is a fiction, poetic justice is not, we think, properly distributed.

WILLIAM LAWRENCE BROWN D. D. Professor of Moral Philosophy, and the Law of Nature, and of Ecclesiastical History; and Minister of the English

Church at Utrecht. Aliquid semper ad communem utilitatem afferendum. The First American Edition.

THEgrand principle of Equality, if rightly understood, is the only basis to which universal justice, sacred order, and perfect freedom, can be firmly built, and permanently fecured. The view of texhibited in this essay, at the same time that it reprefies the infolence of office, the tyranny of pride, and the outrages of oppression; confirms, in the most forcible manner, the necessity of subordination, and the just demands of lawful authority. So far indeed, from loofening the bands of fociety, that it maintains inviolate, every natural and every civil distinction, draws more closely every focial tie, unites in one harmonious and juftly proportioned fystem, and brings men together on the even ground of the inherent rights of human naure, of reciprocal obligation, and of a common relation to the community. The Public are cautioned to beware of counterfeited Five Dollar Bills of the Bank of the United States, and Twenty Dollar Bills of the Bank of North America, feveral of which have appeared in circulation within a few days past; they are good general imitation of the genuing Bills, but may be distinguished by the following

MARKS.

Five Dollar Bills of the Bank of the United States.

ALL that have appeared have the letter F. for their Alphabetical Mark. The Texture of the Paper is thicker and whiter and it takes the ink more freely than the genuine paper.

The O. in the word Company is smaller than the M. and other letters of that word, to that a line extended from the top of the O, to touch the top of the M. would extend confiderably above the range of the whole

In the word United the letters are nar-rower and closer together than the rest of

The i and f in the word promise are not parallel, the finclining much more forward than the i.

The engraving is badly executed, the strokes of all the Letters are stronger and the devi e in the margin particularly is much coarfer and appears darker than in the true bills. Some of the counterfeits bear date in 1791—Whereas the Bank was not in operation till December, and no five dollar bills were iffued in that year.

Twenty Dollar Bills of the Bank of North America.

America.

ALL that have appeared have the letter B. for their alphabetical mark.

They are printed on a paper nearly similar to that of the counterfeit Five Dollar Notes above described; the engraving is better executed, and they approach nearer to the appearance of the genuine bills.

The fine ruled lines through the word Twenty, in the body of the bill, are in number thirteen in the genuine bills, and but twelve in the counterfeits.

The word Cambany is much like the same

The word Company is much like the same word in the Five Dollar Bills as described above, the o being less than the m, and others following.

There is no stroke to the t in the word

North whereas in the genuine bills the stroke is well defined.

The letters ent in the word Twenty, to the left hand at the bottom, do not come down to the line, but are fo cut as to give an irregular appearance to the word, the Tw and the y going below them.

The fignature 1. Nixon, has the appearance of being written with lamb-black and oil, and differs from other inks used in priming the bills and the cashier's signa-

It is supposed these forgeries were committed in some of the Southern States, as all the counterfeits that have appeared, have come from thence, and two persons have been apprehended in Virginia, on suspension of being the author of them.

the author of them.

The reward of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS will be paid to any Person or Persons who shall discover and prosecute to conviction the several offenders of the following descriptions or any of them, viz.

The person or persons, who manufactured the paper on which the Bills are printed.

The person or persons, who engraved the plates.

The printer or printers, of the bille.

Every person who has acted as a principal in any other way, in the counterfeiting and uttering the said bills.

Philadelphia, March 28, 1794

April 22, 1794,

Other counterfeit bills of the Bank of the United States have appeared in circulation.

The denomination is of TWENTY DOLLARS, and the alphabetical mark is the letter B. They may be distinguished from the genuine by the following MARKS:

The paper of the counterfeits is of a more tender texture and gloffey furface than the genuine, and there is no water

The letter C. in the word Cashier, in he true bills is Arongly marked, whereas in the counterfeits, the whole letter is a fine hair stroke, evidently in an unsimilard state. The letter a in the word demand, is badly formed and the whole word ill done and there is no comma at theend of it, as there is in the genuine bills. The marginal device, is much darker in the false, than in the genuine bills ow-ing to the shade strokes being coarser, much nearer together, and confequently much more numerous. This difference firikes the eye at first view.

The same reward of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS, will be paid for apprehending, & profecuting to conviction the feveral above described Offenders in respect to this, as to the last described bills.
