Lachawannock.

A LARGE body of LAND on this river and its waters, is now for sale to Settlers on.
The soil is remarkably fertile, and numerous streams of water are interspersed through the whole country.
The main river flows through one tract of about thirty thousand acres, and is with the exception of one obstruction, navigable to the Susquehanna.
Spring Brook Creek, which with its branches, waters another tract of about forty thousand acres of good Land, empty itself into the Lachawannock, about twelve miles from the Susquehanna.
It affords numerous Mill seats, and its course creates large bodies of well watered meadow ground.
The other tracts are intersected by creeks of considerable importance.
Several Mills are already erected for the accommodation of the settlers.
Roads are cut in different directions, towards the most convenient market.
The county town is not more than 12 miles distant from many parts of the settlement.
The Susquehanna affords an easy and safe navigation to Middleton, from whence the Canal to Schuylkill extends the communication to the city.
Another means of connection with Philadelphia, is by the Delaware, from which the distance in several places is about thirty miles.
The proprietors combining their own interest with that of the inhabitants, are disposed to erect works of public utility, open roads, &c. and in every ten miles square, a tract of one hundred acres is allotted for a School, and one hundred acres for the first resident clergyman of any denomination of Christians.

For further particulars apply to George Eddy.
Wilkes-Barre, Luzerne County,
Pennsylvania, July 9.
Letters directed to George Eddy, at Philadelphia, or this place, will be duly answered.

Effence for the Tooth-ach.

Prepared and sold by Dr. Lee, Golden Square, London.
THE public are offered one of the most efficacious and safe medicines, that ever appeared, for that most excruciating pain the tooth-ach. The numerous instances of its happy effects in relieving the afflicted, have now brought it into universal estimation; it not only relieves the tooth-ach, but is of the utmost service in curing the scurvy in the gums, in preventing the disagreeable smell that proceeds from unsound teeth, and occasioning a sweet breath; it likewise prevents the teeth from decaying, and will be found a general preserver of the teeth and gums.

City of Washington,

27th June 1794.

MR. FENNO,
A PUBLICATION of a...
the description No. 2, having appeared in Messrs. Angel and Sullivan's Baltimore Paper, we thought proper to publish in the same paper our disavowal of it; an advertisement has since been published in your paper, under date of the 7th inst, asserting that "for the Lottery No. 2, the securities already given will be retained by the Commissioners or transferred by them at their option to the Bank of Columbia," &c. &c. and since that a scheme of Lottery No. 3, has also been distributed with your papers in a supplement.
These publications may lead some to believe that Lottery No. 2, is carried on under the countenance of the commissioners; that security is lodged with them, and that they will see that the terms are complied with.
No security is lodged with us on account of any new Lottery, nor have we anything to do with any such, you will therefore oblige us by publishing this, and our former disavowal in due season.

TH. JOHNSON,

DAV. STUART, } Commissioners.
DAN. CARROLL }

City of Washington, May 17. 1794.

THE Commissioners have no further concern in the Lottery...
A naked permission for it—has already been advertised in Angel and Sullivan's Baltimore paper, under the description No. 2. Whether it comports with the laws of this State does not particularly concern us, but as, from the manner of the publication the public may possibly infer that the Lottery is raised with the approbation of the Commissioners, and that they will intend to the conduct of it, we think proper to declare that we have given no countenance to the publishing or carrying on this Lottery; nor will have any thing to do with the conduct of it.

ADVERTISEMENT

To the Public.

WHATEVER unworthy motive may have misled Messrs. Johnson & Co. to the attack on my plan for improving the Federal City, if I could discover a delusion in your paper of the 3d instant, I should remain silent from a conviction, that all parties are liable to suffer in the folly of a news paper controversy.
The schemes for the first and second Lotteries were first published by desire of the commissioners, after they had sent an express to Annapolis, to ascertain the legality of the measure, which a law of the State had rendered questionable. The following extracts from their letters will show the result of their inquiry.
Dated Jan. 6, 1793.

"This afternoon the return of our messenger furnished us with a copy of the late act of this State; we have the pleasure to find that the proposed Lottery will not fall within it; so that you have our permission, with the previous approbation of the President, to project, plan, and propose it as soon as you please."
Signed by the three Commissioners.

Extract from Mr. Carroll's letter, Jan. 6.

"I gave us all very great pleasure to find that the law did not prevent us from carrying into execution the intended Lottery, as it does not commence till the first of June, and any time which may be the proper, can be taken for the completion of it. The important effects from this, as well as from future Lotteries must be evident."
As it became legally necessary, I received the advice of the commissioners to publish the second Lottery, in May 1793, and informed them of my having made a sale of tickets prior to the first of June. The publication of the two Lotteries has continued most of the time since, in either the Annapolis or Baltimore papers, under the eye of the Commissioners, and the advertisement annexed to the scheme, as published in Mr. Fenno's and Messrs. Angel and Sullivan's papers, I have by me in the hand writing of Mr. Johnson. I am as sorry to find he has so soon forgot a child of his own, as I am that the commissioners should wait till more than twelve months have expired before they offered their objections to either Lottery. This is unfortunate for them, since it has left ground for suspicion, at least respecting the true cause of their present advertisement—which I believe to originate in a pique, or party spirit only; and have the following reasons in support of my belief.
Col. William Deakins and myself gave our bonds for a due performance of our trust—but noidea of a collateral security was ever even hinted, till an unfortunate misunderstanding arose respecting an important sale of the public lands.
As commissioner of sales, and as a donor of the public lands, it became my duty in a double capacity to state my objections, with those of most of the other city proprietors, which not having the weight we expected, I resigned from dissent, my office of supervisor, and commissioner of sales.

But at the request of some respectable proprietors, I agreed with the commissioners to act as an occasional agent for the city provided that no pay should be annexed to this employment, in which I still continue. About this time my pride in consequence of our misunderstanding, induced me to tender collateral security to the Commissioners, this being accepted, they wrote me the following letter, viz.

Washington, January 27, 1794.
SIR,
"We have written to the Secretary of State, through him informing the President that you have made us an offer of more ample security than what we thought sufficient, and have accepted for the payment of prizes. Through him we have also informed the President of our sentiments in favor of the second Lottery."
From the then advanced state of the two lotteries, I desired Mr. Johnson, one of the commissioners, to draw the bond and mortgage for both in one, and as his legal knowledge has never been questioned, I can scarcely believe that there was any deficiency from ignorance.
But if there should be any intentional neglect, or any other error in the case, the publication to alarm by way of complaint prior to any request made either directly or indirectly to me, in order that the deficiency may be supplied, is indeed cruel—because there are three to one, who acting in their official capacity, might possess unequal power, over any individual in my situation, while dependent on the assistance, or the public opinion, having pledged my character on the success of this favourite plan, viz. the building of six elegant houses by an easy mode, and in part by foreign funds.
Yet, if I may judge by letters from the proprietors of the City of Washington, by publications in the Columbia papers, or by the continued success of the Lottery—the Commissioners have missed their aim entirely.—The President of the Bank of Columbia, having kindly offered to receive my bonds and security on behalf of the public, I return him my grateful acknowledgements for this act of justice and charity.
If the Commissioners instead of an unwarrantable solicitation of doubt, will name a day when they really wish to effect a transfer they will be freed at once from every kind of concern in either Lottery. I am told two of these gentlemen in consequence of the disagreement with the proprietors, have sent in their resignation to the President—if so, it is perhaps incumbent on them to relieve themselves from their real or pretended burthen as early as possible. I have now only to assure the Public and the Proprietors, that no change of mind or person in the Commissioners, will affect my ardent endeavors to promote the general interest in the City of Washington, as long as life and health may permit.

The drawing will commence, under the inspection of a Committee of the Superintendants, as soon as the Tickets are sold, of which timely notice will be given.
The Superintendants have appointed John N. Cumming, of Newark, Jacob R. Hardenberg, of New-Brunswick, and Jonathan Rhea, of Trenton, as immediate Managers thereof, who have given ample security for discharging the trust reposed in them.
In order to secure the punctual payment of the Prizes, the Superintendants of the Lottery have directed that the Managers shall each enter into bonds in 40,000 dollars, with four sufficient securities, to perform their instructions, the substance of which is
I. That whenever either of the Managers shall receive the sum of Three Hundred Dollars, he shall immediately place the same in one of the Banks of New-York or Philadelphia, to the credit of the Governor of the Society, and such of the Superintendants as live in the city where the monies are placed, to remain there until the Lottery is drawn, for the payment of the Prizes.
II. That the Managers to take sufficient security for any Tickets they may trust, otherwise to be responsible for them.
III. To keep regular books of Tickets sold, Monies received and paid into the Bank, abstracts of which shall be sent, monthly, to the Governor of the Society.
Paterson, January 1, 1794.
On application to either of the above gentlemen, information will be given where tickets may be had.
