16,799 Prizes
33,261 Blanks
50,000 Tickets at 8 dollars 400,000 This Lottery will afford an elegant specimen of the private buildings to be erected in the City of Washington—Two beautiful designs are already selected for the entire fronts on two of the public squares; from these drawings, it is proposed to erect two centre and four corner buildings, as soon as possible after this Lottery is sold, and to convey them when complete, to the fortunate adventurers; in the manner described in the scheme for the Hotel Lottery. A nett deduction of five per cent. will be made to defray the necessary expences of printing, &c. and the surplus will be made a part of the fund intended for the National University, to be erected within the City of Washington.
The drawing will commence as soon as the Tickets are sold, or at all events on Monday, the 22nd of December next: The money prizes will be payable in thirty days after it is finished, and any prizes for which fortunate numbers are not produced within twelve months after the drawing is closed are to be considered as given towards the fund for the University, it being determined to settle the whole business in a year from the ending of the drawing and to take up the bonds given as security.
The real securities given for the payment of the Prizes, are held by the President and two Directors of the Bank of Columbia, and are valued at more than half the amount of the Lottery. The drawing will be under the management of 24 gentlemen approved by the commissioners for the City of Washington, for the time being, and acting on oath.
* * * Tickets may be had at the Bank of Columbia; of James West & Co. Baltimore; of Gideon Denison, Savannah; of Peter Gilman, Boston; of John Hopkins, Richmond; and of Richard Wells, Cooper's ferry.

50 Dollars Reward.
RAN away very unexpectedly from the Subscriber, on Saturday the 11th October, A Mulatto Man, named George, by his acquaintance called George Evans, about 25 years old, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, straight and well made He has long bushy black hair, which he commonly wears qned, his cheek bones rather high, his laugh simple; he has always served as a waiter, was a favorite servant, and spoiled by excessive indulgence, understands dressing and shaving, and plays well on the violin: he took with him a brown fustian coat and jacket, bound with yellow silk ferrett, a pair of light coloured fagathy breeches and half boots; as he had many other cloaths of cloth and light summer wear, it is probable he may change his dress, it is supposed he has crossed over into Virginia.
Whoever secures the above man shall receive the above reward, and reasonable charges shall be brought home.
All Masters of Vessels will receive him on board at their peril.

C O N G R E S S .

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Wednesday, November 26, 1794.

Debate on Mr. Fitzsimons's motion relative to self-created societies.

Mr. Ames began with expressing his pleasure that he had fat down, to give way for Mr. Scott to speak; but this every one must see was attended with a personal fa-cificence; as it was manifestly a disadvantage to bring forward his observations immediately after those of that gentleman, because they were two remarkable for their pertinence and strength to encourage the attempts of their opponents to invalidate, or his own to enforce them.

He requested Mr. Giles, and he urged it strongly on the House, to consider maturely how large a part of the argument he had to answer. Mr. Giles had been occupied in refuting what nobody had asserted, and in proving what nobody had denied. It would appear to every person, at a glance that, after so large a deduction should be made, the advocate of the amendment would be left almost without an adversary.

He observed, it would be amusing, and not without its uses, to turn a moment from the debate, to enquire what would be said of yesterday's decision. Fame already bears it on all her wings, and proclaims it with all her tongues, that Congress had been engaged in trying the Democratic Clubs; and curiosity stands a tip-toe on all our post roads for the answer, which is already gone forth. Forty-seven members were for the clubs, and forty-five against them, so that the clubs gained the victory.

Is this true? "I dare appeal," said Mr.
Ames, "to you, sir, and to every other patriotic bosom, that it is not true; a large majority, and I may even say, "with pride and pleasure, almost all the members who hear me, despise and abominate the clubs as sincerely as the words "of the President's speech, the answer "of the Senate, his reply to them, or the "amendment now before us can imply it." How happens it, that the real sentiments of the House are so much misrepresented by the vote? I shall be pardoned if I undertake to explain this enigma. Two reasons have been suggested in private conversation as well as in debate, which will account for the vote of yesterday, and which on being stated and re-examined, will afford good cause for changing it to day. The first is, that we have nothing to do with the clubs. We hold them in too much contempt to have any thing to say to them, or about them. They are not worth notice.
This contempt had the appearance yesterday of countenance and patronage.

The other motive suggested is, if the words self-created societies should be struck out, the amendment will still contain the substance of the proposition still contended for; which is to reprobate the combinations of men against law. This description will include the clubs, as well as any other wicked combinations that have had any agency in the insurrection.

How far the one or the other of these motives ought to influence those who have entertained them, to vote against the amendment for inserting the words self-created societies and will appear by a survey of the true posture of the question.

Here Mr. Ames stated, that it was the duty of the President, by the constitution, to inform Congress of the state of the Union.
That he had accordingly in his speech stated the insurrection and the causes that (he thought) had brought it on. Among the he explicitly reckons the self-created societies and combinations of men to be one. The Senate as plainly charge that as one of the causes, the President in his reply to the Senate, expresses his high satisfaction that they concur with him in opinion. Here Mr. Ames read the passages in the speech, address and answer to the address. He said further that an amendment was now offered to the house, expressed, as nearly, as may be, in the very words of the President—an objection is urged against this amendment that the proposition contained in it is not true in fact.
It is also said, that although it were true, it would be dangerous to liberty, to assent to it in our answer to the speech. It is moreover, say they, improper, unnecessary and indecent to mention the self-created societies. The amendment now urged upon the house has been put to vote in committee of the whole house, and rejected. What will the world say, and that too from the evidence of our own records, if we reject it again in the house?
Will it not be proclaimed that we reject the motion and give force and validity to the objections? Do we adopt such objections, are the committee consenting to the shame of having them charged upon the committee as the principles by which they have guided our decision? We are not, Mr. Ames was sure, we are not, for with a very few exceptions, "I wish these
