SHAKSPEARE'S WORKS. FIRST AMERICAN EDITION.

Mountford, Bioren & Co.

Proposals for Printing by Subscription, THE WHOLE

Dramatic Works WILLIAM SHAKSPEARE,

IN EIGHT DUODECIMO VOLUMES,
At One Dol'ar each

CONDITIONS.

I. This Work will be comprized in Eight Duodecimo Volumes, printed on a fine American paper, in a fule of Typographical Elegance that shall restect the highest credit on the American press.

II That it shall be embellished with a beautiful Frontispiece of Shakspeare—engraved by the best American Artist.

III. That the price to Subscribers will be EIGHT DOLLARS, one dollar to be paid on subscribing, and one dollar on the receipt of every succeeding volume but the last:—to enable the Pub ishers to pursue with convenience this arduous undertaking.

IV. Each volume shall be delivered in blue boards to the Subscribers immediately on the publication of every volume with best impressions of the Frontispiece—the price to be raised to Non-Subscribers.

V. That the names of the Subscribers will be printed to record the patrons of this endeavour to encourage the useful and elegant Arts in America.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THAT Shakspeare has followed nature with such truth and correctness, as to render his Works the delight of all nations, however differing in customs and manners from his own, is a fact which more than centuries of universal approbation have fossible to possible the care of universal approbation have fossible to post rity to discharge, and in proportion to the progress of taste and literature, the gratitude of mankind has endeadoured to acknowledge the obligation.

England has exhibited her tavourite Authors with splendor, and it is hoped that America that feat of true liberty, will not be backward in encouraging this sit st great attempt to do merited justice to the author of this Dramatic Work.

The selection therefore, of this incomparable Production for an ELEGANT AMERICAN EDITION, requiring no just sit and a few observations on the cla m which such undertakings have to natangage in America.

can edition, requiring no justification, to old remains for the Publishers to add a few observations on the cla m which such undertakings have to patronage in America—a country, which for liberty none can equal and should necessarily be the nurse and patron of the Arts. And tho' to rival the Eastern country, may fern shopless in us—yet it is surely a laudable endeavour to excite that encouragement here, which should be always offered to improvement and excellence. Indeed the zeal which has appeared in America, since the permanent establishment of the present happy constitution, for patronizing the arts, whilst it has produced and rewarded a multitude of works which immortalize the artists, has also exalted the character of the nation, and given dignity to the people whose patriotism and muniscence have promoted their discovery of perfection.

America is not insensible to the value of character, and will assume her rank amongst mations as an encourager of the arts. It would therefore be an impeachment of her understanding and patriotism, it a doubt were entertained of her possessing a port on would therefore be an impeachment of the understanding and patriotism, it a doubt were entertained of her possessing a portion of that spirit which so clevates the eastern world, a spirit which considered in a national point of view, is one of the most prasses worthy in the catalogue of public virtues; as it contributes to the best interests of society, by promoting, industry, cherishing genius, multiplying the rational enjoyments of life, and exciting a general taste for the beautiful and the excellent.

In the hope their that the humble effort beautiful and the excellent.

In the hope then that the humble effort here proposed may interest this spirit, and have some claim to general encouragement, it has been undertaken.

The attention which shall be paid to the correctness and beauty of the Printing, will evince the desire of the publishers to present their country with an edition worthy of the inimitable shash spears.

The Publishers assume the Patrons of this undertaking, they will discharge their engagement with strict probity and honor, and therefore hope they may justly claim public confidence and support.

Subscriptions will be received at Stephens's Book-Store, No. 37, South Secondstreet, and at the Publishers No. 75. Dock street, and at the Publishers No. 75. Dock street, and at the Philadelphia 75. Dock fireet, and at the Philadelphia Coffee House.
